EDEN PROMISES BRITAIN'S HELP TO CRUSH JAPAN

Discusses War Aims of Allies.

Annapolis, Md., March 26 (AP).—Britain is out to crush Japan as well as Germany, Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, assured Americans tonight; there will be no rest until both ends of the axis have been smashed.

"Let there be no mistake," Eden said in an address before the Maryland state assembly which was broadcast to the nation by radio, "we shall not rest upon our arms until every one of our enemies has unconditionally surrendered. We, no less than you, and our partner China, have a score to settle with the Japanese; nor shall we cease fighting until that evil growth in the Pacific has been cut back. We shall be with you in this to the end."

Encouragement for China.

"Let China not misdoubt us," he said. "We shall not forget how for years she resisted aggression single-handed. The day will come when the Burma road will once again be open."

His positive assertion concerning war to the end against Japan, and his remarks about China seemed designed to counteract the undercurrent of anxiety noticeable in some comments on Prime Minister Churchill's Sunday broadcast.

Altho Churchill spoke of punishing Japan and rescuing China, his suggestion of a partial demobilization after Germany's defeat and his omission of China in mentioning the great powers led to expressions of uneasiness in some quarters here and in China.

Eden, who came to this country to discuss war and post-war questions, mentioned only briefly his fortnight of talks with President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull, and others.

"You will not expect, I trust, sudden and sensational developments, for there will be none," Eden said. "But there has been a meeting of minds between us about the present and the future that will, we are sure, bear fruit."

Hits at Isolationism.

Declaring that in the period between the two World wars the intentions of the peace-loving nations were excellent but their practice weak, Eden said:

"If there is one lesson we should have learned from the distresses of those years, it is surely this: that we cannot shut our windows and draw our curtains, and be careless of what is happening next door or on the other side of the street. No nation can close its frontiers and hope to live secure."

Of all peace aims the greatest, Eden stressed, is "to insure that never again shall unscrupulous leaders be able to carry their peoples into war and bring tragedy on the world."

"And one thing, I am sure," Eden added, "is above all essential. Never again must the civilized world be ready to tolerate unilateral infraction of treaties. For that would be to sap the whole foundation of the secure international life which it is our principal purpose to restore."

Denies Secret Engagements.

Here Eden emphasized that Britain has "no secret engagements with any country, nor do we seek as a result of this conflict to extend our boundaries or increase our possessions."

"We in the British commonwealth," he said, "have grown up in the thought of coöperation. Some parts of the commonwealth— the self governing dominions—enjoy complete independence, while otherr are moving toward this goal.

"The British empire is the first in history to evolve the idea of self-governing dominions. That is an entirely new conception in the world. We believe that it can help us to reach our common aim, man's freedom and self-government under the rule of law.

"It is in this spirit," Eden continued, with possible reference to India's demands for independence and their repercussion in the United States, "that we shall administer our trust for the peoples in our empire, whom it is our duty and our pledge to lead to full membership of our community of nations."

U.S. ARMY FIGHTS TO KEEP ENEMY PINNED TO SEA

Holds Road Despite Counter-Blow.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, March 26 (AP).—Infantry of the British 8th army in southern Tunisia slowly inched forward into the fortifications of the Mareth line under a hail of gunfire today.

American forces 70 miles to the northwest fought grimly to keep Marshal Erwin Rommel's flank pinned to the east coast of Tunisia.

The seventh night of Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's attack on the deep Mareth belt of minefields and pillboxes [20 miles southeast of the axis port of Gabes] backed up by concentrations of armor and artillery found the British and the axis still locked in a struggle reminiscent of the first world war's many "battles of position and attrition."

No Word of Flanking Force.

There was complete absence of information on the situation in the El Hamma area, where units of the 8th army had struck far around and into the rear of the Mareth line. But continued heavy attacks by the allies' western desert air force on enemy armor in the vicinity of El Hamma indicated that the flanking British force was holding its initial gains there despite its long supply line.

El Hamma is 20 miles west of Gabes. The British at last reports were about eight miles south of the axis' El Hamma air base.

[The Algiers radio said the British before El Hamma were meeting an "extremely dense anti-tank defense system," but that they had captured the height of Djebel Tobaga, dominating Gabes. There was no allied confirmation of this report.]

Today's allied communique gave the first indication that Montgomery's fighters had recovered completely from the setback they suffered last Tuesday, when great forces of German tanks and infantry threw them back to their original positions.

Americans Hold Road.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr.'s American forces maintained their threat against Rommel's escape corridor to the north.

American troops entrenched on the heights dominating Guetaria pass, thru which runs the southernmost road from Gafsa to the sea, were counter-attacked again by German infantry seeking to infiltrate and outflank their rocky positions.

Altho the Germans got a foothold on the southern slopes of Djebel Derba, which is on the south side of the pass, front line dispatches said the Americans kept control of the road. Djebel Derba is 20 miles southeast of Gafsa. Patton's other American forces were engaged in difficult mopping up operations against the enemy holding high ground five miles south of Maknassy and elsewhere in the long Orbata range. [The Americans previously had been reported 28 miles from the Tunisian coast to the sea.]

Planes Blast Axis Troops.

The allied western desert air force continued to dominate its sphere of the fighting, sweeping low in great numbers to blast the enemy's troops, armor, and fortifications and detaching scores of heavy bombers to destroy his harbors, landing fields, and shipping.

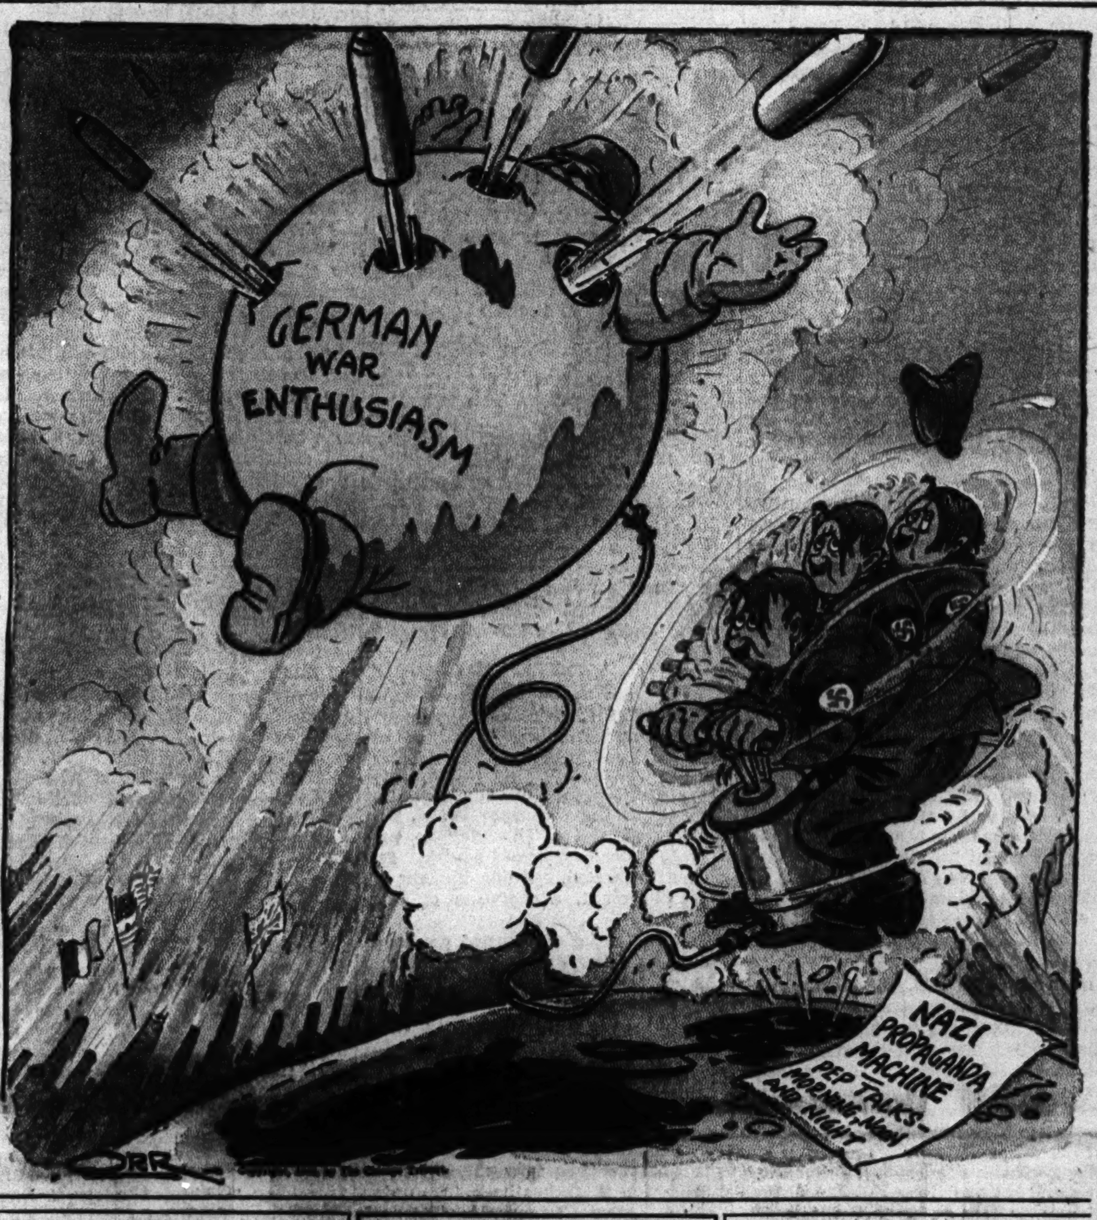
American Flying Fortresses sank a small ship at Sousse on the Tunisian coast, damaged a large vessel and started fires in the docks area. Escorting Lightnings shot down an enemy interceptor and shot up motor barges off the Tunisian coast.

HERE ARE AXIS CLAIMS.

Axis communiques testified to the bitterness of the conflict. The Italian war bulletin, broadcast from Rome, said renewed allied attacks were repelled and "losses inflicted on the enemy [in an unstated period] have risen to 294 prisoners, 65 tanks, and 16 guns."

The German version, broadcast from Berlin, said thrusts of importance carried out by British and American formations on the Tunisian front collapsed "whereas one of our own counter-thrusts [the sector not specified] proved successful."

GOT 'EM WORKING OVERTIME



Nurse Wins 1st U.S. Air Medal Given Woman

Louisville, Ky., March 26 (AP).—The first air medal ever won by a woman was awarded today to 2d Lt. Elsie S. Ott, St. James, N. Y., 29 year old air evacuation nurse of the 1st troop carrier command.

The decoration was presented in ceremonies at Bowman field army air base here by Brig. Gen. Fred S. Borum, commanding general of the first troop carrier command, acting for Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces.

Lt. Ott won the medal for her service as a nurse to five seriously ill officers and enlisted men when they were taken by air from India to the Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C.

Flies 10,000 Miles.

In a seven day flight over 10,000 miles of jungle and ocean, she cared for the five men with only the aid of a ward man.

Today she related that she was given only a few hours notice of the experimental flight at the hospital where she was serving in India.

"I was the envy of all the other nurses," she said, "but I was a bit apprehensive, too. It was my very first flight."

None of the patients was air sick, but Lt. Ott was on the first day. One patient needed frequent attention, and she had to care for him with limited medical supplies.

The trip was made in two planes, with a disarmed bomber being used on the second lap. Neither ship was equipped to carry casualties. Stops were made at night, and at one point the party reached a hospital where the men were cared for and Lt. Ott was quartered in nurses' barracks. But, she said, she didn't enjoy her sleep. She imagined she still was aboard the plane, where she took occasional cat naps, and expected to be bounced out of bed at any moment.

Wins Two Weeks' Leave.

Water was limited, and the patients were permitted to drink only when desperately thirsty.

The lieutenant received two weeks' leave on reaching this country, learned of the new air evacuation training, applied for it, and was transferred to the nurses' school here.

She declared her medal was a tribute to all air evacuation nurses, "any of whom, given the opportunity, would have done as well."

Lt. Ott became a part of the army nurses' corps in September, 1941. She was sent abroad in February, 1942.

ADIEU, POP-UP CURB ON OUTER DRIVE! WAR REDUCES LANES' NEED

Pop-up curbings, which make a section of Chicago's Outer drive the only road of its kind in the world in that it can be either a two, four, six, or eight lane highway, were added yesterday to the list of items lost to war.

Otto Jelinek, park district traffic manager, said that because Outer drive traffic had been reduced 48 per cent, the need for the curbings no longer existed and so only the center curbing, making two four lane highways, would be used.

The three rows of curbings will be raised and lowered on their hydraulic jacks only enough to "exercise" them, Jelinek said, thus saving the cost of electricity. Labor saving will be nil, he said, since the curbings are moved by touching a button.

The curbings, stretching two and a half miles, came thru their first winter "very satisfactorily," he added. Workmen, however, are still installing a few missing valves and making improvements.

Jelinek said it was impossible to estimate the cost of the curbing system because drainage was combined with it. He pointed out, however, that by making eight lanes do the work of 12 the curbings cut paving costs 45 per cent.

GERMANS LEVEL DUTCH BUILDINGS TO GUARD COAST

LONDON, March 26 (AP).—The Netherlands information service today reported the entire coastal area of Holland inland for a distance of nearly 15 miles was being cleared of inhabitants by the Germans, who were wrecking thousands of buildings and erecting coastal defenses against an allied invasion. It said that probably 24,000 houses had been destroyed in The Hague alone.

The Belgian news agency Inbel reported the Germans were extending their defenses along the Belgian coast and had ordered all former members of the disbanded Belgian army evacuated.

A Stockholm dispatch estimated at least 800,000 Dutchmen had been evacuated from the coast.

Talk May Be Cheap, but Tongue Is Another Matter

Santa Monica, Cal., March 26 (AP).—Verne Orr, Lions club luncheon speaker, had this to say of meat rationing: "I appreciate what our chaplain said in praying for wisdom from our speaker. However, I noted that a value of six points has been placed on tongue and only four points on brains."

Don, 13, Sets Marine Faces Aglow 2d Time

Mrs. Thelma Tosta of Rural Route No. 1, Elmhurst, and the Chicago recruiting office of the marines apparently are faced with one task that is too much for them—keeping Mrs. Tosta's 13 year old son, Donald, out of the marine corps.

Donald Tosta.

Quick thinking and speedy action on the part of Mrs. Tosta rescued Donald Dec. 12, a few minutes before a consignment of recruits he was with left for the west coast from the La Salle street station.

Scatters Misleading Hints.

On this occasion Mrs. Tosta went to the station and, grasping her son by the ear, marched him out of the station after delivering a lecture to the red faced sergeant in charge.

Last Friday the boy turned up missing again. More adroit this time, he had scattered hints among his school friends that he was joining the air forces. To gain time, he thoughtfully omitted to specify whether the army or navy.

After a week of fruitlessly canvassing all army and navy recruiting offices, Mrs. Tosta was about to give up when it occurred to her that Donald might have tried the marines again.

She inquired of marine recruiting officers, and after a thoro search of their files it was discovered that Donald had tried again, and this time had succeeded.

Officer Angrier than Mother.

He had enlisted under his father's name of Dominic Ciccotosto, a ruse which his mother suggested to officers when the name of Tosta was not found in the files. Donald had produced a faked birth certificate. He was now in San Diego, they said.

"If you think I was mad, you should have seen that general or whoever was in charge," Mrs. Tosta said. "He fairly tore his hair."

Mrs. Tosta was informed she could have her son back. "In fact, they seemed glad of the chance to give him back" — but it will take from four to six weeks, the officers said.

"Unless they send a guard with him we'll have to go thru this again," Mrs. Tosta said.

"I've about decided the only way to keep him from fooling recruiting officers is to have his birth date tattooed on his back."

Lewis Gunmen Raided Union, Says Hillman

CARROZZO'S RULE.

Today's instalment of the series in which The Tribune has been telling the grip of the Nitti-Ricca-Campagna gang over Chicago labor unions, is found on page 10. It tells of the power wielded by William E. Maloney and Mike Carrozzo over paving.

New York, March 26 [Special].—John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union today was accused of using blackjacks and revolvers in attempts to unionize workers in the clothing industry.

The accusation was made in a letter to Lewis by Sidney Hillman, president of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, who charged that two of his officials were severely beaten in a raid on their headquarters and that a union organizer barely missed losing his life when his wallet stopped a .44 caliber bullet.

The Hillman letter charged that UMW's district 50, Lewis' catch-all union for dairy farmers and an almost unlimited variety of other workers, has started to organize already unionized shirt makers in La Follette, Tenn., "culminating in the pistol beating" of the two officials there last Monday.

Jurisdictional Fight Looms.

The Hillman letter aired what may lead to a headlong jurisdictional fight between the clothing and mine workers' presidents who for years have managed publicly to suppress a deep personal hostility for each other.

Its timing was considered particularly significant in labor circles, since the Truman committee is expected to question Lewis in Washington about jurisdictional disputes in the labor movement.

The men were beaten up, declared the Hillman statement which was given out at his headquarters in New York, "after district 50 announced its plan to invade the shirt industry in La Follette where the Amalgamated has been in contractual relations for the past seven years."

Ask if Lewis Approved.

In the letter Hillman asks Lewis whether he or any of his officials sanctioned the raid, 95 per cent of the work turned out in the two factories involved comes under war contracts, the Amalgamated said.

Eight John Doe warrants have been sworn out in Knoxville, Tenn., according to the Amalgamated statement, and its two officials "blamed the attacks on United Mine Workers district 50."

Official "Order" Shown.

In Knoxville the News Sentinel reported that Ed Blair, 26 year old Amalgamated business agent and one of the alleged victims, exhibited a photostatic copy of what he said was an official order circulated by William Turnblazer, president of district 19, UMW, covering border counties of east Tennessee and southeastern Kentucky.

"This is to advise that some two weeks ago district 50 started a campaign to organize the two shirt factories in La Follette, of which district 19 is wholeheartedly asked to coöperate in this campaign.

"Ex-sheriff Clifford M. Lay, a former coal miner and member of the UMWA, has been commissioned as a representative of district 50 and works under my instructions and is in full charge of the La Follette area.

"It is the duty of each and every member of your local union to get behind the representatives of the UMW and help get these shirt workers into the United Mine Workers and I trust you will coöperate to the fullest extent in this matter."

EAGER BUYERS FORM LINES TO SNAP UP STOCK

Predict Shortage to Be More Acute.

The meat shortage sweeping the country became acute yesterday in Chicago, the world's greatest meat packing center. Many shops ran out of supplies before noon and were forced to close. Nearly 30 per cent of the city's 6,000 markets, about 1,800, are expected to remain shut today.

John A. Kotal, executive secretary of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, made the prediction. He said conditions are even worse in Milwaukee, where 50 per cent will not open today, and in Cincinnati, O., where the shutdown may reach 75 per cent.

The critical condition was recognized last night by Prentiss Brown, federal price administrator, who said in Washington, D. C., that "There has been an extraordinary demand for meat in the last three days."

New York Gets Windfall.

However, while Chicago and other large cities faced a growing scarcity, New York received a windfall of an additional 1,000,000 pounds of meat thru an authorization by the office of price administration.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia had certified the shortage there to be so critical as "to endanger public health and morale and the war effort."

Wilson & Co. officials last night said permission had been issued them by the OPA to release meat for New York, but indicated the amount was substantially less than the million pounds announced by Mayor La Guardia and that they didn't know yet where the supply was coming from.

Thruout the week Chicago housewives upon whom the chief task of supplying dinner tables falls, besieged meat stores, stocking up with what meats were available, especially those least perishable. Many sought to buy enough meat for seven to 10 days, but few were successful because butchers had no excess supplies and because few meats can be preserved long.

Stocks Melt Swiftly.

The week-long rush had its impact upon counter refrigerators and meat store coolers. Counters are bare and hooks empty.

Meat shops yesterday in many cases were cleaned out in two hours. At others lines of 100 to 200 potential buyers formed; in some fist fights broke out. At the big Fulton street market one large wholesaler hung out the "sold out" sign in 30 minutes after a buying spree by 200 retailers.

Poultry dealers also felt the run. With fowl on the unrationed list, many sought to stock up with cold storage chickens and turkeys. Some wholesalers found it necessary to ration their supplies. Fish dealers also experienced rush orders.

Packer spokesmen, OPA observers, and retail meat dealers expressed hope that when rationing starts Monday the condition will be eased. Ration schedules indicate, however, that few consumers will get as much as they may want.

Hope All Will Get Some.

"While the meat industry hopes that rationing will level off supplies so that everybody will get some," said one industry spokesman, "it is well to remember that food coupons do not produce meat. Possession of coupons does not mean meat will be available."

He said that not only have government quotas restricted the supplies to civilian consumption, but the black market has restricted the live stock supplies to the packers. Some packers, he said, even may be unable to fulfill their quotas because of black market competition. The black market will pay more than the regulated packer to the farmer, he pointed out, and of course, receive more for dressed meat from the public than the legitimate retailer can obtain.

Part of the meat shortage results from the fact that the packers are at the end of the March production quotas permitted by the OPA.

Quotas Reduce Supplies.

Under OPA regulations, packers may deliver to their customers only a stated and varying percentage of what they delivered in the corresponding period of 1941. This has been roughly estimated to be 70 per cent, less fresh demands by the army, navy, and lend-lease, so that actually the delivered supply would be less than 70 per cent. Beef and pork deliveries currently have been nearer 60 per cent of the March period in 1941, it is said. Furthermore, indications are that under the April-June slaughter quotas, civilians will get even less.

Owners of pets accustomed to red meat were advised, in view of the shortage, to try horse meat, now available at some chain stores and other shops. Cows' cheeks are not to be rationed and may be used for broth over cereals. The dog pound has used cereal food for years.

The new table of point values for processed foods to be announced tomorrow will become effective Monday instead of April 1, as originally announced, said Raymond S. McKeough, regional OPA chief. Housewives will profit from the deal in that their A, B, C, or March coupons, which become invalid at midnight Wednesday, will be good on the new schedule.

4 SOLDIERS JOIN IN CONDEMNING WORK SLACKERS

Industrial absentees were branded "slacking civilians" in a letter received yesterday by Municipal Judge Harold P. O'Connell from four South Chicago soldiers stationed at Fort Bliss, Tex., who had heard of the judge's campaign against absenteeism.

"I am surprised to hear of what we call here in the army 'slacking civilians,' said the letter, which was written by Dominick M. Stachurski and signed also by Edward Skrzekut, John Gutterez and Joseph Block. "We just can't imagine people being so darned low as getting intoxicated and not showing up at their defense jobs the next morning.

"I wish you would read this letter to the next man who comes up before you for not showing up at work because he was drunk. It may be his son he is deceiving because he failed to go to his job. We need everything you can give us from the steel mill area. The steel worker is our only hope, so you keep them rolling and we'll keep them falling and we'll all come out on top."

JARECKI SCANS NEFF EVIDENCE FOR VOTE FRAUDS

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, as head of the election machinery in Chicago, said yesterday that he is investigating the evidence of 1st ward voting frauds introduced in the Dowd-Neff state senate election contest. The official canvass had shown Hobart E. Neff, Republican, was defeated by 759 votes by Lawrence E. Dowd, Democrat and intimate of Michael [Hinky Dink] Kenna.

"Members of the election board staff have been attending some of the hearings and are closely in touch with all of the developments in the contest," Judge Jarecki said. "Prosecution will be launched in cases where the evidence justifies it, altho the office now is carrying a heavy load in preparing for the April 6 election."

Judge Jarecki said he also is investigating vote fraud charges given publicity by the Chicago Crime commission.

NAVY RESCINDS PORTLAND BAN ON SHORE LEAVE

Portland, Me., March 26 (AP).—The navy's one day ban on shore liberty in Portland for men of the fleet has been lifted, Capt. Robert Porter, chief of staff to the senior officer, said today.

Capt. Porter said yesterday the ban was ordered in protest against published statements regarding the behavior of sailors and what the navy termed "inhospitable" treatment of navy men in Portland.

He said the ban had been intended primarily for one day only with the idea that corrective action would be taken or "at least with the hope it would be."

Go Joyriding Hard Way, in Stolen Concrete Mixer

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—Police wondered today why any one would want to joyride in a 12 ton mobile concrete mixer. Soon after the mixer was reported stolen, police heard it had been seen eleven blocks away where it knocked over a traffic sign. An hour later, the mixer was found on another street, with a dented fender, but no driver.

BRIEF OPPOSES JOINT ACTION IN CITIZENSHIP CASE

Consolidation of the government's denaturalization proceedings against nine former bund members would be prejudicial to Frank Otto Schoennagel, one of the defendants, Atty. Samuel S. Brown contended yesterday in a brief filed in the federal court of Judge William J. Campbell.

Schoennagel's loyalty to the United States should not be measured by what the eight other defendants have done, or the bund, the brief averred. Schoennagel is unaquainted with the other defendants, Brown said.

Other defendants in the case are: Dr. Otto A. Willumeit, former leader of the bund here; Karl Hermann Sautter, Hugo Johannes Leethje, Ernest Henry Scharf, Carl August Vogl, Frederick Ohrt, Friederich Kiefer, and Mrs. Irene Matz.

The defendants have been given until noon today to file their answers to the government's consolidation motion, and then, under court procedure, the government will have five days in which to answer. No oral arguments on the motion will be heard.

PEACE PLAN TALE DENIED IN LONDON BY SPANISH ENVOY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.— The duke of Alba, Spanish ambassador who recently returned to London after a visit to Switzerland, denied today he had been the bearer of a peace plan from Adolf Hitler. He said that he had stopped at Stuttgart, Germany, only long enough to change airplanes, which "only meant stepping out of one and into another."

"How could I get any peace plan?" he asked. "Impossible."

The duke, who is 64 years old, looked fit. He said that while in Switzerland, "I went to Lausanne to see my king," referring to Don Juan, the Spanish pretender. Asked whether he thought Juan would return to Madrid, the duke threw up his hands and said, "I am no prophet."

U.S. Officers Dance with Britain's Princess Elizabeth

LONDON, March 26.—United States army officers shared with British army officers last night the privilege of dancing with Princess Elizabeth, heir presumptive to the British throne and her younger sister, Princess Margaret Rose. The occasion was a party given in advance of Princess Elizabeth's 17th birthday, April 21. The party was given by King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth somewhere in the countryside.

London Prices Nosedive as Spring Flowers Arrive

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—The first consignment of spring flowers since the lifting of the government ban on transport by train arrived in London today from western England. More than 4,000 boxes went on sale and prices dropped in the shops from $1.10 to 70 cents a bunch for the best of daffodils. The price was still 50 to 100 per cent above last year.

3 MILLION MORE FARM WORKERS TO ESCAPE DRAFT

F.D.R. Plans 'Land Army' for Food Production.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—Formation of a land army of 3½ million men deferred from military service to produce food for victory will be a major task of Chester C. Davis, newly named food czar, President Roosevelt announced today.

Already 550,000 farmers have been deferred from military service. By the end of the year 3 million more between the ages of 18 and 37 inclusive will be deferred, the President said.

Of the 3 million Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, head of the selective service system, estimates will be deferred for farm work by the end of the year, 400,000 will be single men and 2,600,000 married, Mr. Roosevelt said.

Davis Gets Full Control.

The chief executive formally transferred full authority over food production and distribution to Davis. At his semi-weekly press conference, the President announced Davis will have full control over all farm and food prices, especially retail prices of interest to every consumer.

However, in exercising this portion of his duties, Davis will not supersede the office of price administration, headed by Prentiss M. Brown, the President said. Brown and Davis will collaborate in complete harmony, the President predicted.

Wickard Sidetracked.

While the food production and distribution administration is set up within the department of agriculture, it will operate as an autonomous agency and Davis will report directly to the White House and not thru the department of agriculture. This statement confirmed the accepted capital opinion that in the creation of the new post Mr. Roosevelt had short circuited Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, who had been under heavy fire from the home, farm, congressional, and official fronts.

Wickard, who was stripped of his major duties by the creation of the new unit, appeared at the White House this afternoon for the weekly cabinet meeting and was asked whether he planned to resign.

"I don't think so," he replied.

Plan to Furlough Farmers.

At his press conference Mr. Roosevelt said he was convinced the nation can plant and harvest enough food to take care of the civilian population, the fighting forces, and continue lend-lease aid. In addition to the deferments, he said thousands of army men will be furloughed temporarily for farm work.

In this connection the President disclosed the war production board is correcting mistakes made by Wall Street farmers on its staff who curbed the production of farm machinery. The agency has now allotted what is believed to be enough steel to permit the manufacture of vitally needed farm implements.

Large manufacturers of farm equipment whose plants had been converted to war purposes will return in part to the manufacture of farm machinery. Smaller manufacturers will be given materials and priorities to turn out quotas of implements.

Expect Millions from Cities.

Mr. Roosevelt employed the term "land army." While he expressed himself not completely satisfied with it, he said he could not think of any better. In addition to the 3½ million deferred workers, it was estimated that it will be swelled by some 5 million men on farms and in cities.

The President revealed that the idea was borrowed from Great Britain where food production was increased about 60 per cent thru a land army. In Britain city people with little farm experience were put to tilling the soil.

WLB AID HALTS STRIKE OF 2,000 AT SOUP PLANT

A strike of 2,000 employés of the Campbell Soup company, 2550 West 35th street, was settled late yesterday afternoon after the intervention of Samuel Edes, assistant director of disputes of the war labor board. The strike was called Thursday to protest the discharge of several employés for wearing union buttons inside the plant, a violation of company rules.

Edes said the discharged employés would be reinstated immediately and the question of the right to wear union designations at work will be referred to the national war labor board in Washington, D. C., for settlement.

Company officials said the plant will reopen on Monday after depleted supplies have been replaced. They said it was impossible to estimate at the present time how much loss of production there has been. The union is the United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing and Allied Workers of America [CIO].

CHOICE OF DAVIS AS CZAR LAUDED BY FOOD GROUPS

Burocratic Obstacles Are Expected to End.

Agricultural, live stock, dairy, and retail meat associations were unanimous yesterday in approval of President Roosevelt's appointment of Chester C. Davis as administrator of the new food production and distribution agency. All organizations expressed confidence in his qualifications for the job and his ability to alleviate the food crisis.

Spokesmen for the various industry associations declared that Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, whom Davis succeeds as national food administrator, was a "victim of circumstance." They said he was "hamstrung" by other federal agencies in the tremendous task of feeding American military forces, allies, and civilians.

See End of Interference.

They said they are certain Davis will be relatively free from such interference because "he was smart enough to take the new job only on his own terms."

Comments of organizations follow:

American Farm Bureau federation, Edward A. O'Neal, president: "Chester C. Davis is an old friend of the farmers, who long has enjoyed their full confidence. We are naturally gratified that the President has given him this high responsibility. In order for him to accomplish the full measure of success in this tremendous job, he must be given greater leeway than heretofore given Secretary Wickard and be free from the obstacles of conflicting administrative authority which have confronted Secretary Wickard. In particular, the food administrator must have control over food prices if he is to obtain maximum production. Agriculture must be fully recognized as a vital war industry."

Has Farm Experience.

Illinois Agricultural association: "We are happy with the appointment of Chester C. Davis. He understands farm conditions. He has had long experience in farm work and is in a position to know what is necessary to carry out war food production."

National Live Stock Marketing association, P. O. Wilson, executive secretary: "Agriculture and the live stock industry have confidence in Davis. He has the qualifications, the ability and the knowledge of agriculture necessary for a national food administrator."

National Dairy union, C. S. Paton, executive secretary: "We have confidence in Davis' qualifications and ability. We are hopeful that his appointment will mean clarification of difficulties regarding prices, man power, farm machinery, and rationing."

National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, John A. Kotal, executive secretary: "I think Chester C. Davis could have done an excellent job if he had received the appointment 10 months ago. He can still save what is left, despite the chaotic condition of the meat industry, by cleaning out about 95 per cent of the office of price administration's meat division, using his own judgment and ability, and surrounding himself with men of practical ideas and experience."

A Sad Ending

Earl King holding the unfortunate pheasant.

Almost on the eve of meat rationing, a cock pheasant flew into an open skylight at the Wilson Motor Transit company garage, 3115 Wallace street, yesterday. Four workmen, remembering what pheasant tastes like, slammed shut all doors and windows to keep the bird in and other men out. After five minutes the four cornered the pheasant. Earl King, 5939 Emerald avenue, grabbed it and plopped it into a box. The four men estimated the bird weighs 2½ pounds. The banquet, with all four captors present, will be held today.

Hotel Staff Saves Guests; Forgets to Call Firemen

Omaha, Neb., March 26 [Special].—Several employés rushed around evacuating 100 residents of the Harley hotel in downtown Omaha this morning while a $20,000 fire swept thru the main floor bar, but not one thought to call the fire department. A deaf mute finally ran two blocks to a fire station and wrote his message on a pad.

DIRKSEN BLAMES BUROCRATIC RULE FOR FOOD CRISIS

Predicts Lengthy War in Pacific Area.

Everett M. Dirksen, congressman from the 16th Illinois district, yesterday predicted that the average American soon will be lucky to eat bread and gravy "if Washington burocrats fumble any more."

Speaking in the La Salle hotel at a meeting of the Federation of Illinois Women's Republican clubs, Dirksen decried recent promises by President Roosevelt and the secretary of agriculture that there will be food for all.

"The food situation is not only a crisis," he said, "it is more. The entire situation is traced back to the bungling of the department of agriculture."

The congressman pointed out that more than 10 million men [the number scheduled soon to be in the army and navy] cannot be taken out of industry, agriculture and business, without leaving a dent in the organizations supplying material with which American soldiers fight.

Optimistic About Africa.

Dirksen predicted that the war in the Pacific will require "years" longer to win than will the war in Europe and Africa. He believes the African battles will be won by the allies within 90 or 100 days.

"Japan is dealing with peoples who have known subjugation," he said.

"It's not hard to send them into the field to produce materials needed by the Japanese in their war against the allies."

He said that weather conditions and the axis' submarine attacks on shipping have proved strong forces against the allies.

"The submarine menace is a thing of ghastly seriousness that is furrowing the brow of the best military and naval leaders," Dirksen asserted.

He described Washington [D.C.] as the arsenal and pantry of the world.

Predicts G.O.P. Tax Victory.

"Today there is a 'frisky congress'," he reported, "of which 209 are Republicans.. The Republicans grabbed the ball when the house went into session and have continued to carry it since."

He predicted that Republicans will win next week in support of the Ruml tax forgiving plan.

George B. McKibbin, Republican candidate for mayor, declared that he is "supremely confident" that the majority of voters will go to the polls on April 6 to vote for a change in the city government.

Also a speaker on the program was Mrs. W. Glenn Suthers, president of the National Federation of Women's Republican clubs.

MESSENGER MISSING WITH $300 IN CASH AND RATION COUPONS

Maxwell street police were asked yesterday to search for a boy 15 years old who was last seen Monday on his way to a loop bank with checks, cash, and a large quantity of food and sugar coupons.

The request was made by Franklin MacVeagh & Co., 1347 South Clinton street, wholesale grocers, which hired the boy as a messenger two weeks ago. He is from Terre Haute, Ind.

With him, police were told, disappeared $5,700 in checks, $300 in cash, food coupons totaling 181,000 points, and 48,000 sugar coupons. The food coupons, still valid, are the equivalent of nearly 500 cases of canned food, and the sugar coupons, also still valid, represent 144,000 pounds of sugar.

CHARGES ACUTE LABOR SHORTAGE IN CITY IS MYTH

State Director Declares Reverse Is True.

There is no critical labor shortage in the Chicago Metropolitan area. Instead, there appears to be a lack of suitable jobs at adequate wages.

This was the testimony of Francis B. Murphy, state labor director, before the Illinois legislative committee which opened its hearings at the La Salle hotel yesterday on reclassification of the Chicago area by the war man power commission last week.

At that time the commission reclassified the Chicago industrial area, except for that portion south of 82d street and east of Ashland avenue, as group 2, indicating an acute labor shortage within six months, and put the Calumet area, including that portion of Chicago lying south of 82d street and east of Ashland avenue, in group 1, meaning an acute labor shortage already existed.

Contrary to State Figures.

"I do not believe," Murphy told the committee, "that any area should be declared critical until there is a real labor shortage in that area. The figures from our division of placement and unemployment compensation do not indicate there is a general labor shortage in the Chicago industrial area.

"Instead there appears to be a lack of suitable jobs at adequate wages."

Murphy said that each week between 12,000 and 15,000 workers are filing claims for unemployment compensation in the Chicago area. "Less than half of these are offered jobs," he added.

Only half of those offered jobs in war plants by the United States employment service accept them, Murphy said, because of low wages, poor housing facilities, and transportation difficulties.

Says Wage Level is Low.

"There is a general impression that high wages are paid for jobs in essential industries," Murphy said. "Most of the jobs offered thru the USES, however, are at wages of less than 70 cents an hour, and many are at 50 cents an hour or less. Wages for women are even lower, averaging between 40 and 50 cents per hour."

Murphy said statistics gathered by his office show that some 25,000 persons in the Chicago area will be registered by April 1 with the USES.

"In view of this," he said, "it is difficult to see how the general labor situation can be considered 'critical.'"

Eugene J. Brock, deputy regional director of the war man power commission, speaking for Director William H. Spencer, who is ill, told the committee that WMC figures show demand for the year 1943 will be for 305,000 workers thruout the area. Of these, 250,000 will be needed in Chicago for essential industries and selective service, and 55,000 in Calumet.

WMC Holds to Shortage.

Normal supply is estimated at 92,000, he said, made up of 70,000 unemployed and 22,000 youthful entrants into labor. Of these, 84,800 will be available in Chicago and 7,200 in Calumet. These figures, Brock said, show a net shortage of 213,000 persons in the Chicago area.

"To meet this problem," he said, "there must be tremendous shifts within the industry. Not only must women be hired in every job possible, but men also must be shifted from all jobs that can be handled by women."

The legislative committee is headed by Rep. Frederick A. Virkus [R., La Grange]. It was authorized in a joint resolution of the Illinois assembly to investigate the alleged man power shortages and employment conditions of small business.

Olander Charges Blacklist.

Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, said the WMC job freeze program was "a serious mistake, unwise, unworkable and unnecessary," and said he would fight it.

"The WMC proposal amounts to blacklisting any worker who wants to exercise his freedom to change jobs without getting his employer's permission," Olander said.

W. Homer Hartz, president of the Morden Frog and Crossing Works and a member of the Chicago area advisory manpower committee, said his employes should retain the right to quit without restraint. No general labor shortage exists in the Chicago area, he said. He charged that some employers who exaggerate their labor requirements have led government statisticians astray.

Wants More Statistics.

Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, urged the WMC to continue to supply labor statistics to communities. James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, proposed that WMC should consult labor-management advisory committees before freezing contracts.

Chairman Virkus asked the business and labor leaders to submit recommendations on the manpower problem to the committee, which will file a report to the general assembly.

UNIONS DENOUNCE REDS' EXECUTION OF POLISH PAIR

The Chicago Federation of Labor, denouncing execution of two Polish labor leaders as "one of Stalin's meanest tricks," yesterday called a protest meeting April 8 in the Morrison hotel.

Samuel Laderman, general secretary-treasurer of the International Luggage Workers' union, said all of the federation's 400 locals were expected to participate. The Polish American council and the Polish National alliance said neither planned protests.

The Polish labor leaders, Victor Alter and Henryk Ehrlick, were executed by the Russians in December, 1941. Their deaths were disclosed only after several attempts to free them.

CRIPPLES MAKE FISHING LURES FOR SERVICE MEN

Experiment Shows Many Can Aid Industry.

Lt. Col. A. H. Brawner, chief of the labor branch for the sixth service command, met yesterday with Mrs. Nola M. Armstrong, executive secretary of the Illinois Association for the Crippled, to discuss handicapped persons as a labor source for industry.

Miss Mabel Cox, placement counselor for the association assigned to the Chicago office of the United States employment service, pointed out that 8 to 10 per cent of those who apply to the service for jobs are handicapped in some way. Many of them, she said, never before have been able to work because of industry's rejection of the handicapped.

Some Are War Casualties.

Recently added to ordinary handicapped applicants, Miss Cox revealed, are service men who have been honorably discharged because of service injuries. Tho the percentage of war casualty applicants is a small one, she said it indicates the increasingly great handicapped job seeker problem that will confront government and industry at the end of the war.

Mrs. Armstrong revealed that a test to prove the merit of confined handicapped persons yesterday proved a success. Arrangements were made with a Chicago company making fishing kits for the services to test the ability of severely handicapped men and women.

Parcels of material to be used in the making of fish lures were delivered early in the week to homes of those waiting to work. With few exceptions, those in the test were able to turn out well made feather lures, said by company inspectors to be as good as those made by physically perfect workers. Severe cases, confined to their beds, can earn about $1.25 per day. Less acutely handicapped workers may earn $4 or $5 per day.

May Divide Tasks.

Mrs. Margaret Pope Hovey, placement counselor at the association's headquarters, 35 East Wacker drive, urged industrial leaders to analyze jobs carefully before they are offered to the handicapped. Some jobs that require the use of all senses and limbs may be divided into separate tasks, she said. Thus a person with one handicap could do part of the job, while the remainder could be accomplished by another worker.

Col. Brawner lauded the work of the association, which he said is doing much to increase the man power pool, from which war industry may draw.

The annual Easter seal sale of the organization will open Monday and continue thru April 25.

REPEAL CHINESE EXCLUSION LAW, CONGRESS ASKED

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—A bill to allow Chinese to enter the United States as permanent residents under a quota system was introduced today by Rep. Warren G. LAWYER ASSAILS OPA MEAT RULES AS 'CATCH-ALLS'

Woes of Slaughterer Bared in Court.

Regulations of the office of price administration are "catch-alls" enabling the OPA to charge a man with contempt of court if he unwittingly violates a regulation, Atty. Joseph T. Harrington charged yesterday in opposing an injunction sought by the OPA against a meat slaughterer accused of killing more meat than his quota during the last quarter of 1942.

The defendant is Thomas J. Fennessy Sr. of 848 Fulton street, who had done no slaughtering during the first nine months of 1941, and therefore had no slaughtering figures on which to base his 1943 quota, according to OPA regulations.

Fennessy's troubles were told in the United States court of Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Writes OPA for Quota.

Having no 1941 figures on which to base his slaughtering quota for the present year, Fennessy was instructed to apply to Washington for a quota. He wrote to the OPA office here for an application blank.

Receiving no reply, he visited the office on March 18 and was told there was no such form. He was advised to send in an affidavit, including the information he thought should go into such an application for a quota.

After sending the affidavit to Washington, Harrington said, Fennessy was told the jurisdiction had passed from the OPA to the department of agriculture.

Continues Pending Appeal.

Judge Sullivan entered a preliminary injunction sought by the OPA, requiring Fennessy to comply with regulations, but allowing him to slaughter 50 cattle per week until May 1, pending appeal, for which the court set bond of $250.

In requesting the appeal bond be set, Harrington told the court Fennessy had invested $100,000 in his slaughtering plants at Aurora and Willow Springs, and said that if his client is permanently restrained from operating his business, "he will be out of business and his investment of $100,000 will be lost."

BUY COAL EARLY TO INSURE STOCK, OFFICIAL WARNS

Unless householders and commercial users stock up on coal this spring and summer a serious coal shortage will occur in Chicago next winter, it was predicted yesterday by Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the Illinois state geological survey and chairman of the mineral industries committee of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

He urged industries to keep at least a 60 day supply on hand, and recommended that householders increase their bin capacities to provide additional storage space.

Ordnance District Closing Offices in Three Cities

Suboffices of the Chicago ordnance district, in Peoria and Rockford, and in Fort Wayne, Ind., will be closed Wednesday, Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chief of the district, said yesterday. They will be replaced by small field offices. A similar suboffice in Hammond was closed recently, the general said.

OPA PUTS FOOT DOWN ON SHOES FOR FLYER'S WIFE

She Can't Accept His Gift Without a Coupon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—Rep. Forest A. Harness [R., Ind.] reported tonight that he is setting out to learn whether shoe rationing is intended to utilize all the shoes available or subject the American people to the whims of burocrats.

The congressman has just received appeals from friends of Mrs. Dorothy Smith of rural route 16, Indianapolis, to help her get a pair of shoes sent her as a gift by her husband, Lt. Robert S. Smith of the army air forces.

Lt. Smith is stationed at an outpost in the Caribbean sea, in a country where leather is plentiful and the natives specialize in leather craft. He though he would surprise his wife with a pair of shoes they had made.

The shoes arrived in Indianapolis. But customs officials refused to give them to Mrs. Smith without a ration coupon, which she was unable to furnish.

Friends wrote to Rep. Harness. He took the matter up with the office of price administration. There, the congressman said, he was informed that the shoes must lie idle in the customs office unless Mrs. Smith can produce a ration coupon or prove that she has only two pairs of wearable shoes.

Rep. Harness said he will appeal directly to Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown in the hope that the air officer's wife can get her gift shoes. And then, Harness added, he intends to look into the rationing system to find out whether it is making more shoes available to people who need them or preventing common sense use of the shoes there are.

ARMSTRONG SAYS DRAFT TAKES NO NEEDED FARMER

Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, said yesterday that local boards have maintained a "strong policy" on farm worker deferments in Illinois.

"We have insisted on the deferment of an agricultural worker whenever the evidence showed that he is responsible for sufficient production to warrant such action," he said.

Col. Armstrong declined to comment on the action of Gov. John C. Vivian of Colorado, who Thursday ordered an immediate halt to the induction of farm workers. Gov. Green, he said, has "been extremely cooperative and has shown full confidence in the Illinois selective service administration.

"To further insure correct farm deferments," Col. Armstrong said, "we have appointed Prof. Paul E. Johnston and Prof. Robert Ross of the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois, to our staff. These men have the confidence of local boards, farm organizations, and the farmers themselves."

ATLANTA HUNTS ACTION, FINDS IT NEAR MIDWAY

Bombers, Torpedo Planes Find Jap Air Fleet.

In this, the seventh instalment of "The Log of the Mighty A," the U. S. S. Atlanta combs the Pacific with Admiral Halsey's great armada and on June 4 the American force moves into the battle of Midway. The author—a Chicagoan, who at 23 is a full lieutenant in the navy—witnesses the finish of the gallant carrier Yorktown and sees the vengeance visited upon the Jap bomber and torpedo planes by our anti-aircraft guns.

BY AN OFFICER OF U. S. S. ATLANTA.

As told to Charles Leavelle.

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

With the U. S. S. Atlanta—the Mighty A—in the lead, the great task force under Adm. William F. [Fighting Bill] Halsey began steaming back toward Pearl Harbor. On the way we engaged in split second target practice that kept every gun crew tensely alert.

The task force was strung out in a long line, reminiscent of peace time. Cruisers were first, then destroyers. The carriers were in the center of the line with cruisers following them and destroyers following the cruisers. Without warning the carrier guns would throw bursts to unpredictable places and our ships would be designated to fire in turn at the bursts.

Cruise Back and Forth.

Some of the gun crews showed up well, excellently in fact. Others were not so good. But by the time we needed them, all were good.

This was the type of shooting for which the Atlanta was built. She was designed not only for surface action but especially for anti-aircraft firing to protect carriers, convoys, and other cruisers. Further, she could depress her guns to effectively combat submarines at short range.

We spent only one night in Pearl Harbor, then we started out, cruising back and forth toward Midway. There was a different feeling now. We had had the great victory of the Coral sea and had chased the Japs. We knew that action was near. The show was rolling.

On June 2 there were unmistakable signs that we were getting close. On the morning of June 4 we were up unusually early and immediately after breakfast were ordered to battle stations.

At a little after 8 a. m. our Douglas dive bombers and the torpedo planes began taking off from the carriers and disappearing into the west. Our scout planes had preceded them and were flying high, spread out over a great area. Soon they began encountering and knocking down Jap planes, reporting their victories by radio. We could see none of this. The inaction chafed us.

Yorktown on Horizon!

The carrier Yorktown was just visible on the horizon to the south. And, as it turned out, she was between us and the Jap fleet. We were guarding another carrier.

The good news burst upon us just after 11 a. m. Our air arm had found the Jap fleet. The news was so wonderfully heartening we could hardly contain ourselves: Four Jap carriers hit, two sunk, and two burning; a destroyer burning, and all the rest of the Nip fleet taking a terrific pounding.

And in the midst of this came a sequence of comic relief that still makes Atlanta men roar with laughter when they think of it. Our radio picked up the wave length upon which the Japs were directing their air arm and we heard a Jap commentator over the scene of action trying to give a running account of the battle.

At intervals of increasing frequency, his rapid flow of gibberish would be interrupted by an agonized "Yeeeee-ouch!" We turned this into the loud speakers so that all those in the gun turrets and the rest of the ship could hear.

'He Doesn't Like It.'

After a particularly horrible yowl from the Jap, Lt. Lloyd M. Mustin, U. S. N., drawled into the microphone: "That Jap seems to be telling Tokio that he's getting something and whatever he's getting he doesn't like it a damn bit."

We could hear confused noises as a background to our commentator's gibberish and we guessed this might be the bursting of anti-aircraft shells. Presently, after one last screech, his voice ceased abruptly and we heard him no more.

We knew the Japs would return the visit our air arm had paid their fleet. They were not long in coming. Our first intimation of their arrival was the concentrated curtain of terrific anti-aircraft fire that appeared over the spot where we knew the Yorktown to be. Then we could see Jap dive bombers and torpedo planes coming in. They would start in, turn back, then head in again.

There were gigantic bursts in the sky as direct hits were made on dive bombers. The attacking planes flew apart in thunderclaps of fire and black smoke. Streamers of smoke hung between the sky and the sea as flaming planes plunged beneath the waves. There would be a flurry of bursts along the water, followed by thunderous explosions and mushrooming black pillars as direct hits were scored on torpedo planes.

Japs Stay Away from Us.

But we were spectators only. The Japs were not attacking the carrier under the protection of our mighty anti-aircraft guns, and the enemy came nowhere near us.

Suddenly, at the horizon's southern rim a column of black smoke shot up and hung like a pall against the blue sky. A ship—a big one—had been hit. We prayed to God that it wasn't the carrier. But we soon were to learn that it was the great old Yorktown, which already had taken a pounding in the Coral sea. The furiously mounting smoke cloud told us she was a goner.

The pall was in sight a long time, finally dropping behind the rim of the sea as we steamed westward at full speed in pursuit of the battered Jap fleet. Only our inability to join the fight tempered the elation we felt at the news we were receiving moment by moment.

We remained at battle stations, detailing one man to bring up food to us from the galley at meal time. Our noon meal, eaten at battle stations on June 4, was like a picnic. We had pea soup, ham sandwiches, apples, coffee, and blueberry pie which we ate without benefit of forks or spoons. If we had met the enemy at close quarters just then, he would have thought himself up against African savages in war paint.

At 1 p. m. the planes began returning to our carrier. The gunners leaned from the turrets to look at them thru binoculars. Elation mounted as plane after plane circled in to land, its torpedo or bomb racks empty. The ships stayed only long enough to load up again. Then they took off to drop more destruction on the fleeing and burning Japs.

The best news of the day arrived that evening. There was no further air opposition from the Japanese. Two of their carriers were still up, but were burning so fiercely they could no longer base their aircraft. Some of the desperate Jap flyers tried to land on Midway Island, providing much target practice and great sport for our marines there.

Breakfast at Stations.

We remained at battle stations all night, the men taking two or three hours off in relays for sleep and rest. All were back before dawn. We had breakfast at stations.

On the nights of June 4, 5, and 6 the sunsets grew increasingly beautiful. Nautical men know the stars and are at home under the sky. And any familiar thing is beautiful after a day of battle. I will never forget the onset of those nights; darkness creeping up from the east and gradually blotting out the sky and clouds, while in the west the sunset flamed in a riot of color. As the darkness deepened the constellations appeared; the argonauts, the southern cross, and many others.

The night of the sixth was the most beautiful of all, because on that night it was all over. The Japs had scattered to the southwest, west, and northwest and were getting back to their protected bases. It was a magnificent victory in which the enemy lost four carriers, two heavy cruisers, three destroyers, a supply ship, and 275 aircraft. We lost the Yorktown, the destroyer Hammann, and a number of aircraft.

Bloody but Glorious.

Jap ships severely damaged included three battleships, three heavy cruisers, one light cruiser, three auxiliary cruisers, and several destroyers.

Our heaviest losses were among the torpedo planes and dive bombers which won the battle. Of the 15 planes and 30 men of torpedo squadron 8, only one plane returned with but one man alive. It was a bloody but glorious day in the history of American aviation.

We headed back briefly to a base for rechecking guns, refurnishing the engineering department, and more target practice. There was day and night firing at rafts. We bombarded a shore of Hawaii. At night cruisers stood off 10 miles from targets to throw their projectiles and score hits under a sky aflame with star shells and flares. We shot down obsolete radio controled planes that were simulating dive bomber and torpedo attacks.

The practice in which our own planes simulated attacks almost scared us into worrying. They were much more terrific than the Japs ever had been. It's an exciting feeling to stand there in the director, throwing a battery around and trying to get it set on a torpedo plane that is maple leafing in at dizzying speed. Your "enemy" is 1,000 yards off. Then he's 75. Then he flips up, missing you by about 10 yards and grins down as he goes over.

Inter-divisional rivalries were a source not only of serious discussion but of much chest beating both by officers and men. Lt. Al Newhall's division of the main battery regularly lorded their hard working, hard fighting record over the machine gun division men, who readily retorted that they were: "On the ball with Ensign Hall." When Lt. Newhall was ordered to Pensacola for flight training, he turned the division over to Lt. [j. g.] Ed Corboy with instructions to "keep Dave Hall envious of our boys."

After our intensive practice period, every one on the Mighty A was at fighting edge. Every gun and every bit of mechanism was ready for instant action. Then we steamed south. All our boats except one or two for service duty were left behind. We were in for real action now.

BRITISH NAVAL COST FOR 1941 EXCEEDS 2 BILLION DOLLARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—For the first time since the war began, British naval expenditures for 1940 and 1941 were revealed here today. In 1941 the naval services cost 527 million pounds [approximately 2 billion 108 million dollars] which is more than three times the figure for 1939 and an increase of 130 thousand pounds [approximately 520 million dollars] over expenditures for 1940.

This information was given by the naval correspondent for the Daily Telegraph who pointed out that merchant shipbuilding is now charged to the navy. The cost of shipbuilding repairs and maintenance, of armaments and other work in 1941 was more than 384 million pounds [approximately 1 billion 536 million dollars].

Since the war began expenditures on the navy and other fighting forces have been kept secret as they have been regarded as information which would aid the enemy. There is no doubt that the 1941 figure has now been considerably exceeded and obviously the only reason its publication was allowed is that it has no relation to present spending.

SEATTLE - ORIENT AIR LINE PROJECT GETS UNDER WAY

St. Paul, Minn., March 26 (AP).—Croil Hunter, president of Northwest Airlines, announced today that initial steps have been taken to establish an all-American commercial air route from Seattle, Wash., to Alaska and thence to the orient.

The proposed route would be an extension of the present Northwest system between Chicago, the Twin Cities and Seattle. It would run from Seattle to Anchorage and Nome, Alaska, and then to Manila, Peiping, Shanghai and Chungking, ending in Calcutta, India.

The airline is also amending an existing application for a Washington-Twin Cities-Fairbanks route to extend it to Nome.

Hunter pointed out that part of the route to the orient, in so far as cities now occupied by the enemy are concerned, must depend on the outcome of the war.

COL. A. V. SIMONI, CHAPLAIN FOR 25 YEARS, TO RETIRE

Camp Grant, Ill., March 26 (AP).—Col. Aristeo V. Simoni, an army chaplain for 25 years who was decorated for heroism in France during the World war, will retire Wednesday as head chaplain of Camp Grant.

Father Simoni was teaching modern and classical languages in Chicago when the World war started. The war department asked his services as chaplain because he knew six foreign languages.

He served with the 33d and 28th divisions in several months' action and won the distinguished service cross in October, 1918, when he made his way thru heavy machine gun fire to bring six wounded men safely thru no man's land. Father Simoni also was awarded four service stars, a wound chevron, and two gold war service chevrons for gallantry in several sectors.

ARMY BOMBERS ATTACK KISKA 4 TIMES IN A DAY

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—Army bombers raided the Japanese base at Kiska in the Aleutian Islands four times Wednesday, the navy reported today. A communique said:

"On March 24 army Liberator [Consolidated B-24] and Mitchell [North American B-25] bombers, escorted by fighters, carried out four attacks against Japanese positions at Kiska. Hits were scored in the target area. All United States planes returned."

The four raids raised to 25 the number of aerial attacks against the enemy's north Pacific outpost this month. The last previous attack was on Sunday. The heaviest operation occurred March 15, when six "heavy bombing attacks" were made against Kiska.

G.O.P. FOILS MOVE TO STEAMROLLER LAND'S APPROVAL

Senators Shout Down Bid for Secret Session.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—Republicans today blocked an administration attempt to railroad thru the senate confirmation of the President's renomination of Rear Adm. Emory S. Land as chairman of the maritime commission.

The first setback for the administration forces came when a motion by Sen. Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], chairman of the senate commerce committee, for an executive session to consider the nomination was shouted down by the Republicans, who outnumbered Democrats on the floor.

Bailey was prepared to defend the appointment, which has been under fire because of charges of mismanagement in the commission, made principally by Sen. George D. Aiken [R., Vt.], and was dazed by the refusal to grant him an executive session.

Opposes Any Debate.

"I was rather surprised by the vote on going into an executive session," complained the tall, bespectacled southerner, who rarely raises his voice.

"I cannot see why we should debate the merits of this nomination," he protested, saying Land has been awarded about every sort of decoration given a naval officer, has the confidence of the President, and that his record is well known to the commerce committee.

Two of Bailey's Democratic colleagues, Senators Sheridan Downey [D., Cal.] and Ernest W. McFarland [D., Ariz.], had wandered onto the floor in the meantime and asked what the hullabaloo was about.

Bailey dejectedly informed them he had just been denied an executive session to consider Land's renomination. Usually there is no objection to an executive session when there is nothing else pressing the senate for consideration, as was the case today.

Quorum Call Requested.

McFarland immediately requested a quorum call, a move to pack enough Democrats into the chamber to put over the request for immediate consideration of the nomination. While the roll was called Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], Minority Leader Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.], and Bailey went into a huddle.

Heeding McNary's request to postpone action on the appointment, Barkley came out of the huddle with a proposal for the senate to make the nomination the first order of business Tuesday, with a vote by 3 o'clock.

Sen. Rufus C. Holman [R., Ore.] asked why an attempt should be made to gag debate and Barkley said 3 hours should be sufficient to debate the case. Aiken remarked Bailey had stuck 40,000 words of data on the maritime commission in the Congressional Record the other day and said he feared Bailey might wish to consume most of the time reading that material on the floor.

Terms Time Insufficient.

"I think the senator is unduly suspicious," Bailey remarked dryly.

Aiken said he didn't think 1½ hours, half of the allotted time, would be sufficient, as Sen. Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] also wanted to speak.

"It depends how long winded he is," chirped Barkley, adding that he would modify his request and extend the voting time to 4 o'clock.

"Why don't we take all day, if necessary, and not limit it?" asked Aiken.

Barkley didn't want to yield further and proposed that Aiken control two-thirds of the debating time and Bailey the other third, cautioning that "that doesn't mean you have to speak all that time."

Time Sought to Air Charges.

Aiken said he still thought an important nomination such as this deserved at least three hours for presentation of the charges against Land.

"I suppose we might as well devote the whole day to it," said Barkley reluctantly, "and I now propose that not later than 5:30 p. m. the nomination be voted upon, with the time equally divided."

So that's the way it stands. Aiken said later he has considerable data he wishes to present on his charges of extravagance and mismanagement in the commission under Land's administration.

Hollywood, Cal., March 26 (AP).—Betty Jaynes, film actress and singer, and William Roberts, former singer now in the navy, were married yesterday in Ventura, Cal., her studio said.

LA GUARDIA MAY GO TO AFRICA AS GENERAL IN ARMY

Report President Signs Necessary Order.

Washington, D. C., March 26 [N. Y. News].—An order signed by President Roosevelt giving an army commission to Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York is lying on a desk at the war department awaiting official clearance, it was learned today.

The order directs the mayor to report to Governors Island early next week for a physical examination and that any physical defects be waived.

Probably Will Be Brigadier.

The President, as commander in chief, will nominate La Guardia for the rank of brigadier general, it is reported. This is three grades higher than La Guardia's rank of major in the air force in the last war.

It is also reported that La Guardia's assignment will be to Africa. The Italian-speaking La Guardia, it was stated, would administer Italian sectors and regions the allies have conquered. And once Italy is knocked out of the war, he might be the ideal man to step in and convince the Italian people they had really been rescued instead of defeated; that they had won, instead of lost, in getting out from under the Nazi-dominated tyranny of Mussolini.

Holds on to Mayor Job.

La Guardia has made every preparation to leave city hall and still not surrender the city to Tammany. He persuaded Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to put a bill thru the state legislature early this month permitting him to go to war without necessitating a special mayoralty election.

This means he will be on leave of absence. And, because there won't be any election, he will have a big say in naming the man who is to take his place as acting mayor.

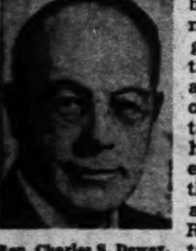
CITES ECONOMY RECORD OF G. O. P. IN RUML DEBATE

Dewey Faces New Dealers with Tax Figures.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—Records of government economy and tax reduction made by Republican administrations beginning more than two decades ago came back out of the past today to haunt house New Dealers who are battling to prevent adoption of the Ruml skip a year tax plan.



Rep. Charles S. Dewey.

Their opponents, emphasizing the need for drastic tax reforms to ease the present unprecedented tax burdens, drew a sharp comparison between the policy when the G. O. P. was in power and the steady increases in taxes and government expenditures since President Roosevelt assumed office in 1932.

Rep. Charles S. Dewey [R., Ill.], a member of the ways and means committee and a former assistant secretary of the treasury, introduced an analysis of tax reductions under the administrations of Presidents Harding and Coolidge showing a rapid lowering of normal and surtax rates and increases in exemptions and deductions which further cut the nation's tax bill.

Republican Record.

It was as follows:

Revenue act of 1921—surtax rates reduced from one to two percentage points in lower brackets to 15 points in the higher.

Revenue act of 1922—surtax rates again reduced.

Revenue act of 1924—flat reduction of 25 per cent applied to 1923 levies; surtax rates reduced from one point in lowest brackets to 10 points in highest; normal tax reduced from 4 to 2 per cent on first $4,000 and from 8 to 4 per cent on excess over $4,000; earned income credit introduced providing further reduction.

Revenue act of 1926—surtaxes reduced from one point in lowest brackets to 20 points in highest; normal tax reduced to 1½ per cent on first $4,000 income, 2 per cent on second $4,000, and 4 per cent over $8,000.

Has Record for 20 Years.

Dewey also presented his colleagues with comparative figures on total tax returns and total income tax liabilities over a period of 20 years, equally divided between the G. O. P. administrations and the New Deal. These showed a low of 1,525,546 taxable returns and a total liability of $246,127,000 in 1931, near the end of President Hoover's term, compared with an estimated 38,800,000 taxable returns and a liability of 9 billion 800 million dollars for 1942 after 10 years of the Roosevelt régime.

The complete table is as follows with amounts in thousands of dollars.

Year—	Total taxable returns.	Total tax liability. [000 omitted.]
1923	4,270,121	$ 663,652
1924	4,489,698	704,265

Rep. Daniel A. Reed [R., N. Y.], a veteran ways and means committeeman added to the embarrassment of Democratic leaders with recollections which went further into the past. Beginning in 1916, when Woodrow Wilson was president, he said, taxes were substantially increased and continued at a comparatively high level during the last World war period, altho far below the heights reached under the Roosevelt administration.

The first reductions came in 1921 after President Harding's election, he continued, and went on:

"Then there was the 1924 act, reduction of taxes; the 1926 act, reduction of taxes; 1928 act, reduction of taxes; 1932, taxes slightly increased."

As he moved into the New Deal years, the New York congressman's voice rose angrily as he chanted:

"1934 taxes, increased; 1936 taxes, increased; 1938 taxes, increased; 1940 taxes, increased; 1941 taxes, increased; 1942 taxes, increased."

Democrats Sit in Silence.

Democratic members sat in silence during this portion of the proceedings. Later, however, their spokesmen resumed attacks on the Ruml plan which has the support of the Republican leaders.

Rep. John D. Dingell [D., Mich.], a committee member, warned that taxes forgiven now must be reassessed and levied later in the form of higher rates. He said the committee plan is "a genuine and honest effort to arrive at the desirable objective of pay-as-you-go and collection at the source." It is the only real American plan, he added, while the Ruml plan is "a foul and sinful grab in violation of the seventh commandment of God, and a mean attempt to traduce existing law."

Rep. Walter A. Lynch [D., N. Y.], also a ways and means member, charged that politics is responsible for the G. O. P. championship of the skip a year tax proposal. He asserted that it is a "WPA for the rich" and will shift the burden of paying the cost of the war to the soldiers when they return to civilian life.

Warns of Resentment.

Rep. Donald H. McClean [R., N. J.], another member of the committee who urged passage of the Ruml plan, warned the chamber of the danger of resentment on the part of wage and salary earners over deduction of taxes and other sums from pay envelopes.

"I have seen some pay checks that looked like a card used for a bingo game—so many squares are provided for nothing but these deductions," he said. "It is true that many of these deductions are for items resulting to the employés' personal advantage, such as social security, purchase of victory bonds, hospitalization, group insurance, etc., but there are others, such as taxes and dues to various organizations, which are deducted by contract obligations or by the operation of state and federal laws.

Predicts Ultimate Rebellion.

"The suggestion has recently been made to expand the social security program. That will probably contemplate further pay roll deductions. My concern is—how far can this practice extend before it is resented by the employé? At what point will his pride be touched to the quick in being deprived of the right of an American citizen to handle his own affairs?"

The Ruml plan calling for total forgiveness so every one can start with a clean slate paying 1943 taxes out of 1943 income is contained in a bill introduced by Rep. Frank Carlson [R., Kas.] which has the support of the Republican leadership.

The measure approved by the ways and means committee allows no direct forgiveness but would encourage taxpayers to go on a current basis voluntarily thru a system of discounts on taxes paid in advance.

A third plan which has been advanced as a possible compromise would forgive the normal tax and the first surtax, covering the first $2,000 of taxable income, for everybody and enable 90 per cent of the taxpayers to become current. Those in the higher brackets would be required to double up on the excess amounts. This proposal was introduced by Rep. A. Willis Robertson [D., Va.].

All the plans provide for a 20 per cent withholding tax to be applied against the taxable portion of wages and salaries beginning July 1 and substantial benefits for men and women in military services thru exemptions against their service pay.

In his speech, Rep. Dewey, onetime financial adviser to the government of Poland, gave the house "skull practice" resorting to a blackboard and huge tables and graphs to make his points. He assailed both the committee bill and the Robertson plan, describing the former as "astounding" and the latter as "socialistic." The Ruml plan is the only one which would solve the problem of pay-as-you-go equitably, he asserted.

Appeals for Middle Group.

Criticizing the Robertson plan on the ground that it would provide a flat reduction in all brackets, wiping out taxes altogether in the low income groups while only easing a small part of the burden in the higher brackets, he produced figures showing that a large portion of tax increases has been borne by individuals in the $10,000 to $50,000 class.

"I rise to speak for them for they have carried the load thru the years when the working man was in hard times and escaped taxation," he said.

"We have heard a lot about the sacrifice of soldiers here but not enough about what the soldiers are sacrificing for. When the soldiers come back as self-reliant, grim, earnest men, they won't want to find a country where opportunity is gone; where it is wicked to have a decent income. I don't think the United States has arrived at a point yet where $50,000 a year makes a man a millionaire."

FARMERS IN BRITAIN PROPOSE REGULATIONS FOR EXPORT OF FOOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—British farmers, who never in the memory of man have competed in export markets, now propose regulation of production and marketing on an international scale.

The National Farmers union, in an interim report on the post-war agricultural policy which was issued today, maintained that the best interests of the world's primary producers as well as manufacturers are "wrapped up in an action which will not merely safeguard the domestic position, but will bring primary producers the world over a reasonable measure of security, stability, and remunerative price levels."

Dealing with home affairs, the report advocated that minimum output figures for all the main branches of food production in this country after the war should considerably exceed those of 1939. It urged that the ministry of food continue to control food imports and fix prices at a remunerative level which, it warned consumers, must remain high. The union supported the continuance of the landlord and tenant system which, it said, has operated well in the past.

South Bend, Ind., March 26 [Special].—South Bend's only horse meat market reported a 50 per cent increase in sales this week as stocks of other markets were depleted by customers rushing to obtain meat before rationing starts Monday.

'GESTAPO' BILL CHIEF TOPIC FOR BAR ASSEMBLY

Committee Favors Act; Others Fear Result.

Sharp conflict developed among members of the house of delegates of the American Bar association last night on the association's approval or disapproval of the "gestapo" bill now before congress. The proposed act titled the "War Security Act," is under attack in congress as contrary to constitutional guarantees of freedom of the press, and the right of assembly, and as an act that would destroy the confidential relation of an attorney and client accorded in the constitution.

The association's board of governors gathered at the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday, setting up the agenda of the house of delegates of the association. The association is governed on policy by the house of delegates, which represents the profession in all parts of the United States.

Approved by Committee.

This session of the delegates is to consider reports of committees and sections dealing with war time problems. Guy R. Crump of Los Angeles, Cal., chairman of the house, will preside. George Maurice Morris of Washington, D. C., is associate president.

Conflict on the "gestapo" bill has been promised from delegates who criticize the measure as a "spy" act, calculated to annul long guaranteed rights. The report of the committee assigned to study of this bill, however, urges approval of the bill, declaring: "These bills [the gestapo act] appear to have the endorsement in principle of every one interested in the subject and represent a nonpolitical, nonpartisan effort to remedy a defect in our national defense laws which has proved to be disquieting." The report is signed by William C. Rigby as chairman and members Donald S. Leonard, Owen J. Cleary, Alexander Holzoff, and Earl Warren, governor of California.

Attack 'Spy' Powers.

The Chicago Bar association, thru Benjamin Wham, chairman of the legislative committee, has gone on record in criticism of the "gestapo" bill and a revolt against the measure has arisen in congress. The measure, so opponents say, would convert the nation into a population of "spies," all controled by a department of justice which might construe treason as any act with which it was not in sympathy.

Other business on the calendar for the association will determine the policy of attorneys thruout the nation. Included in the topics for Monday's discussion and decision are coördination and direction of the war, and civilian defense.

AXIS ARMY SLOWS AMERICAN DRIVE IN TUNISIA HILLS

Yanks Suffer Casualties in Fight for Ridge.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH UNITED STATES FORCES AT GAFSA, Tunisia, March 25 [Delayed].—Eight days after United States troops had reoccupied Gafsa in southern Tunisia in coördination with the British 8th army's drive against the Mareth line, the Tunisian campaign today began to assume a clearer shape.

Apparently there will be no quick, easy victory for the allies. News trickling here from the Mareth line some 70 miles to the southeast, where the Germans are reported to have regained ground along the coast, indicates that the 8th army will continue to meet tough opposition.

U. S. Drive Slowed Down.

Here on the American sector, the drive which carried the United States troops from the hills around Tebessa, Algeria, thence east and southeast to Maknassy and El Guetar, has encountered heavy enemy resistance and has been slowed down.

On the Maknassy front the Americans still retain the initiative, but so far they have been unable to take the high ground along a road which commands the north side of a pass into the plain 28 miles from the eastern Tunisian coast.

Many American Casualties.

Last night American armored infantry attempted to assault enemy troops. The Yanks went up the slopes repeatedly but they were stopped with concentrated machine gun and mortar fire from the fortified heights. There were numerous American casualties.

Until these heights are taken, there is little opportunity for American armor to push into the plain. So today, artillery banged away at mountains where the enemy has some batteries. German infantry attacked twice to gain a long bridge over a deep gulch just north of Maknassy. Both attacks were repulsed.

Farther north in the Faid area, Italian patrols tried tangling with British armored cars near Sidi Bou Zid, but got nowhere.

There was a similar stalemate at El Guetar. The enemy was using his best troops, but the Americans held their ground.

Yanks Remain in Trenches.

An axis infantry attack on the north shoulder of the Berda mountains, east of El Guetar, continued intermittently thruout the day. With accurate artillery support the doughboys remained in their rocky slit trenches, despite shelling from Mark IV. and Mark VI. tanks.

Along a gumtree road at the base of the Orbata mountains, El Guetar's northern barrier, mortar fire forced back the American outposts east of Bou Hemran. However, the enemy was unable to dislodge our well placed infantry.

This entire campaign has been a battle for high ground, altho some fighting, particularly tank attacks, takes place in the valley.

Dig Trenches in Rocks.

We were in the mountains this afternoon visiting foxholes while mortar fire dropped along the road and slopes of hills pitted with gullies. The only cover our men have from shellfire and dive bombers is slit trenches hacked out of rocks with picks and shovels.

All day long American planes passed overhead hammering vehicle concentrations on the roads to the east. American bombers also carried out several missions along the improved road south across the Fedjedi salt marsh, which is dry enough for motor traffic. The larger Djerid marsh to the west is still too soft except for camel patrols.

FIVE LAVAL AIDS FIRED AT VICHY, BERLIN REPORTS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Berlin radio announced last night a shakeup in Pierre Laval's Vichy cabinet in which five ministers were dismissed, and this development came amid continued desertions from the Vichy government by foreign diplomats who were switching their allegiance to Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, French high commissioner in allied northwest Africa.

The ministers "taking leave of Chief of State Petain," said the broadcast recorded by the Associated Press; were: Joseph Barthelmy, justice; Adm. Jean Marie Abrial, navy; Gen. Jean Francois Jannekyn, aviation; Jules Brevie, colonies; and Rear Adm. Rene Platon, secretary of state in the foreign ministry held by Laval himself.

Laval's own prestige and that of his axis dominated régime suffered a heavy blow Wednesday when 14 Vichy diplomats and consular officials assigned to Spain quit their posts to go over to Gen. Henri Giraud, French high commissioner in North Africa.

REPORT U. S. MEN IN FRANCE SENT INTO GERMANY

BERNE, Switzerland, March 26 (AP).—British and American men who remained in the former Vichy-controled part of France after the total occupation by German troops were reported today to have been taken to Germany.

The United States legation here said it had no confirmation of the report but said it had been notified that all British and American citizens in the area—men, women, and children numbering some 3,600—had been arrested. According to the report, the Germans said the measure was necessary to remove alleged trouble-making elements from France in event of military operations. This presumably was in reference to an allied invasion.

ASSEMBLY PLANT ON WHEELS DOES BIG JOB IN AFRICA

Ordnance Unit Turns Out Army Vehicles.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AFRICA, March 23—[Delayed].—The American army's first portable assembly and service plant which is preparing trucks, jeeps, reconnaissance, and command cars for the Tunisian front is functioning here under Maj. Arthur Zitzewitz of 2636 Berkeley road, Highland Park, Ill.

Maj. Arthur Zitzewitz.

While astonished Arabs look on from a distance, equipment is landed in crates from United States convoys at this port, brought quickly by trailer to the open air plant, put together, inspected, and sent toward the battle zones.

The natives are not the only amazed persons. A group of French officials, including Gen. Auguste Nogues, governor general of French Morocco, who recently visited the assembly lines, saw this exhibition of ingenuity and speed by the American army ordnance corps and exclaimed: "Merveilleux!"

Plant Operates on Wheels.

Maj. Zitzewitz and Col. Lloyd M. Garner of Madison, Wis., who are in charge of ordnance here, said the entire plant operates on wheels. They added that it could be transported at a speed of 30 miles an hour, and could be removed from its present site in 10 hours. The plant occupies 1,350,000 square feet.

Its site, which is now leveled and well graded, was a rough prairie a few months ago. Then bulldozers went to work and the plant began operation.

"Fifty per cent of the workers are United States army officers and 50 per cent are civilians," Maj. Zitzewitz said. "At night floodlights give illumnination. They can be dimmed immediately at any warning of enemy activity to conform with the blackout prevailing thruout the rest of this area.

Assemble Truck in Day.

"The day shift has reached maximum production capacity and can assemble a whole truck. This operation is done in as little as 13 hours by a five man crew. A single unit when packed contains, let's say, one quarter-ton reconnaissance or command car.

"We estimate this assembly technique saves 58 per cent of the shipping space which would be needed if the equipment were sent here already assembled. Nothing is wasted here. The lumber from the crates is used for construction and a big magnet picks up the nails from the ground. We can turn out many assembled trucks each day, all of them ready for duty."

Nearby are anti-aircraft and tank service depots. At the latter I saw a tank removed from a crate and serviced by a five man crew in six hours. The weapon was then ready for action. One officer had said that it would take seven or eight days to get a tank ready.

[Maj. Zitzewitz, 39 years old, of Highland Park, was a mechanical engineer in a Chicago war plant before being commissioned as a captain last May. He went to Africa in February. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois.]

BRITISH RAIDERS FLY OVER ROME; TRAINS STRAFED

LONDON, March 26 (AP).—R. A. F. planes taking off from battered Malta where for months the words "Bomb Rome" have been chalked on the walls of ruined buildings, sallied boldly over the Italian capital and environs last night for the first time.

London morning papers gave the story top display. The Daily Mail headline said: "R. A. F. Over Rome Suburbs."

Machine Guns Trains.

Only one pilot told of what the Italian capital looks like at night from the air. After seeing Rome's blinking night lights, the flyer strafed trains and an outlying railway station.

"The moon was quite bright," the flyer said, "and altho it was very hazy, we could see flashes of electric trams or trains in Rome itself and the buildings of the city."

"We left Rome," the R. A. F. pilot added, "and flew down the railway toward Naples, strafing trains as we went. In two or more instances we saw tremendous flashes, similar to those we had seen after we gunned trains outside Rome. We gave railroad signal boxes a pasting, too."

Recall Churchill Threat.

Last night's Rome sortie moved observers to recall that in 1941 Prime Minister Winston Churchill advised the axis that Britain would retaliate by attacking Rome if bombs were dropped in either Athens or Cairo. Apparently heedful of this warning, axis planes bombed to the edge of Athens but spared the city.

Cairo has been bombed, but last night's sortie was the nearest that the British have come to carrying out Churchill's threat against Rome.

Malta Has First Alert in 22 Days.

Last night's raid, observers said, illustrated how easily Malta based planes could bomb Rome in round trip flights of approximately 850 miles.

Enemy planes, apparently attempting a reprisal for the closest known hostile approach to Rome, caused an alert today on Malta for the first time in 22 days.

The Italian high command acknowledged attacks last night on Campo Leone, 21 miles from Rome, and Cisterna, 31 miles away, but said there were no casualties. Both are on the route from Rome to Naples.

ON PACIFIC FRONT LABOR HAS WORK WEEK OF 7 DAYS

Seabees Toil at Any Job Without Grumbling.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, March 26—[Passed by Censor].—War workers and heads of industries in the United States will be heartened to learn that at this tropical base are hundreds of skilled American technicians, many of them former union members who still hold their union cards.

They now work seven days a week, often 16 hours a day, in all kinds of weather with no thought of overtime pay or vacation. They are paid approximately one-fourth what their often disgruntled fellow craftsmen receive for civilian war jobs in the United States. What's more, they accept it without squawking.

Do Any Job at Hand.

They also do the type of work that must be done at any moment. An electrician may be called upon to unload a ship. A machinist may become a road builder. And no union agent intervenes. The men often throw aside their tools and pick up guns to fight side by side with the combat troops when the enemy puts on pressure.

These hardened and willing craftsmen are the "Seabees," the enlisted members of the naval construction battalions who are writing a gleaming page of history in the construction of essential bases on the fighting fronts. Often this work is done under enemy fire.

Ease Work of Services.

Capt. Henry E. Wilson of Boston, a member of the navy civil engineering corps, who is commanding the battalions here, explained the formation and work of the Seabees. He said:

"The Seabees are essentially skilled civilian craftsmen who have been whipped into a military organization. They were organized with the idea of taking over the construction of shore bases and other establishments in the actual war zones, which in other wars were built by marines, the navy, and civilian workers.

"The loss of Guam and Wake Islands at the beginning of the war made immediately apparent the need for such trained battalions of craftsmen. Guam and Wake showed that civilians were no good for such advanced base work. They are untrained and do not have the weapons or the ability to use them. Thus they impede defense. If they are killed, there is no government compensation; if they are captured, they are not entitled to treatment as military prisoners of war.

Learned Use of Weapons.

"Early in 1942 the first Seabees were recruited. Only well trained craftsmen with years of experience were accepted. They were given ratings ranging from seamen 2d class to chief petty officer depending on their experience and skill. They were sent to camps near Quonset Point, R. I., and at Norfolk, Va., where they drilled with rifles and machine guns, practiced firing anti-aircraft guns, and learned to use hand grenades and bayonets. Then they were ready for duty."

Wilson explained that the Seabee battalions include carpenters, machinists, plumbers, shipfitters, steelworkers, painters, bricklayers, sheetmetal workers, surveyors, draftsmen, auto mechanics, blacksmiths, concrete workers, divers, electricians, crane operators, laborers, foremen, road builders, wharf builders, and stevedores. They offer a complete cross section of the industrial United States.

Civilians Get $700 a Month.

"Many Seabees were union members before enlisting and some still keep up their membership," Wilson said. "The agreement with the unions is that the Seabees will not be used within the territorial limits of the United States. That is why the Seabees are not used at the bases in Panama, for instance."

I visited Panama recently and the contrast between the unionized civilian craftsmen there and the Seabees is vivid. I met skilled workers in Panama who were getting $700 a month for 12 hours of work a day and who were grumbling on the job. I saw the control of the unions there, which is the same as it is in the United States. But there is none of that here. Work is done here smoothly and swiftly.

DE GAULLE TO SEE GIRAUD; 'WILL REUNITE FRENCH'

Promises Early Trip to North Africa.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—The great battle for French unity seems to be ending in a negotiated peace. Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, speaking by radio to the French people, tonight said he will go to North Africa soon to see "that great soldier and noble figure." Gen. Henri Giraud, French commander in North Africa.

"Together, loyally and amicably," De Gaulle said, "we will seek means of insuring that: the French empire will be a single empire; the strength of France will be an undivided strength; the voice of all Frenchmen engaged in the fight will be thruout the world a single voice; and above all that this empire, this strength and this voice be those which the nation desires."

Urges National Union.

After calling on all Frenchmen to "unite once again for better or worse," De Gaulle reiterated that "our duty is that of national union, the goal of our highest efforts and the source of our eternal grandeur."

France, he said, still has "the resistance of her people and the resources of her great empire" at her disposal to combat the axis.

De Gaulle is expected to leave for Algiers in about a week. It is suggested here that he will find a groundwork for military fusion between his forces and Giraud's already laid down by his deputy, Gen. Georges Catroux.

Catroux Arrives in Algiers.

ALGIERS, Algeria, March 26 (AP).—Gen. Georges Catroux, Fighting French liaison man between Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud, arrived here today to engage in the preliminary negotiations looking to final unity of all the anti-axis French forces.

His conversations with Giraud and other French, American, and British officials are expected to open the way for De Gaulle to negotiate a final settlement of factionalism.

Puerto Rican Puzzle.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, March 26 (AP).—Gov. Rexford G. Tugwell was puzzled today over what to do with former Gov. Rene Veber and four members of his party who left French Guiana hurriedly after the colony joined the allies last week and who now want to consult in Washington with American officials and representatives of Gen. Henri Giraud. It is known that Tugwell has been instructed to provide for them here since their arrival yesterday, but their future depends upon what he hears further from Washington.

FORTRESSES RIP JAPANESE BASE ON NEW GUINEA

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, March 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—Dipping as low as 75 feet, allied four motored bombers blasted new installations and shipping at the new Japanese base at Wewak, on the north coast of New Guinea, in a three hour night attack, an allied communique said today.

Using 500 and 1,000 pound bombs, Flying Fortresses hit a 4,000 ton merchantman in the harbor and pounded the airdrome, town, and docks with 19 tons of explosives.

The 1,000 pound bombs, Gen Douglas MacArthur's announcement said, "caused especially serious damage among the shore installations."

The attacking planes dove thru heavy anti-aircraft fire and all returned safely.

Wewak, 360 miles above Port Moresby, apparently was given special attention because of its position as a reënforcement and intermediate supply port for the hard pressed Japanese holding the Lae-Salamaua sector to the south.

Wewak was the objective of a convoy recently shattered by allied airmen while trying to slip into the port from the northeast. It was believed the convoy had taken a circuitous route around the Admiralty islands from Rabaul after a 22 ship convoy was annihilated in the Bismarck Sea in a more direct attempt to reënforce New Guinea.

Japanese New Guinea positions at Lae, Salamaua, Finschhafen and Mubo along the coast southeast of Wewak also were bombed and strafed yesterday.

In the Lae sector numerous fires visible 20 miles away were started.

Allied airmen made 14 passes over Mubo, where fires were started.

AGREE RED PACT AIDS JAPANESE IN WAR ON U. S.

Foe Can Forecast Alaska Weather, Says Lay.

The statement by the Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, the "glacier priest," that Japan's principal purpose in renewing its fishing treaty with the Russians this year was to control the Kamchatka weather station, was affirmed yesterday by O. T. Lay, chief of the Chicago city office of the United States weather bureau. Other meteorologists in Chicago expressed similar opinions.

"To a great extent, Father Hubbard's statement is true," Lay said. "The Japs have an ideal setup for forecasting weather to the east of them, even to Alaska itself. They can pick a day that's going to be thick and murky to sneak a carrier up to the Aleutians or elsewhere, and know that it will clear for a time to permit them to strike, and become foggy again for their escape."

Westerly winds prevail over the Aleutian Islands, Alaska, and the United States generally, and weather in Kamchatka, the Siberian peninsula, reaches the Aleutians 12 to 48 hours later, meteorologists said.

How Reds Could Help Us.

The Japanese would not hold this weather advantage, even with their Kamchatka station, however, if Russia would wireless weather reports to the United States, said Lay.

Prof. C. G. Rossby, head of the institute of meteorology at the University of Chicago, agreed that Japanese weather observations on Kamchatka "are not so good for us," but expressed an opinion that Japan would obtain the same information even without the Russian concession.

"They can get weather coverage if they have access to the territorial waters around Kamchatka," he said, "but possession of Kamchatka itself makes it easier for them to keep their fishing fleet at sea, getting fish and weather reports."

Proof. W. E. Powers, meteorologist at Northwestern university, said Kamchatka gives the Japanese the same advantage as a weather station on Greenland would give the Germans in Europe.

"Destroyed 3 Observatories."

"I understand that this advantage was thought so important by the British," he said, "that they have destroyed two or three weather observatories they found the Germans had set up in Greenland."

Announcement that Russia and Japan had extended their 1942 agreement granting fishing privileges in Russian waters to the Japanese for another year was made yesterday by Moscow. Father Hubbard, who was on a speaking engagement in Harrisburg, Pa., commented that "so long as the Japs have the weather station at Kamchatka, they know just what to do [as regards the weather] and we are blind to any of it."

"We might as well know now," he continued, "whether [Josef] Stalin [Russian premier] is a friend of Japan or a friend of ours. He cannot be a friend of both. Whether Stalin will give us bases, I don't know, but I do know now he has given them to the Japanese."

STIRS CONGRESS' CONCERN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—Members of congress tonight expressed deep interest and concern over Russia's renewal of the treaty affording Japan fishing privileges in soviet waters of the western Pacific.

There have been charges recently that the Japs are more interested in fishing for weather information in the proximity of America's Aleutian Islands than they are for sea food.

According to the Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, noted explorer known as the "Glacier Priest" and an authority on the far north, thru the fishing pact the Japanese gain control of a weather station on Kamchatka, the Siberian peninsula which extends to the northern end of the Japanese island chain, affording them an outpost for determining the best weather for operations against the Aleutians.

Most members of congress preferred not to make a public statement on the treaty because of the "ticklish" diplomatic situation, especially the recent mystery among the allies as to Russia's intentions both during the war and afterward.

Seeks Smoother Relations.

They recognized that Anthony Eden, British secretary of foreign affairs, has been in Washington for conferences to help straighten out American-Russian relations.

Sen. Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], a member of the senate foreign relations committee, said frankly that he "was sorry to hear that they [Russia] have chosen to renew it [the treaty] in the light of the advantage it would give the Japs over the United States."

Other informed members of congress said they don't see how any one in the United States can look with any degree of composure on the situation in the Pacific because it is not certain what Russia will do in case she must decide definitely between the United States and Japan.

Call Situation Peculiar.

Russia's neutrality and even friendly relations with Japan, partner of Russia's axis enemy, Germany, but America's bitter enemy, is at the best a very peculiar situation, they said.

Sen. Sheridan Downey [D., Cal.] who urged the other day that Father Hubbard's warnings concerning the fishing treaty be considered carefully by government officials as a guide to Russian sympathies, said today that the United States was transferring cargo vessels to Russia for shipment of food from the west coast to the soviet union.

As a result, he declared, "the transportation problem will become more serious on the west coast because of the increased food shipments under lend-lease carried by the ships turned over to them which travel without molestation by Japan."

GUNS AND PLANES SLUG IT OUT IN SMOLENSK FIGHT

Reds Gain Ground as NaziResistanceMounts

LONDON, March 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—Russian troops beating against Smolensk's distant defenses wiped out a German garrison at one strongpoint and captured another, Moscow announced today. Several populated places were reported taken.

The new central front gains announced in the midnight communique recorded by the soviet monitor were said to be south of Bely, presumably near Dukhovschin, 32 miles from Smolensk, which is 230 miles west of Moscow.

A Stockholm dispatch said Russian tanks had broken into Dorogobuzh, 50 miles east of Smolensk, in a frontal assault supporting the northeastern wedge in Smolensk's outlying defense belt.

Germans on Defensive.

Tass news agency said both sides brought masses of artillery and aircraft into play but that the Russians held the initiative and the Germans were on the defensive in deep, previously prepared fortifications. The main battle was said to be for crossings of a river "next to the Dnieper" [probably the Vop which flows thru Yartsevo, the last large railway station in German hands, since the Russians are well west of the Dnieper].

The Red army held firm against Nazi assaults near Kharkov. There the Russians rebounded to recapture the two towns the Nazis had seized on the Donetz river front east of Belgorod, which is 50 miles north of Kharkov. The Germans sent strong infantry and tank forces into the muddy sector north of Chuguev, 22 miles southeast of Kharkov, but the Russians said all attacks were crushed. At no point was there a suggestion that the Donetz had been crossed.

Approximately 1,100 Germans were reported slain in futile efforts to breach Russian positions between Belgorod and Chuguev.

Nazis Use Fresh Reserves.

Germans employed fresh reserves in the fighting east of Kharkov. In the Chuguev area, the Russians were still holding the low hills that slope toward the west bank of the Donetz.

Yesterday's communique said several settlements were captured in the Kuban area south of Rostov where the Russians are advancing within 20 miles of Novorossisk, Black sea naval base.

Greatly increased air fighting in the bright, cloudless skies above the Leningrad front suggested a battle below, as well. The Russians said they destroyed 13 more planes, for a three day total of 58.

[The German communique said that all fighting on the Russian front was minor.]

BRITISH BOMBERS RAID INDUSTRIAL SECTION OF RUHR

LONDON, March 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—British bombers were over the industrial Ruhr section of Germany during the night, it was learned authoritatively today. There were indications that the R. A. F. was out in force. One of the biggest raids of the year was delivered in the same area when Essen was blasted March 12.

A Belgian Typhoon fighter pilot of the R. A. F., in a sweep over the Low Countries yesterday, shot down a Junkers 52 not far from the house in which he used to live, the air ministry announced. Previously the pilot, flying with a Norwegian comrade, had damaged a power barge transformer and two locomotives.

Whirlwinds and Canadian Mustangs, in offensive patrols over northern France and southern Belgium, also strafed and bombed locomotives, canal barges and electrical transformer stations at various points. All aircraft returned from the operations.

VETERAN OF SUB WARFARE SAYS IT'S SAFEST SHIP

Lt. Comm. John C. Nichols, in the submarine service most of the time since finishing Annapolis in 1934, declared yesterday while visiting his parents in Chicago that submarines are the safest ships in the navy. "If that weren't so, I wouldn't be risking my neck on one," he said.

Lt. Comm. John C. Nichols.

Comm. Nichols, sworn to secrecy on his war service, contented himself with some topnotch press agentry for the underseas craft.

"The food is the best in the world," he said. "The icebox on a submarine is never closed, day or night. We have ice in our drinking water and air conditioning in all rooms. At night we sleep soundly—sometimes."

Comm. Nichols, graduate of Parker High school here, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Nichols, 6705 Stewart avenue.

NEWEST U. S. SUB AIR CONDITIONED, BUT IT'S NO SOFTY

Has 10 Torpedo Tubes, and Sun Lamps.

BY JOHN A. MOROSO III.

ABOARD AMERICA'S NEWEST SUBMARINE, March 26 (AP). — This slick submarine—designed solely to help send Japan's naval and merchant fleet into oblivion—is a honey. She is just one of many ships coming off the ways and much of her equipment is still a military secret. Only recently did the navy allow correspondents to come aboard.

Comparing a submarine of this type with the old C-boats, O-boats and S-boats is like comparing the Normandie with a weather-beaten, rusty old freighter. There just isn't any comparison.

This submarine cost $6,000,000 plus the cost of materials and equipment added by the navy. She is a slender, beautiful weapon of war, black and glistening in the coldish sun. Her skipper, Lt. Comm. Ralph C. Lynch Jr., a native of New York city and son of Ralph Lynch, Mamaroneck, N. Y., was conducting an inspection tour, and the executive officer, Lt. Comm. William Warren Walker, 32, a native of Toppenish, Wash., and a resident of Arlington, Va., showed me around the boat.

Has 10 Torpedo Tubes.

This sub's 10 torpedo tubes—six forward and four aft—make her two and a half times more dangerous than some of the submarines we started fighting with. On the surface this ship displaces 1,500 tons, has a speed of more than 20 knots. She is more than 300 feet long and is a streamlined craft that beats anything yet produced by the United States.

These submarines are mostly stainless steel—bright and clean. They have built-in radios and phonographs and they have built-in libraries and sun lamps.

Shortly after we got under way, Skipper Lynch gave this order over the ship's loudspeaker system.

"Rig for diving."

Has Chicagoland Officers.

We went down moments later to the tune of the harsh noise made by venting tanks. At 75 feet we leveled off and went thru a series of drills—collision drill, fire drill and abandon ship drill.

Our gunnery officer, Lt. H. J. Greene, 26, who came from Bay City, Mich., served aboard the submarine Argonaut and left her three weeks before she was sunk by Jap destroyers.

Ensign William Ross Banks, 20, communications officer, is a native of Oklahoma City. Ensign Norman Leigh Sorenson, 32, calls Detroit his home altho he now lives at Saybrook, Conn.

GERMANY'S TANKS INFERIOR TO OURS, OFFICERS ASSERT

Numerical Advantage of Nazis Cited.

Chester Tank Depot, Chester, Pa., March 26 (AP).—The widely heralded superiority of German armored equipment is a myth, army ordnance officers asserted here today.

Brig. Gen. Julian S. Hatcher.

Even the celebrated German 88 mm. combination anti-tank and anti-aircraft gun is obsolete, said Brig. Gen. Julian S. Hatcher, chief of field service for the ordnance department, and the German trap which destroyed a large number of British tanks in Libya last summer was successful because it was a well-placed trap—not because of any inherent superiority of the 88.

Brig. Gen. John K. Christmas, head of the tank automotive center in Detroit, aded that "the German vehicles we have—and we have a lot of captured German stuff—doesn't exhibit anything that makes for superiority."

The Answer? Numbers.

'They just had a helluva lot of them," said Christmas, "and used them aggressively—which is the way to use any equipment."

Their counter-claim that American equipment is superior to German tanks and guns brought agreement from Maj. F. F. Duerth, British army representative at the tank depot here.

"The success of the 8th army's push across Libya and Tripolitania was due very largely to the American equipment which was received over there," said Duerth.

"We regard the M-4 as the most valuable and the most handy general utility tank we are getting."

The discussion followed a visit to the tank depot, where approximately 4,000 armored vehicles of all types are undergoing modification and receiving their final equipment before shipment to combat zones.

200 Shipped Out Daily.

This is not a static number, since the depot is shipping out 200 vehicles a day from the 30 types that are handled here—tanks of all sizes, half-track scout cars and troop carriers, armored cars, and self-propelled artillery. Among the latter are the tank destroyers and a new 155 mm. gun, the most powerful self-propelled artillery in the world.

Chester, the largest of four tank modification centers in the United States, is operated by the Ford Motor company and occupies what formerly was Ford's export assembly plant.

Armored vehicles manufactured by 18 companies are sent here for installation of radios, some of the machine guns, and other equipment, as well as for minor changes dictated by battlefield experience.

MANY AUXILIARY CARRIERS AT SEA, NAVY ANNOUNCES

Converted Merchant Ships Prove Worth.

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—The navy disclosed today that the first of a fleet of auxiliary aircraft carriers are in combat areas and scores of others are building in shipyards on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

The primary function of the auxiliary carriers at this time is to help smash the German U-boat offensive in the Atlantic, but they are by no means limited to furnishing convoy protection, having uses also as ferrying craft and in fleet operations. The greatest need for them now, however, is in the North Atlantic and indications were that that was where the bulk of the force would be disposed.

Converted from merchant-type vessels or built keel-up as auxiliaries, these carriers have a force of aircraft adequate to patrol vast reaches of the ocean in convoy duty and, the navy said, provide a "triple menace" to the enemy's undersea, surface, and air raiders.

Vice Adm. Frederick J. Horne, vice chief of naval operations, said the auxiliary aircraft program was "coming along very rapidly."

Show Worth in Combat.

Horne reported that the auxiliary carriers have "been very successful, but the nature of a carrier of this type without high speed" has limitations due to weather.

Some have already been in combat, he said, and have been in "all of the seven seas."

The auxiliary carriers "can and have served to transport military airplanes," the navy disclosed. "They can carry fueled-up planes to within flying range of combat areas and catapult them into the air for immediate service in fighting the axis from the skies. A substantial number of planes now operating in North Africa were taken across the Atlantic by these vessels."

Based on Experimental Ship.

This carrier program arose from an experiment made two years ago when a maritime commission vessel was fitted out with a flight deck and equipped with planes for use as an escort vessel. Converted, she became the U. U. S. Long Island and now is with the fleet.

So successful did the navy find the experiment that a program of greater magnitude was ordered and it included also conversion of several oilers into auxiliary carriers.

A sharp increase in the number of such auxiliaries was ordered in 1942, the navy disclosed, and that number later in the same year was boosted materially "so that literally scores of them are now under construction on the ways of several shipyards located along both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts."

REJECT BELGIAN PLEA FOR FOOD ON MERCY SHIP

LONDON, March 26 (AP).—The British government has informed Hubert Pierlot, premier and minister of national defense of the Belgian government in exile, that the United States and Great Britain cannot comply with his request to allow the freighter Caritas to carry a cargo of powdered milk to Belgium on her next voyage.

THIS IS A YOUNG MAN'S WAR, SAYS ONE WHO FIGHTS

This is a young man's war, declared Seaman Lester Bonner, 21 years old, yesterday on his return home at 802 Grand avenue, Waukegan, after several months of perilous sea duty. He is on leave.

Lester Bonner.

"Last December the freighter I was on was torpedoed," said the young sailor. "Thirteen of us piled into a boat, which capsized five minutes later. A corvette picked us up. Only one of the 13 died. He was the 'old man' of our crew. He was 37 years old. Older men can't take it."

Bonner recalled a winter storm on the ocean in which his ship battled 40 foot high waves. For two days, he said, two men were actually marooned in a forward section of the boat, their mates unable to take them food or other necessities because of the storm.

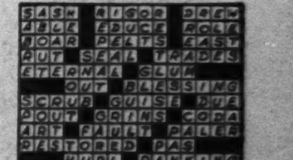
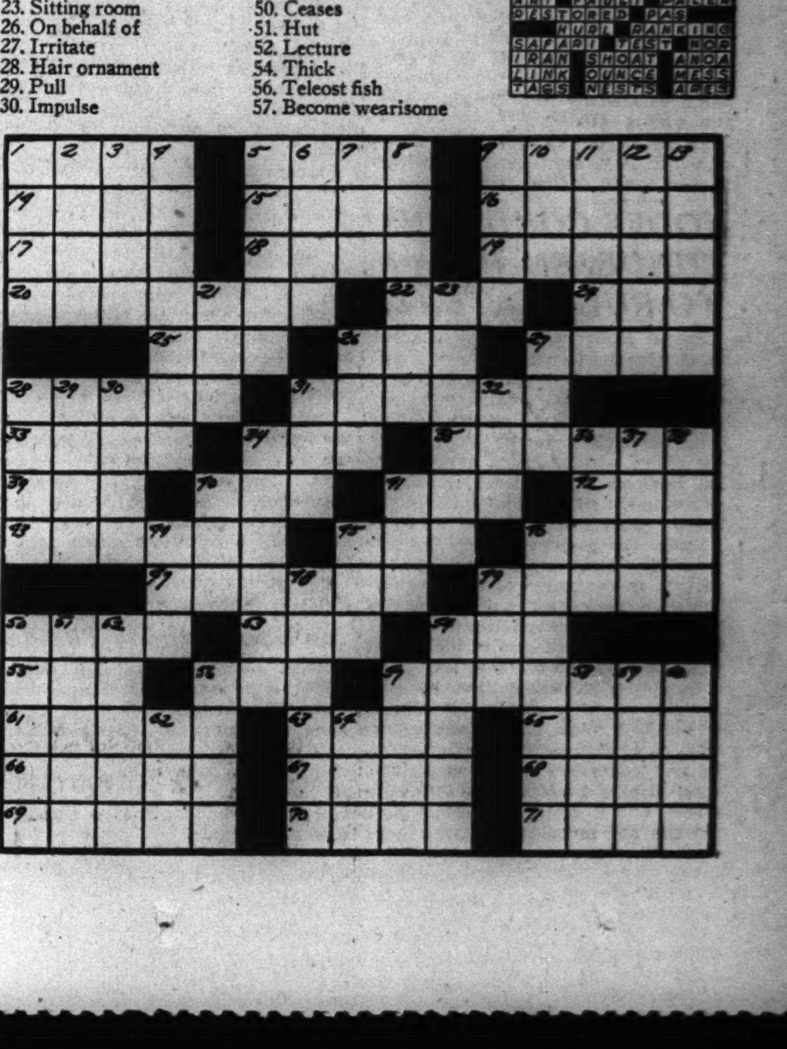
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, MARCH 26, SOLVED





NEARBY CITIES HAVE ELECTIONS APRIL 6 AND 20

Candidates Campaign for Local Offices.

Local elections are scheduled during April in many cities in counties surrounding Chicago. Aurora will vote April 6 and Waukegan, Elgin, Highland Park, Kankakee, Joliet, Forest Park, and Wheaton will hold elections April 20. Waukegan, Aurora, and Kankakee will not be voting for mayor, however.

Township elections in all Illinois counties will be held April 6. Included in Kane county's township voting will be a referendum to decide whether the county will issue $180,000 in bonds to purchase 800 acres for an airport site. Two million dollars from the federal government has been promised to help finance an airport if the bond issue is voted.

Watch Worker in Elgin Race.

In Elgin Mayor Myron M. Lehman is opposed for his fourth term by Walter E. Miller, a watch worker. James F. Hennessy and Ernest T. Schroeder are running for clerk of the city court in Elgin, and Judge Charles Page is unopposed for reelection as judge of the city court.

Elgin will choose four commissioners from the group consisting of Morgan H. Brightman, Frank Struckman, William Trentlage, and John Zimmerli Jr., incumbents, and Alfred W. Heath, retiring clerk of the city court; Carl N. Norlander and Delbert E. Pate.

Mayor Frank J. Ronan of Highland Park, is retiring and only one candidate, Joseph B. Garnett, is running for the office. Four commissioners will be selected from among Lyle Gourley, Nathan S. In Joliet the mayoral battle will be between Mayor George T. Jones and Albert O. Janke, young business man who outscored the mayor in the primary fight. Wheaton's mayor will be either William Gamon or Joe Ruch.

Clarence L. Brown, Republican incumbent, and Frank McManaman, Democrat, are the candidates for police magistrate in Waukegan. Three aldermen unopposed for reëlection are: Thomas E. McCann [D.], 2d; Joseph Bidinger [R.], 4th, and Emery Bozarth [R.], 5th.

Aside from the aldermanic fight, the only contest in Aurora will be between John Van Ham and A. C. Weingartner for clerk of the city court. Van Ham is the incumbent. Lambert M. Ochsenschlager, who has served three terms as police magistrate, and John P. Thill, pro tem city clerk, are unopposed for this election.

Kankakee's election will be confined to aldermanic candidates. Contests will take place only in the 1st and 5th wards. Ald. Fred Maisonneuve [D] is opposed by Fred Whittington [R] in the 1st and Albert Houde [R] and William Dolan [D] are campaigning for the vacancy in the 5th.

Five Are Unopposed.

No opposition was registered against the following incumbents: James Land [R], 2d; Herman Haake [R], 3d; Edward Nelson [R], 4th; Walter Denschle [R], 6th; and Edwin Du Charme [R], 7th.

St. Charles, Geneva, and Batavia each will vote April 20 on three expiring council terms. The only post for which there is more than one contestant is in the 2d ward in Batavia, where Claus T. Redlund is running against George Tincknell for the seat being vacated by Ald. Theodore Larsen, who is retiring.

Nearly all the villages in this area also will hold elections for local offices on the third Tuesday next month.

HODES CONDEMNS BUNDESEN PLAN TO RULE PATENTS

Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, refused yesterday to approve a proposed board of health order that would prevent health department employés from obtaining patents on anything developed during their working hours without prior approval of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board. Dr. Bundesen said the board would follow Hodes' decision.

Under the proposed order, the city would pay costs of applying for such patents in the name of the inventor "in such manner as to allow the city government, or any citizen of Chicago, to use the subject of the patent without payment of royalties."

Bundesen explained that back of the plan was the considerable amount of research work being done in the field of intensive treatment of syphilis and gonorrhea at the city's venereal disease hospital, 2449 Dearborn street, and a desire to protect both the city and inventor.

M'KIBBIN LINKS KELLY MACHINE WITH GANGSTERS

Contends Underworld Pays for Protection.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

George B. McKibbin, Republican nominee for mayor, declared last night that a civic uprising was on the way for the April 6 election because Chicago was now awake to what "the partnership of crime and politics has cost." He dwelt on racketeering, gangster syndicates, and the underworld, and insisted these were the source of campaign funds that kept the machine in power.

In a speech delivered over W-G-N at 6:15 p. m., McKibbin took for his theme "What You Pay for City Hall-Syndicate Rule."

By way of preface, McKibbin spoke of racketeering in prohibition days and its continuance after repeal, and said that when Al Capone got out of Alcatraz the syndicate was stronger than ever.

Links Syndicate and Machine.

"The syndicate, under the crafty Frank Nitti, the Enforcer, was more powerful than before," said McKibbin. "It had cemented its partnership with the city hall machine on a strictly business basis. The syndicate regularly contributed a fixed share of the profits from its commercialized gambling and vice to the coffers of the machine. It was a matter of knowledge that the underworld paid its political assessments regularly at the junk yard of Billy Skidmore, since convicted for income tax fraud.

"The dollars of the syndicate were the backbone of the huge campaign fund that kept the Kelly machine in power. In return, the Kelly machine permitted the syndicate controled gambling and vice dens to operate unmolested, while it used the police force to stamp out any independent competitor. Policemen winked at violations of the law by syndicate controled taverns and night clubs. Business men protested in vain at the encroachment of racketeers.

Gangsters Get School Contract.

"The gangster controled firm that supplied towels to the syndicates' taverns and cafés even got a contract from the board of education under the Kelly-McCahey régime."

McKibbin spoke of the suicide of Nitti after he and six others had been indicted last week in New York:

"The death of Nitti does not destroy the syndicate. Wednesday the syndicate laid $40,000 in cash and $60,000 in cashier's checks on the line as bail for Paul Ricca and Louis [Little New York] Campagna, two Nitti henchmen. A syndicate that can raise that amount of cash on two hours' notice is still going strong; and it will continue to do business as long as it enjoys protection in the city hall."

McKibbin said taxes and insurance rates reflected the cost of what he termed the "partnership of crime and politics."

FIND MESSENGER BECAME 'EXPERT' IN BEW IN 2 YEARS

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—The case of a navy yard messenger who in two years advanced to the job of business analyst with the board of economic warfare at $4,600 a year stirred interest today of the house civil service committee investigating government personnel.

Chairman Robert Ramspeck [D., Ga.] asked Arthur S. Flemming, civil service commissioner, to look into it. Flemming said he would, adding "if such a thing happened it was the result of our war time policy of declaration of authority to agency heads."

Ramspeck said that in October, 1940, "the messenger was in a navy yard at $1,080 a year. In February, 1941, he was transferred to the office of the secretary of war at $1,440 salary. In October, 1941, he went to the board of economic warfare as an intelligence officer at $3,800 a year. In September, 1942, he was made a business analyst at $4,600. His record shows he has no particular qualifications for the job."

Rep. Carter Manasco [D., Ala.] of the committee remarked: "Also there are lots of young lawyers around here whose only duty it is to write regulations. The more complex they make the regulations the more they are paid. I think we might take a look at those fellows also."

Police Sergeant to Retire on 63d Birthday Tuesday

Sergt. John Ronan, 3522 Hirsch street, assigned to the Cragin police station for 35 of the 36 years he has been a member of the department, will retire Tuesday on his 63d birthday. Ronan was cited for bravery three times. He said that after a rest at home he plans to become a war plant guard.

MRS. T. K. SIMMONS.

Tulsa, Okla., March 26 [Special].—A charge of murder was placed today against Mrs. Ella B. Howard, 44 year old divorcée of Fort Worth, Tex., in the shooting last night of Mrs. T. Karl Simmons, 55, widely known horsewoman and wife of a wealthy independent oil operator.

Mrs. Simmons was shot during a struggle with Mrs. Howard in the latter's hotel room. The divorcée said Mrs. Simmons, whom she knew only slightly, came to her door with a pistol and said, "I am going to kill you." In the ensuing struggle over the weapon, Mrs. Simmons was wounded three times.

Simmons arrived on the scene shortly after the shooting, but was said to be too distraught to make a statement. Later he said he hadn't seen either his wife or Mrs. Howard yesterday. Mrs. Howard declared she was in Tulsa on business.

CITES DIAGNOSIS BY MACHINE IN DRIVE ON QUACKS

A diagnosing machine which, by the mere touch of a finger, "revealed" a patient's ailments, figured yesterday in issuance of bench warrants by Judge Russell W. Keeney in County court, for the arrest of four alleged quacks.

Miss Charlotte Hermes, an investigator for the state department of education and registration, told about it in getting a warrant against Edward J. Prindville, 4158 Maypole avenue. "He had a gadget on his desk which he called a diagnosing machine," she said. "He told me to put my little finger in it. I did so, he turned a knob, and then announced I had eight units of influenza."

The other warrants named Thomas Deschauer, owner of the National Herb company, 1031 South 17th street, Maywood; H. W. Bandy, 3713 Sheffield avenue, and Pauline Gauthier, 4013 Madison street. Miss Loraine Johnson, another state investigator, also worked on the cases. Assistant State's Attorney Roman Stachnik prepared the warrants.

TRACTION UNITY BAFFLES STATE COMMERCE BOARD

Members of the Illinois commerce commission were still considering yesterday their decision on the 179 million dollar Chicago traction unification plan.

John D. Biggs, chairman, said the members had not agreed on the order to be issued and that this was the only reason for holding back the decision. He declined to forecast what will be done with the plan, which can be put into effect only with commission approval.

"We may or may not reach our decision before the mayoralty election," he added. "Our approach to the matter is not political and the election will neither hurry nor delay us."

CIRCUS RAILROAD TRAVEL GRANTED APPROVAL BY ODT

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—The song of the calliope will be heard again this year, the government having decided circus trains may roll once more.

But the office of defense transportation hedged its permission today with an announcement that circus train travel must give precedence to "all other train movements, whether freight, passenger or mixed freight, and passenger movements."

The order authorized railroads to transport employés and property of circuses, carnivals, and similar shows in cars owned or leased by the show companies.

$200 FIRE IN RESTAURANT.

Damage estimated at $200 was caused by fire early yesterday in the restaurant at 2843 Madison street.

ASSURES VOTERS HOME RULE LIES ONLY WITH KELLY

It's Advice of One Time Parks' Attorney.

Charles Center Case, in the rôle of chief Democratic spokesman, plumped last night for the reëlection of Mayor Kelly by contending that a Republican victory in the city election April 6 would be a blow to home rule for Chicago. His speech was broadcast.

Case referred to his former jobs as special vote fraud prosecutor, assistant state's attorney, and attorney for the board of election commissioners. Between 1936 and 1938 he was park district attorney at $10,800 a year. Himself a Democrat, he urged that voters avoid choosing their mayor according to party labels.

"Both machines will line our approach to the polls at the next election," Case said. "I have no complaint about that and, in fact, like to see it. Your and my objections are not to organizations as such but to too much power in any one place. We believe in the distribution of powers, and in checks and balances.

Questions Centralized Power.

"Some years ago, when State's Atty. Hoyne had proved himself to be a very good official and wanted to be mayor, many persons objected and argued that if elected mayor he might be both state's attorney and mayor at the same time and that that would be too much power in any person's hands.

"Thereupon the voters jumped from the frying pan into the fire; because, by electing as mayor a candidate who was in cahoots with the governor, they created an overpowerful machine—a combined state and city machine—and a corrupt one.

"A dual machine so composed not only is an overpowerful monster but also is a Frankenstein destructive of home rule in Chicago. We don't want to have our local city government run by any statehouse crowd. We demand home rule.

"Yet the present powerful state machine now brazenly asks us to add to its great patronage all the patronage and power of this great city."

Mixture of Criticism.

Case recalled "the evil days of crime and politics during the notorious rule of the Thompson-Small machine." As a prosecutor, he said, he learned "the names of the culprits and their criminal allies."

"To me, who thought we had rendered a lasting public benefit," Case said, "it is most disheartening to find so many of those old culprits again in well paying and powerful places on this state's public pay rolls."

After declaring that, personally, he likes George B. McKibbin, the Republican candidate, and Gov. Dwight H. Green, Mr. Case continued in a vein that made this statement a puzzle. He accused them of ruthless treatment of state civil service, slandering Chicago, extravagance, and "shocking" selection of patronage dispensers.

Bernard Weaver Appointed Criminal Courts Custodian

Sheriff Peter B. Carey announced the appointment yesterday of Bernard Weaver as chief custodian of the criminal courts building. He succeeds the late Rudolph Sabath.

FBI AGENTS SEIZE 7 GERMAN ALIENS, ONE AN AID IN OCD

Another in Beer Hall Blast, He Says.

A German alien who said he would refuse to fight against his country and who was found to be a civilian defense instructor in gas defense in Chicago, was among seven German aliens arrested yesterday by Chicago agents of the federal bureau of investigation.

Spencer J. Drayton, head of the Chicago FBI office, said the names of the aliens would not be made public. He said they were arrested after they were heard to make disparaging remarks about the government. Thus far, Drayton said, 247 aliens have been arrested in the Chicago area since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. They include six Italians and nine Japanese.

Resident in U. S. for 15 Years.

Drayton said the alien found to be an OCD instructor had been living in this country for about 15 years and that before the United States entered the war against Germany, had visited the German consul to register for pre-military training.

Other Germans seized yesterday included a mechanic who was at work in the 500 block on Adams street. He said he had made several trips to Germany and had been present in the Munich beer hall in 1940 when it was wrecked by an internal bomb a few minutes after Hitler left the place.

Another alien said he was a member of the Reich Deutsch Vereinigung, described as an underground German organization, and that he had no desire to become a citizen of the United States. FBI agents said the alien told them he preferred the Nazi to the American government.

Find Radio Set.

A short wave radio set was found in the possession of another who said that during the World War he made time bombs in Germany for the army.

Agents said another of the aliens seized boasted that Hitler was justified in his invasion of other countries and that he thought he could have been a good German spy. The other two aliens were a man with two cameras and a number of swastika signs in his home in the 8900 block on South Loomis street and a former member of the German merchant marine.

BURGLARS ROB WOMAN.

Police yesterday sought burglars who broke into the flat of Mrs. Geraldine Riggio at 7926 Calumet avenue and took $90 and jewelry valued at $10.

CICERO SCHOOL BOARD HEAD TO ASK RE-ELECTION

Frank J. Petru, president and only member of the Cicero school board who was not indicted recently on charges of conspiracy to defraud the district thru overcharges for school supplies, will be a candidate for reelection on April 10, the Cicero Educational council announced yesterday. Petru, a real estate man, has served on the board for more than 20 years.

The council disclosed it also will sponsor the candidacies of James Bezdek, president of the Czechoslovakian Taxpayers' association of Cicero; Louis Christensen, founder of the Cicero Parent-Teacher organization, and Franklin Miller, an employé of the Western Electric company, for election to membership on the school board.

Cicero still does not know if any of the board members who were indicted and subsequently acquitted on the charges on March 17 will run for reëlection. All such inquiries have been referred to Frederick Weil, secretary of the board, who has refused to be interviewed.

USO OPEN HOUSE IN CHICAGO AREA 9 TO 11 TOMORROW

The civilian public of Chicago is invited to open house at the 12 United Service organizations clubhouses in Chicago and the north shore from 9 a. m. to 11 p. m. tomorrow.

"The clubhouses were made possible thru the generous contributions of the public," said Jeffrey R. Short, president of the local USO council. "If more citizens see in what manner the USO attempts to create a 'home away from home' for men and women in the armed forces they will understand just how much their time and money means."

Visitors will be taken on tours. The open house inspection will apply to the 1,200 USO clubhouses in the United States and overseas.

PLANS TO MERGE PAROLE REFORM BILLS IN HOUSE

Rennick Seeks to Block Legal Objections.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Rep. F. W. Rennick.

Rep. Frederick W. Rennick [R., Buda] said yesterday that he intends to effect the merger next week in the house of his bills providing judges with power to impose maximum and minimum sentences and the bills for the same purpose passed by the senate Tuesday under sponsorship of Sen. William J. Connors [D., Chicago].

It is expected that the Rennick bills will be reported out favorably next Tuesday by the house committee on judicial practice headed by Rep. Charles J. Jenkins [R., Chicago]. The Connors bills and the Rennick bills all will be on the house calendar Wednesday, according to the plan.

Dodge Legal Objections.

Elaborate precautions are being taken to make the proposed law legally impregnable. A similar law enacted in 1941 was invalidated by the Supreme court because a state commission was given power to change judicial sentences. Besides overcoming this defect, the new bills seek to guard against legal objections never yet raised.

Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago], one of the original introducers of the parole reform measure in 1937, has continued to show keen interest in the legislation. A studious lawyer of wide experience, he is working with Rennick and the legislative reference bureau's experts to make the bills foolproof.

Proposes Title Change.

Rennick, as a result, will offer an amendment to the bills to change the title of the basic parole law. It is now "An act to revise the law in relation to the sentence and commitment of persons convicted of crime or offenses and providing for a system of parole and to repeal certain acts and parts of acts therein named."

Rennick proposes the title: "An act to revise the law in relation to the fixing of the punishment and the sentence and commitment of persons convicted of crime or offenses and providing for a system of parole."

He said the point is that the Supreme court has held some laws invalid on grounds that they were not covered by the title of the acts in which they were incorporated.

Opens Door for Rulings.

A technical companion bill to the main bills also was contributed by Rennick. One part would make the proposed law apply to all crimes "to which said act may be applicable." This is to leave the Rennick-Connors legislation open for possible Supreme court rulings which might bring additional crimes within its scope.

Rubin Cohn of the legislative reference bureau provided the following description of the companion bill:

"The present criminal code sentencing provisions are in conflict with the Rennick-Connors bill as to felonies.

Not All Subject to Parole.

"To harmonize the criminal code provisions and the Rennick-Connors bills is the purpose of the companion bill. Since misdemeanors are not subject to the parole act the present provisions of the criminal code must be retained after nominal repeal for practicality in drafting.

"Also since some crimes may be punished either by imprisonment in the county jail [misdemeanors] or in the penitentiary [felonies], in the discretion of the court or jury, the present sections of the criminal code must be retained.

"It is not intended by the companion bill to affect the punishment features of crimes which are not or may not be subject to the parole act."

JANITOR SEIZED FOR ALLEGED THREATS TO F.D.R.

Louis Sprenzel, 55 years old, a janitor at Avondale elementary school, was arrested yesterday by secret service agents on a charge of sending a letter threatening the life of the President. Sprenzel, thru his attorney, Leo Klein, denied the charge when he was arraigned before Edwin K. Walker, United States commissioner, who set hearing on the case for April 2.

Secret service agents and John J. Kelly, assistant United States attorney, said the one threatening letter allegedly written by Sprenzel was printed with a pencil and unsigned. They would not say how they traced Sprenzel as the author. Kelly said the agents have been investigating approximately 200 similar letters sent the President from Chicago since May, 1941.

Sprenzel, who resides at 2727 Belmont avenue, was released on a $2,500 bond.

MOTHER AND SON REPORTED NAMED IN MURDER BILL

A mother and son were reported named in a true bill voted by the Cook county grand jury yesterday on a charge of murder as the result of the fatal stabbing last Feb. 21 of Theodore Riseberg in their home at 668 West 62d street. The mother is Mrs. Margaret Keane, 50 years old, a divorcée. Her son, William, 19, is a music student. The son said he stabbed Riseberg, a roomer, when he found him beating Mrs. Keane. John Long, assistant state's attorney, said the stories of the mother and son conflicted.

HOW CARROZZO GOT POWER TO SEIZE UNIONS

Partner of W. E. Maloney in His Climb.

BY ORVILLE DWYER AND GEORGE HARTMANN.

Michael Carrozzo was always glad he sent a tremendous horseshoe floral tribute to William E. Maloney, chief of Local 150 of the operating engineers, while the latter was in Henrotin hospital late in May, 1932, recovering from automobile injuries. On the horseshoe in big gold letters was the message, "Good Luck, Old Pal." And Carrozzo meant it. Maloney had picked Mike up in the early '30's and had done much for him in the labor rackets.

Carrozzo met Maloney not long after the former's graduation from the shovel and broom of a street cleaner. As a union boss he wasn't much, having somewhat dubious control of one small local union of white wings—it was officially called Local 1001 of the Street Maintenance Employés.

When Carrozzo died in 1940 he was sole boss of 25 locals of the Hodcarriers, Building and Common Laborers district councils, with 20,000 workers paying dues.

Maloney is president of the International Union of Operating Engineers, with 150,000 dues paying members in the United States and Canada.

Ideal Front Man.

Carrozzo from the first was allied with the Nitti-Ricca-Campagna crew of union looters and terrorists. Mike Carrozzo was an ideal front man. In time he was serving not only the labor gangsters but a gang of paving contractors.

Maloney needed Carrozzo and Carrozzo needed Maloney. Carrozzo was part of the muscle that the late Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, Paul Ricca, and Louis [Little New York] Campagna furnished to the contractors. The old mobsters in the "outlaw" teamsters' union, the late George [Red] Barker and the late Willie [Three Fingered Jack] White, Marcus [Studdy] Looney, Murray Humphreys, and Charlie Fischetti, cousin of the Capones, thought well of Mike Carrozzo. He seemed bound to succeed.

Scope of the Gangsters' Plan.

The ambitions for Carrozzo were shown by a report published in The Tribune on Sept. 2, 1930. It declared that Alphonse Capone and Red Barker were planning to place Carrozzo in the presidency of the powerful Chicago Building Trades council. Capone, Nitti, Ricca, Campagna, and Barker would then be the power behind the throne in all building activities in Chicago.

The gangsters had learned then that there was one way to make certain of electing their men to union offices: Have a sufficient number of gunmen on hand to supervise the voting. Patrick F. Sullivan, then president of the council, was a candidate for public office in 1930, and seemed certain to be elected. Carrozzo was to be put in his place in the trades council. In order to forestall the coup of the hoodlums, honest labor leaders adopted a strategem. They quietly advanced the date of the building trades council election two weeks. Martin Durkin, assistant business agent of the steamfitters' union, was elected.

MOB SHIFTS PLAN

But the misfire on the scheme to put Carrozzo at the head of the building trades council didn't faze the mobsters. They got together with Maloney, cemented his alliance with Carrozzo, and within five years Carrozzo had full control of one international union and numerous local unions, including those of asphalt workers, concrete, brick, granite and other laborers, paving inspectors, paving workers, cement workers, section and dump foremen, sewer cleaners, house drain inspectors, asphalt resurfacing and road builders—not to forget his own original union, the white wings.

Mike Carrozzo, naturalization records show, was born in Montaguto, Italy. He used to brag that he had risen from just a poor boy "born in Montaguto." He reached this country at the age of 11 and arrived in Chicago as a lad of 14.

In his 'teens he became a hanger-on and bodyguard for the late Big Jim Colosimo, vice monger who ruled the old red light district and who has been called the first victim of the Chicago gang feuds. Mike started as a messenger boy for Colosimo. He was husky, tho, and when promoted to bodyguard of the boss found himself sharing this responsibility with Al Capone, then known as Al Brown. The latter was fresh from the Five Points gang in New York.

This brings the narrative to the indictment of Carrozzo with Timothy D. [Big Tim] Murphy, for the assassination of Maurice [Mossy] Enright, on Feb. 3, 1920.

Enright a Labor Arbiter.

Enright was a notorious gunman himself and at the time of his slaying was an arbiter for the pipe trades council, an adjunct of the plumbers and steamfitters. Carrozzo, at this time known as a gunman, labor slugger and habitue of the old 22d street levee district, was in fact the key figure in the Enright slaying and it was at this time that Murphy first advanced him into unionism beyond the mere plugugly stage.

It developed in the investigation of the Enright murder that Murphy had put Carrozzo in as head of the white wings in the place of one Hugh Lynch, who was Enright's man in that budding union. Lynch was incautious enough to leave town and in his absence Murphy moved in, held a fake election and installed Mike as president and business agent. James Vinci was sentenced to 14 years for the Enright murder; Murphy, Carrozzo, and Vincenzo Cosmano, who were indicted for conspiracy to murder Enright, were freed when Vinci made a detailed confession of the murder and it was found state's witnesses against the trio had disappeared.

Enright, incidentally, was the first victim of an automobile assassination in Chicago. Gunmen who drove alongside his car as he stopped in front of his home at 1110 West Garfield boulevard for dinner almost blew his head off with shotguns.

Now Mike Carrozzo was free of the Enright murder charge, he had control of the street cleaners, and during the next decade he slowly built up his labor rule, taking control of unions of other street laborers, such as city street repairers.

CARROZZO IN POLITICS

Carrozzo, out to get pay raises for his members, called a strike Feb. 17, 1925. Those who walked out included the street sweepers, street repairers, section and dump foremen and garbage wagon drivers. The strike lasted a week. Mike wanted steady employment for his street sweepers and asked a raise of 50 cents a day in their wages. For the repairmen he asked a raise of $1 a day; and he demanded the pay of the refuse dump foremen be increased from $165 a month to $200. His demands were satisfied.

By 1928 Carrozzo had begun to play around with both state and city hall politicians. Evidence of this became public when on Aug. 16 of that year he was arrested by detectives seizing suspicious persons in connection with a McHenry [Ill.] bank robbery. He was found to have had a revolver in his pocket and claimed the right to carry concealed weapons on the strength of a state game warden's star on his car and a state highway policeman's card.

Mike Enters Politics.

A Municipal court judge discharged him when he was arraigned, but a few days later he was re-arrested on the charge. This time he took a jury trial. On Sept. 12, he convinced a jury that he was a protector of the game and wild life in Illinois and again was acquitted.

Carrozzo was particularly welcome in the city hall. He was, in fact, becoming a power in politics because he was able to favor aldermen and committeemen by providing work for ward and precinct henchmen.

So Mike had attained some stature when Maloney cemented their partnership in paving matters. Maloney knew that Carrozzo was a henchman of Nitti, Ricca, and Campagna.

STRIKE A WEAPON

Moreover, about this time, Carrozzo demonstrated his growing power by calling a general strike of 4,000 city employés, including street cleaners, truck drivers, garbage handlers, and repair men. Mike's publicly proclaimed excuse for the strike was that Joseph P. Savage, school board trustee, who had been appointed general foreman for the granite block workers at a salary of $4,500 a year, was not a union man. Savage had been appointed by Richard Wolfe, then commissioner of public works.

The real reason for calling the strike of city workers was this: Several private contractors were working on street paving at this same time, and Carrozzo had pulled out his men engaged on these projects. Carrozzo and his hoodlum advisers believed a city strike would take the heat off the unwanted strikes in the private jobs. What they actually wanted was time to squeeze the asphalt and cement workers on the private jobs out of the unions in which they were members and force them into Carrozzo's paving locals.

Carrozzo Takes a Union.

Most of the workers on the private contract paving jobs were colored men. A thousand or more belonged to local 1002, affiliated with the Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers International union—Carrozzo's international. But Mike and his Nitti mobster associates wanted to get these Negro workers out of that local into Carrozzo's local 1001.

A brawny Negro, William Baker, was business agent of local 1002.

Baker was a two-fisted, hard working business agent, working for the benefit of his men. Some harmless delusions of grandeur had taken possession of him upon his elevation from the ranks of laborers, and he spent a good deal of his time riding around in a dilapidated second hand but shiny black automobile. He drove from job to job. Baker was honest and carefully investigated all of his men's complaints and working conditions.

When Baker reached a job where he wanted to get all sides of the story he was currently investigating, he would step out on the running board of his car, and blow a little whistle. The local's members knew that whistle. All would quit work and gather around Baker's car. Baker would then turn to those in the automobile with him, laugh and ask: "Is that control or is that control?"

This was the man whose union Carrozzo, Maloney, Nitti, and the "Red" Barker combination now took over.

Tagnotti Explains Technique.

The city strike was called on June 6 and 7, 1930. Before it got under way Maloney, thru his business agents, and Dan Tagnotti, sent out by Barker and White from "Studdy" Looney's truck drivers' local, had forced Baker's Negro workers to quit work by calling the truck drivers and asphalt steam roller men off the paving jobs. Contractors on the private paving jobs were mystified by these strikes until Tagnotti explained:

"We are going to fold up Baker's local; Carrozzo is taking over this work. If the men want to work they will have to go to Carrozzo's office at 100 North La Salle street and join his union."

WELCOME: $50 PER

So Baker's local went out of existence and his 1,000 members flocked to see Mike Carrozzo. In humble spirit they came; and they did not come in vain. Mike walked among the colored brethren, shaking hands, slapping backs, and creating a welcome—at $50 a head. Every man was told he'd have to dig up "half a C" as initiation fee into the new local, Mike Carrozzo's local 1001. But Carrozzo was reasonable. If they didn't happen to have $50 handy, they were allowed to pay it $5 down and so much a month.

As soon as Carrozzo had achieved his purpose and taken over Baker's union, the strike on the city paving jobs, which was only a mark for the strike on the private projects, was called off.

How They Worked.

This coöperative action by Maloney and Carrozzo was typical of their association in the years to come. Sometimes it was Maloney and his business agents who backed up Carrozzo by pulling their men off of jobs to enforce Carrozzo's demands; at other times it was Carrozzo pulling his men to enforce Maloney's demands.

One Chicago labor leader who watched the Maloney-Carrozzo-Nitti-Ricca-Campagna technique said:

"Bill Maloney and Mike Carrozzo were Siamese twins. One couldn't move without the other — because sometimes one had to step in and sometimes the other had to step in to coerce the contractors and the workers.

Prior to the summer of 1930, Carrozzo's jurisdiction over paving jobs had been limited to Chicago. From that time on, with the taking over of local 1002 and with increasing help from Maloney, Carrozzo took charge of paving thruout the Chicagoland area. This move increased his power and opportunities immeasurably; it cut him in, for the first time on a large scale, on the per ton graft paid on asphalt, concrete, and other paving materials.

GANG PARTNERSHIP

Another demonstration of the close partnership between Carrozzo and Maloney was given less than a year later. On May 21, 1931, members of the Truck Owner's association—forerunner of the TNT conspiracy—called a strike of truck drivers, demanding the city employ 25 trucks from persons designated by association officials.

Hold Up the City.

To make this strike effective, Carrozzo pulled out 2,500 paving and street workers, simultaneously the outlaw teamsters under "Three Finger Jack" White called out some 500 of their men, and Maloney stopped all the steam roller men and other engineers on the paving jobs involved. This strike was settled within 24 hours. The city quickly gave in. Carrozzo, after talking with Anton Cermak, then mayor—who had rebuked the union leaders for paralyzing Cermak, then mayor—who had reover—explained matters to reporters.

"Just a misunderstanding," Mike said. "They won't push Mike Carrozzo's boys around any more."

The mayor himself, however, had a different version. He said:

"Carrozzo followed the truck men into this political conspiracy. The city's rate of pay to contractors for trucks varies between $27.50 and $32.50 a day. If the city could afford to fight the combination of unions involved, it could go out and get trucks for $20 a day."

Carrozzo's Power Widened.

Next Carrozzo took over jurisdiction of 900 workers in the city water pipe extension department, now comprising local 1092 of the Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers International union, and at the same time grabbed control of 100 men who helped the electrical linemen, putting up and repairing lighting wires. These men were at the time installing underground light equipment in the 3d, 4th and 5th Wards.

In order to accomplish this new grab, Carrozzo had to call a strike of the men. Said Mayor Cermak:

"I don't see how linemen helpers get to be members of Carrozzo's union. From the title—they're called linemen helpers — I should think they'd be members of the electrical workers union."

Mike about now began to spend a good deal of his winters in Florida. Many of the workers in his unions, now numbering thousands, were primarily summer workers and could be employed only in mild periods of winter. So Mike found it pleasant to loll on the Miami beaches.

TNT Is Attacked.

The Trucking and Transportation exchange—the notorious TNT often referred to as Crime, Inc.—which had its offices at 1 North La Salle street, by this period had passed the formulative stage and really begun to function. During all of 1932 and 1933, the gang behind TNT raked in dollars at the rate of $500,000 a year. Among the TNT chieftains indicted on Dec. 30, 1933, were Maloney, and John I. Lynch, his assistant business agent and president of Maloney's local 150, "Three Fingered Jack" White ["Red" Barker already had been slain], Marcus [Studdy] Looney and some 14 others.

As explained in yesterday's installment of this series, the TNT trials ended in acquittal of all concerned. Prior to the TNT trials all unions in Chicago were equal so far as the state's attorney's office was concerned. After the TNT trials the power of the state's attorneys office was exerted in forcing those unions still operating independently—and there were powerful ones among them—into internationals affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Ironically enough, on Jan. 3, 1934, just after TNT had been broken up by the wholesale indictment of those enforcing its extortion upon every business doing any hauling in Chicago, Maloney's own local 150, the local into which he had so ruthlessly forced all engineers, once more by unanimous action expelled both Maloney and John I. Lynch.

How the Union Felt.

Maloney then was treasurer and supervisor of the local; Lynch was the president Maloney had appointed. Both men were basking in the Florida sunshine, deciding when to return to Chicago and surrender on the TNT indictment. They had been absent from five consecutive monthly meetings. The constitution gave the members the right to expel them if they absented themselves for more than two meetings "without a good excuse."

MALONEY FIRED

So, by a vote of 263 to nothing, the chairs of the two men were declared vacant and temporary successors elected. And all 263 signed a petition to General President Arthur Possehl of the international, asking him to call an official election of officers on Feb. 7, 1934.

On Jan. 16, 1934, 13 days after the 263 men in local 150 sent him their petition, President Possehl, by telegraph, replied as follows:

"William E. Maloney was appointed supervisor and representative of the general president May 8, 1929, with full written instructions to conduct all the business of the union for and in behalf of the general president and the international union, with full power to appoint and employ all necessary officers, business representatives, clerks, and assistants, and to operate the union.

"Therefore, said officers, business representatives, clerks, and assistants, being subordinate to William E. Maloney, have no authority to participate in, or be a party to, any change in the operations or functioning of said local union. All changes made in the officers or business representatives and put into effect or decreed at the regular monthly meeting of Jan. 3, 1934, are hereby declared to be void."

UNION OUT—AND IN

Maloney now began a series of moves which a year later, in 1935, ended in complete absorption of local 569 by Maloney's local 150, an amalgamation the members of 569 had fought even after the murder of Dennis Bruce Zeigler, their militant leader, on Feb. 24, 1933, two years before. Officials of 569 were finally forced into local 150 when the state's attorney's office refused to continue to recognize the former local as a union because the AFL and the Chicago Building Trades council had expelled 569 because its members would not, at Maloney's insistence, quit their own organization and go into local 150.

As soon as the TNT trials were over on May 11, 1935, Carrozzo and Maloney sent their strong arm men and plug-uglies out to notify the paving contractors they proposed to levy 5 cents a ton on all work involving asphalt and 5 cents a yard on all work involving concrete. City and county paving associations shortly came into existence under the direction of the redoubtable duo; but in the meantime the preliminary work had to be done.

"Carrozzo wants 5 cents a yard from now on," was the laconic message transmitted to contractors. Many of the contractors had done business with Maloney. The concrete men, however, had paid slight attention to Carrozzo.

"Carrozzo?" said these men. "Who's Carrozzo?"

Contractors Acquire Wisdom.

Some of the contractors made telephone calls and became wise. Some refused to add anything to the per yard levy they already were paying. Then Maloney and Carrozzo, for the benefit of "those who don't seem to understand," began to strike certain jobs.

One of these was a Standard Paving company project on Loomis boulevard. It took two strikes, each lasting about 24 hours, to "wise up" the Standard officials. After that, everything was "hunkydory" as Mike gaily remarked.

Another strike in this period was recalled by a contractor yesterday:

"The Suburban Paving and Improvement company, headed by R. R. [Railroad] Anderson, was paving Canal street from 28th street to Roosevelt road. The job, including a retaining wall at 16th street, was a $200,000 project. Anderson was one of those who had asked, 'Who's Carrozzo?' He had told the Carrozzo agents who demanded the 5 cents a yard rakeoff to 'go ahead and pull the men.'

"The strike was called at once and Anderson moved all his heavy equipment off the streets back into his own yards. He was afraid of damage. It costs real money to move that equipment around and Suburban quickly settled."

Contractor's Memory Lapses.

Herbert Anderson, present head of the Suburban Paving and Improvement company, remarked yesterday:

"You're asking me the same questions that were put to us by an FBI agent named Shanahan. I was called before the federal grand jury. If Carrozzo or Maloney pulled their men during that Canal street paving I have no recollection of it."

After the contractor's associations had been formed, payments were made in Carrozzo's office at 100 North La Salle street. At first the levy on each constractor was 4 per cent of the gross contract price. This levy was slowly increased as politicians and others who believed they were entitled to a cut pushed themselves in. By the early part of 1936, when the associations had been in existence less than a year, the cut had reached 14 per cent of the gross bid on each job.

DICTATORS RULE

Now—in the early part of 1936—Carrozzo and Maloney—with the Nitti-Ricca-Campagna mob behind them—began to favor certain contractors. They told the contractors which would be permitted to bid on projects and which of them should not bid. Moreover, they [Maloney and Carrozzo] fixed the prices—told the contractors how much to bid.

Some of the contractors balked at this dictatorship. They soon discovered they had reckoned carelessly. They found the city hall corridors and other places where paving bids were to be received crowded with Carrozzo pluguglies. Whenever a contractor who wasn't "authorized" to bid on a job showed up, he found himself surrounded by these hoodlums and pushed up against the wall. There they kept him until it was too late to put in a bid.

Contractor Changes Mind.

One contractor, I. D. Lane, while paving Mannheim road, defied the Carrozzo-Maloney order. When told not to bid on a certain project, he said, "Tell 'em to go to ——." This word was carried back to Mike Carrozzo. Mike told Maloney. The next day Lane's crews, belonging to Carrozzo's and Maloney's unions, struck. All his machinery stood idle. On a nearby railroad spur loaded cars stood with materials on which Lane had to pay demurrage.

Mr. Lane did not carry out his threat to bid on the project. The strike was called off.

Then there was the little contractor who beat the Maloney-Carrozzo mob by a ruse.

Having once been backed against the wall leading to the city hall office where bids were being accepted, this contractor on his next bidding foray took off his coat and handed it to a confederate, rumpled his hair, stuck a lot of papers under his arm and then, with the general discouraged air of a city hall senior clerk, walked past the Carrozzo ruffians on watch in the hall.

A RUSE WINS

He sidled up to the box, dropped in his bids quickly, and shuffled out again right past the gangsters. He got safely away and his bids were successful on 14 contracts. This, however, was the only case on record in which a contractor outwitted the Maloney-Carrozzo forces.

Indicted by Federal Jury.

Carrozzo, Maloney, John I. Lynch, and six other union officials on June 24, 1940, were indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of conspiring to restrain the use of ready mixed concrete in the Chicago area. The indictment charged, that thru strikes and threats of strikes, Carrozzo, Maloney, Lynch, and the others forced paving contractors to accede to union demands that the same number of workmen be employed on a truck mixer as would be employed if the concrete were mixed in a stationary mixer at the scene of a job. A truck mixer is a truck on which concrete is mixed en route to a job.

The indictment also charged that building contractors were prevented from using the truck mixers and that manufacturers and purchasers of them were warned that their use was barred in the Chicago area. On Sept. 21, 1940, while this indictment was still hanging over his head, Maloney was elected president of the International Union of Operating Engineers in Washington by the executive board, to take the place of John Possehl, who had died a few days previously. The indictment was subsequently quashed by the United States District court, which held that the Sherman anti-trust act, under which it had been voted, did not apply to labor unions.

Carrozzo Buys Estate.

During his first five years under the collective Maloney-Nitti-Ricca-Campagna wing, Mike Carrozzo laid the foundations of the fortune that enabled him in 1934 to purchase a home at Long Beach, Ind., and in 1937, a big estate near Hobart, Ind., consisting of 900 acres of the richest and most fertile farm land in Indiana.

"VILLA C" HIS HOME

A Long Beach home, Mike called the "Villa C"—"C for Carrozzo, get it?" This was a beautiful place on Lake Shore drive, the ritziest street in Long Beach. Lake Michigan bathed the sands of Mike's private beach. The place was landscaped with great shade trees and shrubbery. There was a rock garden. Thomas E. [Tommy] Maloy, czar of the Chicago movie operators until his murder on Feb. 4, 1935, was one of Mike's neighbors.

Mike's social aspiration fell flat in Long Beach, when in 1935 he tried to join the Long Beach Country club and was blackballed. One member said: "We knew of his association with Al Capone and Frank Nitti, and we didn't think he would make a proper member."

Lions on His Coat of Arms.

That snub didn't faze Mike a bit. Didn't he have his coat of arms? On the gatepost at the "Villa C" there were two impressive emblems. First, there was the sign "Villa C" cream colored on a crimson background. Up above them was the Carrozzo coat or arms: two lions standing abreast with outstretched front paws—rampant—and two bundles of twigs thru which protruded the head of an ax.

Carozzo's farm near Hobart, 25 miles from his Long Beach summer residence, is dotted with huge barns, big as Zeppelin hangars. These imposing structures were filled with blooded horses and cattle. He accumulated his 900 acres by purchasing adjoining farms of large acreage. One farmer wanted $145,000 for a 320 acre tract that Carrozzo wanted. Mike said, "It's a deal," pulled 145 bills of $1,000 denomination out of his pocket and plunked them on the table.

"SECRETARIES" ARMED

Carrozzo had numerous "secretaries" scattered about his magnificent preserves. These were hard faced, chunky fellows. He was never out of sight of one of them. "My secretaries," Mike explained to his neighbors. But the neighbors soon discovered that all the secretaries carried large bore pistols and none of them spoke English.

About Aug. 2, 1940, Mike became ill one day while at his Long Beach home. He was removed that evening to Presbyterian hospital, Chicago, where he died on Aug. 4, aged 45.

Carrozzo is dead, but the Chicago unions that formerly were under his domination still are under the control of his former stooges. The Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers International still is headed by Joseph V. Moreschi, who headed it during all of Carrozzo's rule.

Maloney still lives and runs the International Union of Operating Engineers, with the headquarters in Washington, D. C., and his home on his vast estate near Arlington Heights.

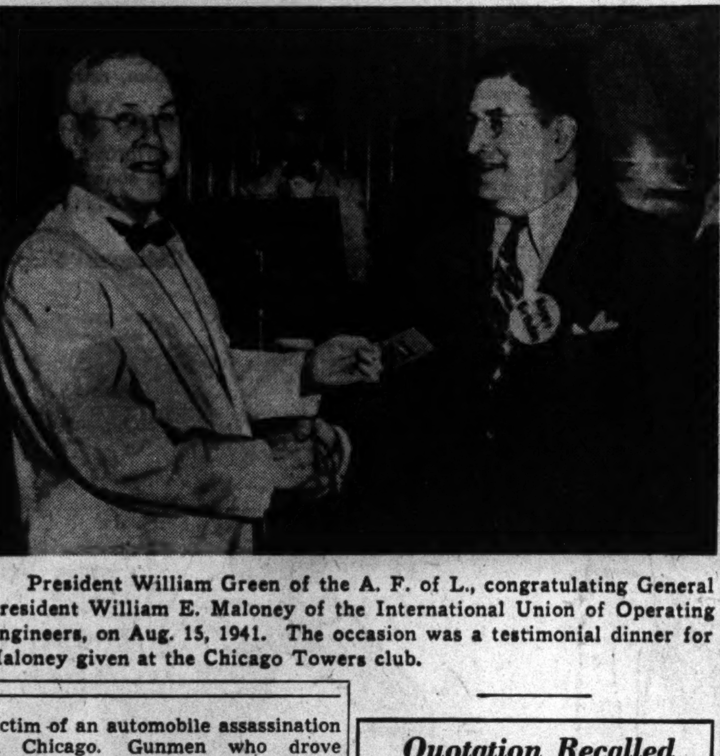
When Green Praised Maloney



President William Green of the A. F. of L., congratulating General President William E. Maloney of the International Union of Operating Engineers, on Aug. 15, 1941. The occasion was a testimonial dinner for Maloney given at the Chicago Towers club.

Quotation Recalled

On May 1, 1929, William E. Maloney was ousted by the members of local 569 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, of which he was then business agent and supervisor, by a vote of 400 to 1. Maloney himself voted. The ouster was balloted on because the local union refused to remain under Maloney's one man dictatorship, set up at the time by the then international president, Arthur Huddell, later assassinated in Washington, D. C.

After being ousted from local 569, Huddell gave him a charter for a new local—No. 150. Into this local, Maloney forced thousands of engineers who at the beginning belonged to other locals. These members, on Jan. 3, 1934, had rebelled against Maloney's rule and, in view of Maloney's indictment in the "T. N. T." scandal, again voted on his ouster and threw him out by a vote of 263 to 0.

During Maloney's ruthless absorption of other locals, one of the leaders in the fight against him was Dennis Bruce Zeigler, chairman of a committee to save local 569 of the international.

Zeigler was murdered in the street near his home on the northwest side, on Feb. 24, 1933.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said on Aug. 15, 1941, at a testimonial dinner for Maloney: "Among other things 'Bill' Maloney is a highly efficient administrator, and executive of great talent and more than that, tho there is no need to tell you people here tonight who know 'Bill,' a loyal, intelligent, honest, courageous leader of organized labor."

HERE'S WHAT IT COSTS TO FIGHT UNION GANGSTERS

Reward of Widow and 11 Children Is Poverty.

When Bruce Dennis Zeigler, an operating engineer, was murdered in 1933 for William E. Maloney's control of his union, local 569 of the international union, there was a cursory investigation by the police and the state's attorney's office. The killers were never found. Officialdom quickly forgot about the case.

The coroner's office held a perfunctory inquest and returned a verdict that death was caused by "bullets fired from a revolver held in the hands of some person or persons at present unknown." A transcript of the testimony taken at the inquest shows Zeigler had received many threats.

Statements Tell of Threats.

Police files on the case, resurrected yesterday, showed that statements were taken from several persons, including Zeigler's widow and fellow unionists. They named the men who had threatened him.

At the state's attorney's office no file on the case could be found. Lt. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's police said he couldn't remember much about the murder except that "we questioned a lot of people."

But there were some who did not forget Dennis Bruce Zeigler. They were his widow, Edna, and her 11 children. Last night, in her basement flat at 2618 Emmett street, Mrs. Zeigler told how she had struggled thru 10 years of poverty and heartache to keep her family together and to send all the children thru high school.

Five of School Age.

When Zeigler was killed on the street near his home at 3716 North Tripp avenue on Feb. 24, 1933, there were still five children of school age in his family. His oldest son, David, was married and living at home with his wife and baby. The shock of his father's murder brought a recurrence of an old heart ailment and David died nine months later.

Three of the older daughters—Caroline, Pauline, and Sarah—were married, and they could do little to help their mother. Another daughter, Dorothy, was dancing in a night club chorus. The chief patrons of the club were gangsters and labor racketeers and after Zeigler was killed Dorothy lost her job for unexplained reasons. It was not for lack of talent, for she went on to dance in downtown theaters and later in the Ziegfeld Follies. Now she is Mrs. Jack Mayers of Los Angeles, Cal.

James, another son, who was 20 when his father was murdered, had a job working for the city, but he, too, was suddenly discharged in 1933. Mrs. Zeigler blames the gang's political connections.

Family Has Difficulties.

During that depression year and for several years afterward the family found it difficult to buy necessities. Altho her youngest child, Theodore, was only 7, Mrs. Zeigler took jobs as a practical nurse, earning the title of "the angel of mercy" in the neighborhood. She could not get a mother's pension from the county because she owned property—the family home which was heavily mortgaged. She lost it in 1939 to the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Bessie, another daughter, obtained a job as a WPA stenographer, and helped support the family. Mrs. Zeigler's twin sons, Paul and John, then 15, had newspaper routes. They made a compact with their mother to pay for the groceries over each week-end, and they fulfilled it, Mrs. Zeigler said. Paul and John are now serving in the army air forces.

Mother Is Proud.

All the children were graduated from the Carl Schurz High school, except Theodore, the youngest, who is now a junior there. Mrs. Zeigler is proud of all of them.

Now 56 years old, Mrs. Zeigler is still youthful in appearance. Her hair is still reddish brown and her complexion extremely fair. Her hazel eyes ["the same color as my husband's," she says] sparkle as she speaks.

"For several years before Mr. Zeigler's death we lived in terror," she said. "Nearly every week some body telephoned to threaten me and my husband. Once a woman called. We had a police guard every night for 32 months until December, 1932, when the city administration changed. Then the guard was withdrawn. Two months later my husband was dead.

Names Three Men.

"He had often told me that if anything happened to him I should give the police the names of three men—William E. Maloney, John I. Lynch [now treasurer and supervisor of local 150 of the union], and Lloyd Little [formerly an official of the union]. I gave those names to the police.

"My husband kept a complete diary of his union troubles in his office at 612 West Adams street. He was afraid to keep it at home because of the evidence it contained. But police said it never was found."

Mrs. Zeigler said she always encouraged her husband to continue his resistance to the gangsters, and now, in spite of his murder she is not sorry for his courage.

"If I had my life to live over again, I would do it all over, but I would wish for a different ending," she said.

DISMISS CHARGES OF BRIBE PLOT IN DETROIT HOUSING

Detroit, Mich., March 26 (AP).—Charges of conspiracy to bribe city councilmen in a housing project here were dismissed in Recorders' court today against the Raisler corporation of New York, a heating subcontractor, and Samuel A. Berman of New York, a representative of the Raisler corporation.

John W. Gilmore, assistant prosecutor, moving the dismissal, said he did not believe the evidence was sufficent to link them with the conspiracy.

Three former members of the city council who were among those indicted are serving prison terms of 3 to 10 years. They are John Hamilton, Robert G. Ewald, and Harry I. Dingeman.

U. S. Judge Resentences Two for Operating Still

Constant G. Tuffanelli and Walter J. Bonarski were resentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan to three years imprisonment on a charge of conspiracy to operate an illicit still. The two had been convicted by a jury last May but had been ordered resentenced by the Circuit Court of Appeals because of technicalities.

DISCLOSE MORE OF INSIDE STORY IN PAVING DEAL

How Combine Horned Into Moriarity's Sale.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

John P. Moriarity, head of the Chatham Paving company, which in June, 1938, made the lowest bid on a WPA order for 210,000 tons of asphalt, did not deal with Spike O'Donnell, who claims $70,000 is owed him on the transaction.

Atty. William McGah, counsel for Moriarity, gave this assurance yesterday.

Nor, said Atty. McGah, did Moriarity deal with Joe Butler, the city superintendent of streets, whom O'Donnell, on a collection tour, assaulted in the city hall last January. Moriarity did, perforce, listen to Mike Carrozzo, union boss of all street paving workmen and agent of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti's syndicate, altho Atty. McGah said he didn't know how Carrozzo's power was used against Moriarity.

Other contractors explained that Moriarity was a newcomer in the paving business, an interloper who hitherto had been in the black dirt and cinder hauling business. McGah said Moriarity incorporated the Chatham Paving company in March, 1937, and got some state contracts from the Horner administration.

Carrozzo Vetoes Deal.

McGah said that when Moriarity's bid of $1,323,000 was accepted by the government and he was obligated to supply the WPA 210,000 tons of asphalt he had difficulty in getting a performance bond. But it was finally obtained, he said, after other paving contractors had agreed to help Moriarity provide the asphalt. He said he didn't know the details of Moriarity's troubles.

The difficulty was that Moriarity had no asphalt plants of his own, McGah explained, but he had made a deal with three plants, one on the north side, one on the west side, and another on the south side. Arrangements had been made thru James Fuller.

Carrozzo, however, forbade Fuller to supply any asphalt to the Chatham company. In this edict Carrozzo was supported by William E. Maloney, union boss of all paving engineers.

Moriarity as an outsider was not affiliated with the paving combine.

Spike Capitalizes Influence.

Spike O'Donnell's influence with a WPA official was so strong that Spike cut himself in the deal. After Moriarity was convinced he couldn't swing the contract, he compromised and three major companies virtually took over the work. They were named as the Barber Paving company, controled by Robert G. McKay, whom O'Donnell slugged last August; the Arcole Construction company, with which Carrozzo had great influence, and the Sensibar Engineering and Paving company.

Each of those companies was paid approximately $430,000 by a loop bank which handled the finances of the deal and collected Moriarity's money from the government.

That left $33,000 for Moriarity, who, his associates declared, had relied on his political influence to see him thru the deal.

Deliveries Total 290,424 Tons.

One of Moriarity's records showed that up to Nov. 19, 1938, there had been delivered in his name 290,424 tons of asphalt. Of this 89,150 tons was listed as being for arterial roads, and 201,274 tons for the WPA on auxiliary streets. The latter was the contract in which Spike O'Donnell was interested. Moriarity's records listed the deliveries as follows:

	Tons.
Standard Paving company	30,700
American Asphalt Paving company	29,150
White Consolidated, Inc	28,400
Arcole Construction company	28,000
Rock-Road Const. company	27,850
Sensibar company	27,100
Union Const. & Eng. company	25,300
Barber Paving company	24,550
H. G. Goelitz company	17,700
Payne & Dolan, Inc	14,892
Illinois Asphalt company	14,632
Utilities	11,900
Gallagher Asphalt company	10,250
Total	290,424

The Barber, Sensibar and Arcole companies were said to have paid the other companies out of their $430,000 checks. It was O'Donnell's claim that each of seven of these 13 companies which were in the agreement was to pay him $10,000. Its payment was guaranteed by Butler, McKay and Carrozzo, he declared, but until he was shot in the back two weeks ago he had collected only a few $1,000 bills, and he intends to bring suit for the remainder.

O'Donnell is slated to appear before the state grand jury on Monday.

PRESIDENT OF CHILE WELCOMES WALLACE WITH A LATIN KISS

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 26 (AP).—United States Vice President Henry A. Wallace arrived here tonight from Lima, Peru, on his air tour of Latin America. Thousands of Chileans were gathered at the airport to greet Wallace as he arrived just after sunset to begin a 10 day visit which is expected to bring the United States and Chile to their closest friendship in history.

Handsome, gray-haired President Juan Antonio Rios gave Wallace a typical Latin embrace.

After telling a press conference he was in South America "to visit good neighbors," a reporter asked:

"What is the United States doing to help us?"

"You understand it is difficult to supply you as we wish because of a lack of shipping space," Wallace replied. "Our ships are needed to fight the war in Africa and on other fronts."

JUDGES AWARD ICKES FIRST WIFE'S ESTATE

Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, was left in undisputed possession of the estate of his deceased wife, Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes, under a recent decision of three judges of the Appellate court, his attorney, Frederick Z. Mark, disclosed yesterday. The estate was estimated at $800,000 when Mrs. Ickes died in 1935 in an automobile accident near Valarde, N. M.

The Appellate court branch, consisting of Justices John M. O'Connor, William H. McSurley, and David F. Matchett decided in favor of Secretary Ickes two weeks ago, Marx said. The court had been asked to construe Mrs. Ickes' will, which left all her property to her husband, with the provision that if he did not survive her by ten days or more the estate would be apportioned among other members of the family, including a foster son, Robert, who had never been legally adopted, according to the record.

Robert Ickes contended, however, that the estate was left in trust to Secretary Ickes for the benefit of the other members of the family. Under the provisions of Illinois law, three justices arbitrated between Secretary Ickes and Robert. They ruled in favor of Secretary Ickes, who married again in 1938 and has two children by this marriage.

LEWIS ASSERTS HE'S NOT BOUND BY STRIKE BAN

Hints Miners May Go Out Over Demands.

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—John L. Lewis insisted today in a dramatic hearing before investigating senators that coal miners must have higher wages and maintained they are under no obligation not to strike if they fail to get them.

The United Mine workers' president said he joined with "all Americans in hoping no work stoppage will be necessary," but repeatedly declared he was not "necessarily bound" by the no-strike pledge labor leaders made in 1941.

He asserted that this agreement was voided by the war labor board's adoption of the "little steel" formula for fixing wages.

Hearing Lasts 4 Hours.

The hearing before the senate war investigating committee headed by Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] lasted more than four hours.

Lewis indicated that he would insist on the full $2 a day increase he is asking for the miners, and said this figure was based on the miners' instructions to him and the increased cost of living in mining communities. He said miners are forced by low incomes to follow a diet deficient to the point of endangering productivity.

Sen. Joseph H. Ball [R., Minn.] questioned his statement that miners aren't "getting enough to eat," calling it "demagoguery, pure and simple," whereupon the president of the United Mine workers thundered:

"When you call me a demagog before I can reply, I hurl it back in your face, sir."

Accused of "Stalling."

Once, Sen. Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.] accused Lewis of "stalling" when he took unusual time in answering a question.

"I wasn't stalling with you, sir," Lewis declared. "I foolishly believed you wanted an answer to your question."

Lewis read from statistics which he said showed increased costs of food in one western Pennsylvania area, and asserted they proved miners weren't getting enough to sustain them.

"That is why I say," he told Ball, "that when you call me a demagog without giving me an opportunity to show this, you are less than a representative of your people."

Truman heatedly warned Lewis:

"I don't like that remark to a member of the committee, and I'm stopping it right now."

The witness said the government was pouring billions of dollars into the treasuries of the United States Steel corporation and other big industries while calling upon the worker to forgo necessary wages.

100,000 Fail to File Income Tax Return, Says Harrison

Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, estimated yesterday that 100,000 Chicagoans failed to file income tax returns and pay at least a quarterly payment before the deadline of March 15. The collector warned that those who failed to file face delinquent penalties. Harrison said his office had received 2,100,000 returns as compared to the anticipated 2,200,000 returns.

DELAY MEASURE TO PUT COSTS OF LABOR IN PARITY

Senators Vote Bill to Bar Benefit Deductions.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—By a unanimous voice vote, the senate today recommitted to the agriculture committee the Pace bill for inclusion of farm labor costs in determining parity prices. The bill had passed in the house on a voice vote.

The committee was urged to hold public hearings on the measure and bring back a full report. Opponents of the legislation claimed it was timed badly and would lead to a vicious spiral of inflation if approved now, having in mind labor claims for pay increases, including John L. Lewis' demand of a $2 a day increase for coal miners.

It was hinted on the floor and charged privately that the labor organizations would use passage of the Pace bill as a lever to force the granting of pay boosts from the war labor board.

Report Call for Delay.

There was a report that the White House sent word that it wanted the bill recommitted to the committee until after the current negotiations with Lewis end, but the bill's sponsors denied this. They claimed they will be back on the floor with the bill in 30 days.

However, the senate completed approval of another farm measure which faces White House opposition. This bill, on which the senate today concurred in house amendments, is a blast at the President's executive order on price stabilization of last Oct. 3 and provides that farm benefit payments may not be deducted by the government in determining the parity prices or price ceilings for agricultural commodities.

After the price control act was passed last fall, irate farm area senators charged that a joker had been slipped into proceedings on the measure, thru an interpretation of the act permitting such deductions of benefit payments.

Prepared by Ginsburg.

This interpretation was prepared by David Ginsburg, general counsel of the OPA, more recently in the limelight as an accused draft dodger, and slipped into the record by Prentiss M. Brown, then a Democratic senator from Michigan and now price administrator, as part of his explanation of the bill. Brown's defeat in the last election was attributed largely to the disaffection of farmers in his state resulting from this maneuver.

The legislation sent to the White House today now expressly forbids such deductions, and allows higher price ceilings on farm products. If the President vetoes the measure it will be passed over his veto, farm state senators declare. Brown has predicted that the measure would force a 7 per cent increase in food prices.

The Page bill is allied with this agricultural revolt against the purported neglect to farmers under the war program. The farm bloc has warned that the nation faces a critical food shortage, declaring the administration has given industry and labor advantages not extended to the farmer in protecting his labor supplies, his price levels, and his need for adequate machinery to produce his crops.

Expects Public Support.

The farm bloc is confident that it will have full public support when food shortages become more evident, but it questions whether relief can then come in time.

Debate on the Page bill found the farm interests split wide open, however, with cotton and dairy farmers agitating for a chance now in the parity formula, while grain farmers registered opposition, apparently not wishing to be accused now of putting an inflationary weapon into labor's hands.

Overnight some farm leaders wanting the Page bill enacted had a change of heart, however, and were represented today as willing to have the committee consider it more fully. The main evidence against the bill was that neither chamber had held hearings on it and that less than 100 members were on the house floor when it slipped thru there.

FOUR MORE ARMY CHAPLAINS DIE IN LINE OF DUTY

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—Four more army chaplains have joined the ranks of war casualties, the office of the chief of chaplains said today, listing them as "missing at sea in the North American area."

The circumstances of their loss were not divulged but the National Jewish Welfare board in New York said one of the four, Alexander Goode, formerly a York, Pa., rabbi, died when a ship was sunk in the Atlantic early in February. The board said he was the first Jewish chaplain casualty of the war. The others:

Clark V. Poling, son of Dr. Daniel Poling of Philadelphia, president of the World Christian Endeavor union; George L. Fox, a veteran enlisted man of the first World war whose decorations included the silver star and the croix de guerre, Gilman, Vt., a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan, and John P. Washington, graduated from Seton hall and the Immaculate Conception seminary in New Jersey.

HIJACKERS ELUDED.

Morton Grove highway police sought four men riding in an automobile who attempted early yesterday to hijack the truck of Harry Paus, carrying $20,000 in war materials, near Niles. The hijackers fled when Paus speeded up his truck.

BOSS OF $191,000 WAR SALESMAN QUIZZED ON DEAL

Defends Employe in a Mattress Contract.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26. — A $21,000 a year boss patted his $191,000 a year part time salesman on the back today as both attended a house naval affairs committee hearing.

The boss had only the most respectful of words for his part time worker, even after conceding that the employé made a greater net profit in 1942 than the entire company enjoyed from 5 million dollars' worth of navy contracts last year.

The boss was Alfred Schlegel, treasurer and highest paid officer of Fleetwood Craftsmen, Inc., Fleetwood, Pa., mattress manufacturers for the navy. He was the star witness at the committee's hearing on legislation proposed by Chairman Carl Vinson [D., Ga.] to limit the enormous commissions of brokers who negotiate government war contracts.

Tax Inquiry Ordered.

The hearing brought these developments:

1. Chairman Vinson ordered the record submitted to the attorney general and the treasury department for study of the possibility that war contract brokers are circumventing the law and evading income taxes.

2. Vinson accused W. Lester Baker, the part time salesman-broker for the Fleetwood corporation, of getting navy specifications so drawn that the corporation would have a monopoly of the cattle tail hair mattress business.

3. Rep. Michael J. Bradley [D., Pa.] warned the committee that it will be "tough" to explain to the soldiers when they return that congress has done nothing to halt exorbitant profits on war supplies.

4. Rep. Beverly M. Vincent [D., Ky.] characterized the dealings of such brokers as Baker as "peanuts" in comparison to those of representatives of steel, battleship and munitions companies.

Schlegel testified that his company had developed from automobile body manufacturing; that it had perfected and patented a process for braiding hair for mattresses as a result of its experience with upholstery, and that it had sold the navy about 5 million dollars' worth of mattresses last year.

$261,000 Total for Couple.

Committee members and the committee counsel, Robert E. Kline Jr., kept hammering at him for an answer as to what Baker did to justify his $191,000 commissions in view of the fact that the navy has no other company from which to buy the mattresses.

Q. [by Kline]: Did you write Baker last year that his profits were greater than the company's? A. [by Schlegel]: Yes.

Q. What were your gross profits in 1942? A. About $300,000.

Q.—That left you about $50,000. That's less than the $67,000 the Bakers had net after paying all taxes. Just what did Baker do for you? A.—He made a lot of contacts with government departments like the war production board and helped us get priorities and price ceilings.

150,000 TICKETS SOLD; BUYERS TOO BUSY FOR PARTY

The United Automobile Workers' union had a three shift party last night in the Chicago Stadium. An estimated 150,000 tickets to the affair were sold—two each to the 50,000 members, 30,000 to the State street council, and thousands of individual sales. Only 5,000 persons were present at the peak hour.

The union expressed gratification at the comparatively small turnout. It showed, leaders said, members were too busy working to go to parties.

The party got underway at 6 p. m. and was to go on till 6 a. m. today. Three shifts attended successively.

Of the proceeds, the first $100,000 went to buy war bonds which are to be given to relatives of men killed in the sinking of the U. S. S. Chicago. The rest will go to service men's centers. Scores of night club entertainers donated their time and talents to the affair.

JAPANESE FARM MACHINES STAND UNUSED IN WEST

Seek Way to Take Over Stored Equipment.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26 (AP).—Japanese owned tractors, trucks, and other farm machinery, sorely needed for food production, are gathering dust in warehouses in Southern California, an official of the war production board asserted today. The equipment is owned by Japanese who were moved out of west coast areas after the war started.

The official, Burnette J. Daniels, regional WPB counsel, said the job of taking over the equipment and putting it to work is a sizable legal problem, but added:

"If the government can take an American's sixth automobile tire, it should be able to take this Japanese owned farm machinery."

Stored Before Evacuation.

Daniels said in an interview that under existing law every Japanese who stored farm implements prior to being moved from coast areas would have to be approached individually to obtain release of the equipment.

"The war would be over before we got it released," he said.

The office of war information last Feb. 16 quoted Russell T. Robinson, chief of the evacuee property division, as saying that the Japanese sold or leased most of their equipment and that only five machines were found stored in Salinas and only 13 tractors and six trucks in the Sacramento valley.

But Daniels asserted equipment stored in warehouses in Los Angeles and Orange counties is in "substantial quantity."

Demands Seizure of Machines.

John M. Gault, chairman of the Los Angeles County American Legion war advisory committee, said 200 or 300 Japanese owned tractors have been found in barns and warehouses in Orange county. He has demanded their seizure. An official of the state department of agriculture recently estimated that 267 Japanese tractors are stored in Southern California.

"I have found WPB officials eager to do everything that can be done to expedite the release of this machinery to California farmers, who need it badly," Daniels said.

He said the United States attorney general's office told him responsibility for releasing the equipment rests with the United States department of agriculture, but, he added, there appears to have been "a great deal of buck passing" in dealing with the problem.

A legislative investigation has been promised by State Senator Jack B. Tenney of Los Angeles.

10 MILLION WIVES AVAILABLE FOR JOBS, SAYS U. S.

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—The census bureau estimated today that there are 10 million 600 thousand married women in more than 100 industrial centers who are "potentially available for war work."

The estimate was based on 1940 census figures, but the bureau said that "most of these women undoubtedly are still outside the labor force." It said that since married women without children can be employed more easily than those who have children, the number of women in the latter group who will be free to work "is severely limited unless day nurseries or other facilities are provided."

There were 6½ million married women without children under 10 years old in the metropolitan districts covered by the bureau and 4 million 100 thousand with one or more such children.

A RUSSO-JAP ALLIANCE.

The Russian government has renewed the treaty by which the Japanese enjoy fishing rights in the Pacific waters of the soviets. The treaty gives the Japanese continuing access to an important supply of food, but that is not the chief significance of the renewal. Much more important is the fact that the Japanese will continue to enjoy the very great advantage of possessing weather stations to the west of Alaska. As Father Hubbard, the Glacier priest, has shown, the Japanese operations against Alaska will be planned with full knowledge of weather conditions to come while we must continue to conduct our operations without the benefit of adequate forecasts, and to do so in an area in which the success or failure of the fighting depends almost entirely upon the weather.

The Russian-Japanese treaty can be regarded, for practical purposes, as an alliance against the United States and the fact that it is not in form an alliance is scarcely worthy of note.

The situation is almost unbelievable. The United States is denying adequate armament to our own soldiers in the Pacific in order to send vast quantities of material to Russia. American boys are being sacrificed and America's future is being jeopardized in order that we may help Russia. In return what do we get? Russia cries for a second front in Europe, but refuses to give us a second front in Asia. Russia's hour of greatest danger is past, thanks in no small measure to the help we gave her. Now China's darkest hour has arrived, but Russia, far from helping us relieve China and fight Japan, is actually giving assistance to our enemy.

Japan is getting very considerable benefits from Russia, for otherwise Japan would not be doing favors for Russia, such as sending her rubber and allowing shipments from America for Russia to enter Vladivostok and other Siberian ports. There is no secret about all this. The German government has protested to Japan against these shipments from America and Father Hubbard has said, without qualification, that he knows that there has been a steady movement of supplies into Siberia under the guns of the Japanese fleet. The Japanese do not perform such favors for nothing. They got something in return, and it must have been something of great value in waging war upon the United States, like steel to shoot at our soldiers.

Nothing in the history of international double dealing has been more monstrous than this Russian-Japanese coöperation. People on our west coast are running short of food because of the shipments being sent to the soviets. American soldiers are dying for lack of airplanes and other weapons that we gave to the Russians. We have been Russia's benefactor and yet the Communists are found dealing on terms of friendship with our most menacing enemy. The facts could not be believed if there were not ample evidence to bear them out.

PAROLE REFORM.

The state senate has approved the Connors-Rennick parole reform bill by a vote of 49 to 1. The indorsement was overwhelming and establishes the fact that the people of Illinois now realize how important it is to prevent abuses of the parole system.

Corrupt parole boards in the past have contributed their considerable share to the prevalence of crime in Illinois. Convicted robbers, murderers, and rapists would be turned loose after a few months or years in the penitentiary to resume their criminal careers. The abuses became so grave that successive legislatures have sought to correct them. Eventually the principle was adopted of limiting the discretion of the parole board. The judge when passing sentence was to impose a maximum and minimum sentence within the limits fixed by statute.

This principle has been retained in the Connors-Rennick bill. The new measure is believed to meet the objections raised by the Supreme court to the parole law enacted two years ago. Certainly there is every reason to give the principle a thoro trial. It is a fair assumption that the judge who has heard the details of the crime and has had ample opportunity to study the offender, and learn his background, will make fewer mistakes, either of excessive leniency or of excessive severity, than a parole board which can have had no such direct observation of the criminal to guide it.

HOW THE FACTORIES HAVE KEPT GOING.

About three months ago the Iowa selective service headquarters announced that 140,000 persons from that state were already in service. One-half were drafted and the other half enlisted. That was 140,000 of the state's most able bodied workers. The 1940 census showed that there were 678,000 males in the state between the ages of 20 and 60, including the sick, the maimed, the criminal, and all other groups not a part of the labor force. By the beginning of 1943 the army and navy had already taken over 20 per cent of the males of working age in Iowa, and more than 37 per cent of the men of military age. Iowa's experience is probably typical.

The index of manufacturing production in the country during February had risen to 203, an all-time high. The increase since October, 1940, when the draft went into effect was 57.4 per cent. The factories have doubled their production since the summer of 1939, just before the outbreak of the war. The manufacturing industries are surpassing their peak of 1929 by 80 per cent.

There are no comparable data to show how much additional labor has been required for this remarkable expansion in output for the country as a whole, but, fortunately, figures are at hand for the state of Wisconsin. In January 337,500 persons were working in the factories of that state, a year's gain of 46,900, or 16.1 per cent. In 1939, at the outset of the war, there were 208,900 factory employés in Wisconsin, and in the 1929 boom there were 264,745.

Where are the new working people coming from? Some of the increased labor supply has come from those who have reached working age. Some of the workers, of course, are farm hands who went to town. In the north central states on March 1 there were 13,000 fewer hired farm hands than at the same time in 1942. Some are out of stores and offices, and Wisconsin stores have 3,400 fewer clerks than they had a year ago. Women have taken over men's jobs, and there was a story out of Milwaukee a little while ago that women there were even being trained to do foundry work.

The handicapped have provided another source of man power that is being drawn upon. In the factories of one Iowa city recently were found persons who have been maimed in accidents, mutes, infantile paralysis victims, the congenitally crippled, and even men who, by the standards of workmen's compensation, are 100 per cent disabled. One-armed men are working as welders. Similar examples can be found in every community.

All of these sources have made the production record possible. But it must be remembered that the most able bodied workers, in their most productive years, have been taken into the service. The outstanding fact about the man power problem is not that we have one, but that it has not been more serious than it is. In making plans for the further expansion of the army and navy, however, it cannot be assumed that replacements will be as readily found as they have been. There is not a limitless supply of women, children, peglegs, and one-armed men.

THE SUPREMACY OF LAW.

Congress has dotted the last i and crossed the last t in its repudiation of the $25,000 salary limit. In addition, the house by a vote of more than 3 to 1 has nullified a second section of the President's wage and price fixing order, that one which attempted to include AAA benefits in computing the price ceilings on their products. The senate has already passed this measure in similar form.

As Rep. Halleck of Indiana noted, congress has spent a large part of the present session undoing acts by the administration which have been in direct conflict with the intent of legislation. The New Dealers talk about congressional attacks upon Mr. Roosevelt, but obviously he has been the aggressor, not congress. Mr. Roosevelt sought to substitute his own will for that of the representatives of the people, and all that has happened is that he has been pulled up short. If he is embarrassed thereby, he has no one to blame but himself.

In the price fixing legislation, as in the salary limitation, congress has initiated nothing new. It has merely taken the steps which circumstances have shown to be necessary to force Mr. Roosevelt, like every other citizen of the Republic, to obey its laws. The task is not finished, but so long as congress retains its present spirit those who hope, and pray, and work for the continuance of constitutional government in this nation may breathe a little more easily.

THE TVA'S PROPOSAL FOR RAIL RATES.

On March 25 the President sent to congress a Tennessee Valley authority report recommending that the present method of fixing freight rates by regions be abandoned. Instead, we would have rates which would apply uniformly thruout the country.

This recommendation runs true to the form usually followed by the New Deal planners. It is reminiscent of the proposal to change the lambing season.

The present system of freight rate making is the product of years of experience. For rate making purposes the country has been divided into five natural, geographic regions—Eastern, Western, Southern, Southwestern, and Mountain-Pacific, with varying levels or bases of rates in each. Each of these regions is subdivided along natural lines for various refinements of rate making. The rates applying within and between them are based upon sound, economic considerations, such as traffic density, cost of operation, competition, etc. Where inequalities or discriminations exist, an agency has been provided for their correction. For almost 60 years the interstate commerce commission has had a higher record of just and fair adjudication than any other administrative branch of the government.

The communistic Tennessee Valley authority has been a failure from its inception, because of its faulty economic and political foundation and inefficient administration. It is characteristic of the planners that when their crackpot schemes go awry they never look for the fundamental causes of failure in the scheme itself but always suggest an even more unsound scheme as the remedy. The postage stamp freight rate suggestion of TVA falls in this category.

Editorial of the Day

WHO'S SAVING PAPER?

[Editor and Publisher.]

Here's a suggestion from a young man on a middle western newspaper. We think it's worth considering. This is the background:

According to Sen. Raymond E. Willis of Indiana, the federal government has contracted for the use of 350,000,000 pounds of paper in 1943—an increase of 60 per cent over the 208,900,000 pounds consumed in 1941. In the latter year the government contracted to use 117,173,000 pounds, and in 1942 it contracted for 187,850,000 pounds, but used 226,000,000 pounds. And, says Sen. Willis, in the first three weeks of 1943, Uncle Sam actually used 115,545,000 pounds of the 350,000,000 pounds requisitioned. If that rate of use were continued thruout the year, the total government tonnage would be above two billion pounds—nearly 10 times the 1941 consumption.

If those figures are correct, and we see no present reason to dispute them, newspapers and magazines have a genuine reason for howling. There is no parity between a situation which compels commercial publications to cut their tonnage 10 per cent or more, while government agencies increase their consumption as much as 900 per cent.

To get back to the idea in the first paragraph, let's quote a few words:

"There is no question but that tons of material is reaching the editorial offices and the dailies and periodicals which never finds its way into print. Why not return this unused, unwanted, and wasted material, not to the offices from which it originated, but to the offices of the respective senators of the states in which the newspapers and magazines are located?

"The burocrats and their publicity departments have no monopoly on the postal system. Forwarding the unused material to the senate office building would soon awaken those now apparently asleep. Why not have every newspaper and magazine or any other periodical receiving Washington publicity coöperate, if only for one month? The reaction would be interesting."

The idea has its merits. Anything that can reduce the inordinate waste of paper by government bureaus in these perilous days is worth the attention of all editors.

MR. PEPYS TIGHTENS HIS BELT.

27th March—Have been hungry all week because of the talk about food rationing, and my discovery that a bowl of soup in a restaurant is not as deep as it used to be. Cannot figure out why, for soup bones are not scarce. Indeed, every order of meat I get looks like a soup bone. Ordered Long Island duckling for my dinner one night, and the name of the dish ran to three lines of type, but when brought I found it was mainly a skeleton, but with a fine sauce.

Had a letter from an army friend stationed in a hospital that used to be a famous sanitarium, and he told me his room was big enough to shoot an elk in, fitted up like a bridal suite, and he was living in the lap of luxury. Answered him and said: "Civilian life is getting thin, and the civilians thinner."

Things have come to such a pass that a poem I heard in childhood keeps coming into my mind. It was a very sad poem about a famine in Ireland, and it ran like this: "Give me three grains of corn, mother, give me three grains of corn." Have tried to find the rest of it in collections of popular poetry, but it has apparently been lost in the shuffle. Will continue the search, however, for it may become up to date if things get worse.

Have observed that war gardeners are already staking out claims in the vacant lots of my neighborhood, and they seem to be ambitious. One of the claims must be owned by a giant, for it looks more like a farm in Texas than a vegetable plot. It is about half a square block, all bound round with grocery store twine, and I am wondering when a stalwart peasantry will emerge from its six-room flat to start plowing.

ACADEMIC GARDENING.

I've studied many a garden book
On how to plant the mixtures,
And cultivate them so they'll look
Exactly like the pictures;

On how to spray the parasite
And fertilise the clover;
And how to treat the vicious blight
That makes plants topple over;

On how to trim a walnut tree,
And serve nasturtium salad,
And how to teach a honey bee
To make the pollen valid.

These books I shall not disavow
(From lettuce to tomatoes).
And yet they haven't taught me how
To raise French fried potatoes.

Pastorale: Boy with Cows.

It was always fun to herd cows. It was really a pastime and not a job at all, especially if some one went along to help. Then we took a lunch and wandered along the road until we came to one of those little traveled byways where the grass was lush and green, where there was some shade for men and beast, and the cows could browse undisturbed.

One of our favorite spots was a quiet, hedgelined road along the eastern boundary of the farm. Here we were able to spend our time in small talk, jackknife games, making clover chains with which we sometimes decorated the cows, or just lying in the shadow of the hedge, dreaming boyish dreams beneath a clear blue sky.

The road is no longer quiet, and we and the road have changed. A highway has cut thru it, tourist cabins have been built nearby, and gasoline stations and all those projects which attach themselves to a highway are present. What little is left of the old road would not qualify as a good place to herd cows. It is fortunate, however, that the mind has a way of storing pleasant memories away. Ward Monte.

THEY ALSO SERVE.

("I never lost faith in his rescue, and I never ceased praying."—Mrs. Eddie Rickenbacker.)

The boundless waves that, day by weary day,
Rocked pygmy rafts far in the distant west
Were not more wearing than the silence hour on hour
That beat upon her breast.
She sensed a darkness lonely as the tropics dropped
On vast and watery wastes. But in her night
Faith was a skylight. Thru it rose her prayer,
Bright-winged, and bringing courage to believe and bear;
She knew he lived, he would return some time, some way.
They also serve who wait in faith and pray.

The First Chinese Restaurant.

The first Chinese restaurant in Chicago [March 23] was Joy Et Lo's, on Clark street a few numbers south of Van Buren. I can remember it in 1900, and it was established years before. It antedated King Joy Lo's, at State and Van Buren. Also among the pioneers [before 1900] in the Chinese cuisine, altho under American management, was a saloon at old No. 17 North Clark street, between the bridge and the viaduct. It had a chop suey restaurant in the basement. John Curry.

NAMES IN THE NEWS.

There were so many places in the news
Whose names had once meant just a curious word;
There were so many regions far away

Her heart, her hope, her heaven, and to them
Turn all her thoughts in waking and in sleep.

IN NEURASTHENIA—RESTORE CONFIDENCE.

THE term "neurasthenia," which means "weak nerves," was coined by George M. Beard. Physicians encounter this condition frequently. There is nothing wrong anatomically with the telegraph wires which carry messages to the muscles and other parts. On the other hand, there seems to be a general failure of the vital forces of the body. The individual is not physically strong. At the same time, thoughts become self-centered until discomfort is complained of in one organ after another.

Anxiety to recover may defeat the end sought. Likely to become worriers, many of these sufferers will end up by desiring to manage their own cases. The net result may be two or three years of invalidism, with the victim wearing out friends and neighbors with his tales of woe.

There is a definite tendency to journey from one medical adviser to another. In each instance the whole story is poured forth, usually with the statement that "Dr. Blank tried hard, but he was unable to help me. I am coming to you as my last hope."

The sooner we realize that many of these victims are unstable personalities, the better. In consequence, an abundant fund of patience will be necessary if aid is to be rendered. To tell a typical "neuro" that there is nothing wrong, that all of the symptoms are imaginary, is about the worst plan that can be adopted. Such a verdict is certain to drive him into the hands of bizarre healers.

But no matter what is done or by whom, cures may come in the most unexpected fashion. I have in mind an estimable woman who received the best care that medical science could suggest. At times she felt better, only to relapse to her former state. A friend told her to wear a piece of red colored paper in each shoe. She followed this counsel and gradually returned to health. While she now smiles about the remedy, she insists that it did the job.

S. Weir Mitchell, in another generation, treated those who came to him with this disorder, by putting them to bed amid pleasant surroundings and stuffing them with good food. In addition, muscles were stimulated by the electric current. The patient was told that he was convalescing and—if he believed it—he was. By degrees, his confidence in his own physical powers was restored.

The only trouble with this management is that it is long and expensive. An alternative is offered by physiotherapy. Aches and pains have a habit of disappearing under the influence of diathermy, while massage enhances the feeling of well being.

Now and then it is wise to remove these people from family and friends. Occasionally, the starter will be identified as an unhappy or disappointing experience within the home or on the job. Sometimes this type of invalidism is accepted as an alibi for inefficiency. The answer probably lies in keeping these individuals so busy doing something useful that awareness of self will vanish.

Fortunate is the one who consults an understanding doctor who is willing to take time enough to solve the problem.

THE WORLD MAY COME TO US.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., March 21.—Is Mr. Willkie a good Republican or a better Democrat? Why is he out to oust the isolationists? Would he split the party he desires to lead? His foreign policy is much the same as the policy of the present administration. The only plank in his former platform that rang magnetically and touched the patriotism of many an American voter was: "No third term in the White House." I'll guarantee that many a million votes he duly harvested responded to this clarion call because of the philosophy of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson. I voted for Mr. Willkie entirely because of this ideology, altho I had a vague suspicion that the slogan of "We want Willkie" emanated from the halls of Wall street.

Would Mr. Willkie create a new party by endeavoring to dominate and dictate to an old one? Remember the abolitionists of days gone by? They were despised by the Democrats of the past as much as Mr. Willkie [and the Democrats of the present] would have the Republicans ignore the isolationists of today. Yet they helped to introduce the great emancipator, Abraham Lincoln, by joining in the birth of a new party, and proving that their struggle for a cause was justifiable.

The isolationist believes in nationalism—which burns in the heart of every patriot. Blood is thicker than water and we have created a super-state on this continent where nationalism may be enjoyed by every race—no matter what its creed or color. How can we make it international? All the world may come to us, and be of us, secure within our boundaries; but, if we go to them, we face the same old bickerings of beliefs; the same old quarrels over race, religion, boundaries, and color.

SCHOOL FIREMEN'S COMPLAINT.

Chicago, March 23.—The forgotten men of the public schools are the firemen. Some of them have been firing in the schools for years. They have taken the engineers' examinations and passed, but have been turned down because they haven't the money to buy their jobs. They are too old to quit or get jobs in defense plants, and, on top of everything else, work only nine months a year.

Their wages are the same as 10 years ago, but they must buy bonds and donate to dozens of causes. They are not kicking about that, for most of them have sons fighting for our country, but it does burn them up to see some young nitwit sent out to try to tell a school fireman how to run a boiler when he doesn't know a boiler from a lawn mower.

Let us hope that on election day the city's forgotten men will finally get a break.

SEEK VICTORY GARDEN SPACE.

Chicago, March 22.—I am chairman of victory gardens for a section of the north side known as East Lake View, bounded by Diversey boulevard, Addison street, Racine avenue, and the lake. In this district there is little ground available that is usable for gardens.

If any persons have vacant property on the northwest side, say, along Western avenue, or on Peterson avenue or Bryn Mawr avenue, that they would be willing to donate for use to those desiring to plant victory gardens, I wonder if they would please communicate with me? I will then refer others desiring to use the plot to them. ROBERT L. FUHRMANN.

RADIO ADVERTISING PLUGS.

Frankfort, Ill., March 22.—I wish to add my protest to that of "Music Lover" in condemnation of the disgusting radio commercials now polluting the air.

A short time ago the "amen" was jerked off the end of a beautiful prayer in favor of a repulsive, moronic voiced plug for beer. That same day a so-called "news broadcast" mentioned the names of several Illinois men as war casualties, then immediately there followed over the air a perfidious, hyena-like voice proclaiming the merits of an obnoxious laxative. Then came some words about a "hell of a" watch.

Out here on the farm we are more dependent upon the radio for entertainment than those who live in the city, with a movie theater just around the corner. We wonder why some stations increase their volume 10 per cent when the commercial is put on. We never buy an article so advertised, and we always tune out a station which keys up its volume for a commercial.

If Secretary of War Stimson could enlist a company of air parasites and let them all cut loose upon sighting the enemy,—O, boy! I'll bet the toughest Jap troops would either take to their heels or commit hara-kiri on the spot.

It is only common sense to know that in order to receive radio entertainment we must either have advertising or else pay a reasonable fee, but, in any event, there should be limitations upon the kind of advertising, both in deference to good taste and out of mercy to the helpless listener.

CLARENCE M. CLEVELAND.

MONARCHY'S OPPOSITES.

Wilmette, Ill., March 20.—Words of wisdom by Mark Twain, gleaned from "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court": "I asked them if they supposed a nation of people ever existed, who, with a free vote in every man's hand, would elect that a single family and its descendants should reign over it forever, whether gifted or boobies, to the exclusion of all other families—including the voter's; and would also elect that a certain hundred families should be raised to dizzy summits of rank, and clothed-on with offensive transmissible glories and privileges to the exclusion of the rest of the nation's families—including his own."

". . . You see my kind of loyalty was loyalty to one's country, not to its institutions or its office holders. The country is the real thing, the substantial thing, the eternal thing; . . . institutions are extraneous, they are its mere clothing, and clothing can wear out. . . . To be loyal to rags, to shout for rags, to worship rags, to die for rags—that is a loyalty of unreason, it is pure animal; it belongs to monarchy, was invented by monarchy; let monarchy keep it."

TRIBUNE COLOR REPRODUCTIONS.

Chicago, March 12.—We at the Art Institute were all delighted to see the splendid page of color reproductions of works from the Georgia O'Keeffe exhibition in the recent Sunday rotogravure section of THE TRIBUNE. This handsome spread of reproductions has been admired by many, not only for the accuracy of color, but also as a worthy reminder of the beautiful exhibition held here in January and February.

The Art Institute is again indebted to THE TRIBUNE for great assistance in publicizing our important exhibitions, and I wish to express our real appreciation for this coöperation. We have also received a letter from Miss O'Keeffe in which she expresses her thanks and approval for your faithful reproductions of her paintings. DANIEL CATTON RICH,

EXTRA RATIONS FOR THE SICK.

Chicago, March 20.—Not so long ago your paper carried an item regarding special point allotments for people under the doctor's care and on special diets. After applying for special points to cover a semi-solid diet which requires a great deal of fruit and tomato juices, I was permitted exactly a trifle less than two ounces a day in addition to my regular points, which are quite insufficient.

I hope I am not cheating some one by getting these extra points, but the way the food problem has been handled to date, it seems to me that the rationers at least could take care of sick people, who have no choice in the matter.

UNCOLLECTED PAY.

Chicago, March 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When I came to the city I took a job and held it for two weeks. Then I found another position. Up to now I have been unable to collect the amount owed me by my former employer. Of course, it isn't a large amount but I need the money badly and I cannot afford to employ a lawyer. Is there any way for me to get help in collecting the wages due me? I know I performed the work satisfactorily. J. K.

The 1937 wage payment law [Ill. Revised Statutes, Chap. 48, Sec. 39G] requires payment in full [1] in case of discharge, within five days; [2] in case of quitting, on next pay day unless employé gave five days' notice, in which case payment in full at time of quitting. [Commissions and wages in excess of $100 not included.]

In case of wilful refusal to pay, wages continue for ten days and the employer may be fined $25 to $100.

The department of labor, 222 West North Bank, Room 1200, is handling wage collections for persons who are financially unable to prosecute them.

THE FELLOW WITH A COMPLETE NEW OUTFIT.

COST OF SUBWAY SOARING TOWARD 80 MILLION MARK

Total Likely to Be Twice Original Estimate.

BY BRYCE ENGLE.

The Chicago subway, originally set up as a 40 million dollar project, may cost the city, federal government, and others nearly twice that much. Who is to foot the bill for the extra millions will be decided by the courts in litigation that probably will last for years.

The costs of the projects may be outlined as follows:

1. The department of subways and superhighways estimates the final cost of constructing the tunnels, including stations, engineering, etc., will be $58,400,000, with the city providing $35,270,000 and the federal works agency $23,130,000, having increased its contribution from $18,000,000.

2. The city is spending an estimated $6,800,000 for tracks, signals, and other equipment. It hopes eventually to charge this to the traction companies, but has no assurance this plan will work out.

Restoration Cost Nears Million.

3. Expenses of subway construction charged to the traction fund by city bureaus now total $949,233. This work includes restoration, maintenance, and repairing of such city properties as streets, sewers, water mains, and electrical installations. Another $170,000 is budgeted for such expense in 1943. These expenditures are in addition to $1,346,464 paid out by contractors for similar work.

4. Various private utilities are preparing suits against the city for costs of relocating their facilities, and the total of these demands is expected to be about 10 million dollars. The utility companies aren't announcing the exact amounts of their eventual claims. The Commonwealth Edison company, the only utility which has filed claims with the city so far, has asked $2,192,658 and more claims are expected. The Chicago Surface lines have estimated in federal court their relocation costs will aggregate in excess of $2,350,000.

5. Seventy suits aggregating nearly 6 million dollars have been filed against the city, principally by owners of property adjoining the subway, for damage attributed to the subway construction. Attorneys said a flood of additional suits is certain should the courts rule against the city in any of these cases. New suits are being filed each month.

Assert City Isn't Liable.

City attorneys say that under the law private utilities can't recover relocation costs; that the city can "order them out" when it needs the space. Should the courts agree, then utility shareholders or customers must bear this expense. Should the courts hold the city liable, the city can't recover in turn from the subway contractors except where it can be shown the utilities suffered damage as a result of contractors' negligence.

In addition to Commonwealth Edison and the surface lines, utilities expected to file claims are the Peoples Gas Light & Coke company, Illinois Bell Telephone company, Western Union and Postal telegraph companies, City News bureau, Illinois Maintenance company, and Chicago Postal Pneumatic Tube company. The Chicago Rapid Transit company, some of whose footings were damaged, has indicated it will not.

The city legal experts also contend that private property owners along the subway can't recover damages from the city if it can be shown the property is worth as much after the improvement and resulting damages as it was before subway construction started. Contractors' conformance bonds and insurance, they say, adequately protect the city from any portion of these damage claims which are shown to be due to negligence of the subway contractors.

The following table, based on information supplied by the subway department and city bureaus, shows the portion of damage, maintenance, and relocation costs resulting in the case of city facilities from subway construction, and who paid these bills:

Bureau.	Contractor.	City traction fund.	Total.
Streets	$ 534,570	$ 22,455	$ 557,025
Sewers	526,709	74,050	600,759

Bridges	2,000	....	2,000
Totals	$1,346,464	$949,233	$2,295,697

The following is what city bureaus reported they had spent along the subway route under the classification of improvements:

Freight Tunnel Damage, $191,233.

The 40 mile Chicago Freight tunnel, owned by the city, was damaged to the extent of $191,233. Restoration of the tunnel was provided in the original subway contracts, and the city paid 55 per cent of the cost and the federal government the rest.

The city's settlements with contractors for damages done to city facilities in connection with subway construction have been a subject of controversy on the floor of the city council and elsewhere. The city administration often has been called upon to defend them.

"In every case subway contract provisions relating to damage from subway construction have been rigidly enforced," Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, said. "No subway contractor has been given his final payment nor released from his contract obligations until he has presented to the subway commissioner a signed release from the city department involved to the effect that the contractor has satisfactorily performed his obligation."

Restoration by Contractors.

Most of the $1,346,464 was expended by the subway contractors themselves or thru subcontracts they let on the work. The remainder was in cash payments to the city in lieu of repairing damage themselves. They paid $46,600 in cash in lieu of restoring streets and $21,020 toward sewers.

In the case of streets, the contractors did $487,970 worth of work themselves or thru subcontractors, including temporary decking construction at the sites of the subway stations, and restoration of streets to their former condition where the city did not want new paving.

The $46,600 in cash was contributed toward several city street projects covering several miles of the subway route; the city charged $22,455 of this new paving work to the traction fund, and paid the remaining $779,195 out of the state motor fuel tax fund.

"The condition of the pavements in these sections was poor, and the old paving had high curbs and was not at proper grade," Lloyd Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, said in explaining the large amount charged up as improvement.

Sewer Settlements Complicated.

"It was desirable to repave them, yet the contractors were in no way obligated to repave these streets. They merely were under obligation to restore them to their condition prior to the subway work. So we took the $46,600 cash and applied it on the costs of the improvement."

City officials and contractors, thru a complicated series of compromises, worked out settlements in the matter of sewers. Aside from the $21,020 in cash, which was applied on sewer maintenance, they repaired sewers in some sections or built new sewers in one place after the city agreed to build them in another. In the loop, the sewer bureau reported, most of the old sewers were more than 80 years old and "grossly inadequate."

In other cases, such as water mains, the original contracts did not obligate the contractor to relocate facilities. Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, said that because of this arrangement $689,710 of the water pipe work was charged to the subway, thru the traction fund, and the remaining $234,905 represented improvements, such as enlargement of water mains.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. James Hayden, 211 Maple street, Manistique, Mich.]

THE QUESTION.

What reactions do you recall about the new fathers? [Asked of nurses.]

WHERE ASKED.

The Chicago Lying-In hospital.

THE ANSWERS.

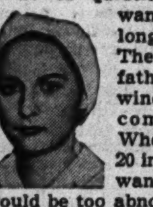
Eva Waltz—One big husky man was worried only about whether his baby would be a boy or girl. He kept pestering everybody. At last I came out to make the announcement. Very calmly, he asked: "Well, is it a boy or a girl?" "It's twins," I said. He fainted and didn't revive for two hours.

Rosemary Bertelson—The father was becoming more anxious every moment. He wanted the new baby to be a boy and the suspense at times seemed too much for him. When I finally walked in and said, "It's a boy." He jumped up and clasped my hand and said, "O . . . congratulations . . . you're wonderful!"

Pauline Stegelman—When the father sees the new baby for the first time his face registers a multitude of expressions—and quite often fear is one of them. He wants to be assured that this is his baby and that the names haven't been mixed. One father looked over my shoulder at all the other babies as if to see if there was anything better in stock.

Ann Campbell—We try to make the new fathers understand that their babies don't see anything and that they don't understand English. Even so, one father would come up every day and dangle new toys in front of the glass window of the nursery. He'd tap on the window if he didn't think he was getting the baby's attention.

Jean Flora—Sometimes the fathers are more difficult than the mothers and babies combined. One of them muttered thru a torn handkerchief that he had never had to endure anything like it. When we told him it would be at least another hour he said he couldn't stand it, and shouted, "Stop everything! We should't have had it now anyway."



Mary Walsh—New fathers ask all kinds of questions. One of them wanted to know how long the baby was. Then three or four more fathers came to the window and they started comparing statistics. When we told one father 20 inches was normal he wanted to know if it would be too abnormal if he wrote 24 inches on the announcements.

Betty Ann Egeland—There were several fathers waiting in the husbands' room. When I walked in one of them ran toward me and asked, breathlessly, "Has the baby come yet?" I said I'd have to know who he was before I could answer. He was so confused he handed me his identification cards instead of telling me his name.

WIFE ENJOINED FROM SHARING SOLDIER'S PAY

Judge Thomas J. Lynch of the Circuit court yesterday enjoined Mrs. Lillian Wenskus, 24 years old, 10226 South Sawyer avenue, Evergreen Park, from accepting further army allotment pay from her husband, Pvt. Edward J. Wenskus, 26, who was wounded in battle and is now in an army hospital. She had been getting $50 a month.

The injunction was asked by the soldier's lawyer, Herman Aschin, who said that about a year ago Mrs. Wenskus sued for separate maintenance and Wenskus countered with a suit for divorce. Aschin said they eventually signed an agreement whereby Wenskus would sell his car, give his wife half the proceeds, and enter the army, while she would waive support.

Wenskus did sell the car, give Mrs. Wenskus half, and enter the army, but nevertheless, asserted Aschin, the wife applied for and has been receiving allotment support since June.

Archbishop Spellman Visits Army Supply Unit in Britain

LONDON, March 26 (AP).—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York visited a United States army supply service station somewhere in England today and held discussions with chaplains.

SENATOR URGES GROUP TO GUIDE STEPS OF PEACE

Establishment of a foreign relations advisory council to advise with the executive department on questions of peace was urged yesterday by Sen. Alexander Wiley [R., Wis.] before the Wisconsin Society of Chicago in the Union League club.

Sen. Wiley already has introduced a resolution in the senate asking for such a council. It would be made up of representatives from the senate, the house, and the state department, and would, said Wiley, provide a liaison committee between the executive and the senate itself, and also serve as a clearing house of ideas relating to the people.

The wounded can't wait under the merciless sun in Africa—down in the suffocating heat of the jungle. These men are as surely related to each of us, as we are—all of us—related in the great family of democracy. To these men—more than to anyone else, anywhere now—time spells the difference between life and death. Time spells the difference between a whole body and a maimed one. These, the wounded, can't wait. And we can't—we must not—let them wait. So, give to the Red Cross today. Give freely—give deeply—but give today!

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

The suspicion is beginning to crop up around town that either the Metropolitan Opera is two companies or Bruno Walter is a wizard. Last night's revival of "The Magic Flute" was the third brilliant performance in five nights, and Mr. Walter has presided at all three. This swan song among Mozart's operas also drew the first sold out house of the brief season and was received with such delight it might easily have been repeated.

Altho Chicago first heard "The Magic Flute" at the old McVickers theater back in 1865, our resident company staged it during only one season, back in 1931. The Metropolitan brought it to us in 1902 with a dazzling cast of Sembrich, Gadski, Ternina, Homer, Scheff, Dippel, Campanari, and Edouard de Reszke, raising the price from $3.50 to $5 to accommodate the overhead. The next season's return precipitated the famous fracas between Sembrich and Scheff, in which Sembrich refused to continue the performance, which perforce ended without the closing ensemble.

Last night's Metropolitan visit had not quite so glittering an array of names, but it had a handsome and witty production done in intelligible English [with what Mr. Walter calls a Scotch r to make it roll] and it had flame tipped Mozart pouring out of the pit to touch it with magic. The audience was no mere houseful of listeners to music, but an alert and entertained set of participants in a play with music.

Understanding what happens on the stage is important at any performance, but it is imperative at "The Magic Flute," with its labyrinthine combination of knightly ordeal, comic pantomime, spoken dialog, shining arias, and general aura of the preposterous and the irresistible. Last night's secret of success was the key Mr. Walter seems uniquely to have at his fingertips—the open sesame to revealing performance of the flowing, pointed, and projected ensemble.

While one or two of the major rôles fell below ideal casting, the performance in general was on a high plane in minor as well as stellar parts. It had, for instance, the noble voice and bearing of Ezio Pinza as a magnificent Sarastro, and the ludicrous yet engaging charm of John Brownlee as bird catching Papageno. It had Charles Kullman as a sound Tamino whose voice grew richer and fuller as the performance progressed, and it had Eleanor Steber, Maxine Stellman, and Anna Kaskas as three ladies whose voices blended to perfection.

Miss Antoine's Queen of the Night was clean and sparkling in vocalism, but it lost a great deal of effect by transposition. Unhappily for coloraturas of human limitation, Mozart wrote that "Vengeance" aria for his sister-in-law, who apparently had a high F easily at her disposal. It never sounds quite right without that inhuman glitter, but at least Miss Antoine was on pitch in her own key.

Jarmila Novotna was an appealing Pamina, lovely to the eye and almost always delightful to the ear. Lillian Raymondi was the Papagena, while Norman Cordon did some remarkably sound singing as the high priest, and both Louis D'Angelo and John Gurney were guards whose every syllable was clearly projected in terms of a sizeable opera house.

Mr. Graf's staging went hand in hand with Mr. Walter's conducting, his interlude of charmed animals taking on a touch of Disney at his best. This time the lion lay down, not with the lamb, but with the rabbit, each enchanted by the strains of the magic flute.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY.

Mrs. Smith.

She has the reputation of being the perfect wife, especially under such trying circumstances as when a convivial spouse flings out invitations to dinner to hail-fellows-well-met. She merely smiles and says, "Yes . . . do come for dinner"—which in these food rationed days—is hospitality plus. A friend, observing her unruffled calm, asked the secret. "O," she answered, "I worked for my husband when I first began my business career . . . and somehow . . . it never occurs to me to say anything but 'yes, Mr. Smith.'"

They're in the Unions Now.

"A phenomenon of today is the mass entry of women into the labor unions. Eighteen months ago women members numbered 1,000,000. Now, according to Miss Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau of the department of labor, women union members number 3,500,000. Naturally, more and more women are becoming labor leaders. Last year 14 women in the New York area gave up private employment to assume full time paid jobs with the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America. The United Office and Professional Workers of America have a woman president. So has the Book and Magazine union. Dare we hope that improvement in union affairs, and better industrial relations will result?"—From the Independent Woman.

And Then You Fall Back Asleep.

For the benefit of war workers who are fortunate enough to have alarm clocks [yet still oversleep], Era Bell offers her own method which she has followed for four years.

1. Set the alarm for almost 6 o'clock and move back the big hand 5 minutes.

2. Wake up at 20 to 6, turn on the light to see if you forgot to pull out the alarm switch.

3. Get up and shut off the alarm at 10 to 6 [which is really only 15 to 6]. Shut the window, turn on the radiator, and reset the alarm for almost 7.

4. Wake up a little before 7, reach out and turn off the alarm so it won't ring.

5. Turn over and go back to a sound sleep. Wake up all by yourself at 10 to 7 [which is really 15 to 7]—the time you wanted to get up in the first place. Easy—huh?

To Tip or Not to Tip.

"Many times I have felt uneasy about not leaving a tip. However, eating out three meals a day—if I left a 10 cent tip each meal—my tips would amount to 30 cents a day which I cannot afford. I just don't see why waitresses should be expected to make up part of their wages from their tips."—Office Worker.

"A line from a waitress who works in a restaurant where 80 per cent of the trade are white collar girls. Due to the fact that I am a mother who must be close to home I work in this place where the salaries are small and the tips about nil. So I have this suggestion to pass on: Please, girls, tip if it's a few pennies or a nickel. It all adds up. And it's a poor waitress who will sneer at a 5 cent tip."—Hilda.

W-G-N Will Present Noel Coward Operetta, 'Bitter Sweet,' Tonight

The Chicago Theater of the Air will present Noel Coward's "Bitter Sweet" with Marion Claire and William Horne as the singing stars from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight over W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual Broadcasting system. This is the operetta that was presented the night the Theater of the Air first lifted its curtains in May, 1940.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

Miss Claire will sing the rôles of Lady Shayne [Sari Linden]. She also will take the speaking part of Lady Shayne, but Lauretta Fillbrandt will take the speaking part of Sari before she became Lady Shayne.

Other musical rôles will be taken by Ruth Slater and Bruce Foote. Supporting dramatic rôles will be taken by Bret Morrison, Eloise Kummer, Marvin Mueller, and Elmira Roessler. Henry Weber will conduct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and ensemble. Jack La Frandre is the writer-director.

Thru the Looking Glass

Prevention is the best method we know for handling the terrifying bugaboo of neck that crinkles and chin that droops. The habit of good posture heads the list of aids to an ageless neckline.

Walking or sitting with the head thrust forward means that your chin muscles will form the worst possible habits of laxness, and that the contour will be dissipated far earlier than any self-respecting woman can bear with equanimity. It's best, of course, to form the habit of good posture in youth, but it's never too late to start. Pull yourself together every time you think of it, straightening your spine, and try to remember that the imaginary line that might be drawn from the tip of your ears should go down thru your shoulders and arms and hips as straight as a die! And this should be so when you sit, stand, or walk.

Next best preventive is massage. Remember that skin that's improperly lubricated will crinkle up in protest. It's all right for the youngsters to use very little cream on the neck. Their skin is firm and generously supplied, usually, with the natural oil it needs. But once you hit 30 you'd better form the habit of creaming your neck and the area beneath your chin as religiously as you cream your face.

Have professional massage if you can afford it. It really helps, if it's expert, in "exercising" those hidden muscles that get limp as you get older. The oiling and the contour molding combined will help preserve the satin skin texture and the swanlike structure. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Plan to Revamp Catholic School System Is Told

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The outline for the reorganization of the Catholic school system of the country, to permit the superior student to move forward more rapidly and at the same time retain the basic eight year elementary school, was made public yesterday at the close of the eighth annual midwest regional meeting of the National Catholic Educational association at the Palmer House.

Sessions were held in conjunction with those of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The Rev. Charles E. Elwell of Cleveland, O., announced the plan, which would keep the traditional eight year school, with its present staff, grade organization, and buildings.

"The courses would be arranged so that bright pupils can pass thru all the grades in seven or even six years without skipping or skimming any subject matter," Father Elwell said. He advocated taking the subject matter of the present eight grades and concentrating all essentials into six of the eight years. "This would leave two years free for drill, assimilation, and high school preview for the average or slower pupil," he said.

Dr. George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education, Washington, D. C., brought the sessions of the North Central association to a close yesterday with a plea for the establishment of an international office of education and cultural relations after the war.

Dr. Zook argued that one of the basic needs of a lasting peace will be extensive interchange of publications, radio programs, and motion pictures; exchange of students, and encouragement for international travel, which only such an office could adequately provide. Educational facilities for backward peoples, he added, will be an important aid to peace.

Dr. William E. McVey, superintendent of the Thornton Township High school and junior college, Harvey, was elected president of the association, to succeed Dr. Charles Edwin Friley, president of Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts.

U. of I. Medical College Awards Diplomas to 150

The University of Illinois college of medicine yesterday graduated 150 students believed to be the largest medical graduating class in the country. The ceremonies were held in the First Congregational church, Ashland avenue and Washington boulevard. Of the 150 new doctors, 25 are in the navy and medical reserve, and 103 in the army medical reserve, according to Dr. Raymond B. Allen, who presented the Hippocratic oath. Dr. David John Davis, retiring dean of the medical school, delivered the principal address. Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the University of Illinois, presented the diplomas.

Degrees Are Awarded 269 at U. of Chicago's Quarterly Convocation

Degrees were presented to 269 graduates at the University of Chicago's quarterly convocation yesterday. This brought to 911 the number of degrees awarded during the current academic year.

Included were 29 graduates of the medical school, 27 of whom now hold reserve commissions in the army or navy.

Principal speaker at the exercises, which were held in Rockefeller Memorial chapel, was Dr. Simeon E. Leland, chairman of economics on the Midway and also chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. He said that the income tax alone is not sufficient fiscal barricade against inflation, and that more money must be raised from this form of taxation and other forms.

Eastern Girl Is Engaged to R. W. Mechem

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE many friends of Col. and Mrs. John C. Mechem, formerly of Lake Forest, will be interested to hear of the announcement that is being made this week-end in Cambridge, Mass., by Prof. and Mrs. Frederick H. Norton of the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to the Mechems' youngest son, Richard Watson Mechem. Col. Mechem has been stationed in Washington, D. C., for two years, and Mrs. Mechem now is at Rockport, Mass., not far from Gloucester, where their daughter, Mrs. Benjamin A. Smith II., lives.

Dick Mechem is a graduate of St. Paul's school and now is attending Harvard university, at which he has been elected captain of the varsity hockey team for the coming year. Whether he will be able to lead the team is in doubt, for he is entering the navy in July. He will take his navy training at the university, however. Miss Norton is a graduate of the Erskine Junior college.

Young Mr. Mechem and his two brothers, John S. and Robert C. Mechem, who are living in Cambridge with their families, are nephews of Miss Margaret Thompson of Lake Forest and of Mrs. Le Baron Turner of Geneva. Mrs. Smith's husband is a lieutenant in the naval reserve on active sea duty.

Edith Farwell to Be Bride in Massachusetts Tonight.

In the little Unitarian church in Dover, Mass., where Mr. and Mrs. Albert Day Farwell were married in 1917, their daughter, Miss Edith Farwell, tonight will become the bride of Lt. John Haight. A reception will follow in the Charles River, Mass., home of the bride's uncle and aunt, the Reginald C. Fosters, which was Mrs. Farwell's girlhood home. In the east for the ceremony are Mr. and Mrs. Farwell, their younger daughter, Miss Fanny Day Farwell, who will be one of her sister's attendants, and Mr. Farwell's sister, Mrs. Paul Moyer of Lake Forest. The Farwells' son, Francis C. Farwell II., and his bride made the trip east from Detroit, Mich., where young Mrs. Farwell's parents live.

Lt. Haight's father, the Rev. John M. Haight of Bristol, N. H., will perform the ceremony. Mrs. Haight is a native Chicagoan. Lt. Haight is stationed at Camp Edwards, Mass., and he and his bride will reside near his post.

Jane Swift Being Married in New York City Today.

The Gustavus F. Swifts and their immediate family are gathered in New York today for the marriage of Miss Jane Gertrude Swift to Richard Anthony Moore of New York. The 4 o'clock ceremony will take place in the 5th avenue apartment of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ruth Swift Maguire, with the Rev. Vincent Hart of St. Francis Xavier's church in New York officiating. The bride will wear her mother's wedding veil and gown of ivory satin and duchess lace.

Among the guests will be the bride's sisters, Mrs. A. Thomas Taylor and Mrs. Robert E. Spiel, and their husbands; Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift Jr., who made the trip from Washington, D. C., and the George H. Swifts of Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Taylor will be her sister's matron of honor, and John D. Moore will attend his brother as best man. Mr. Moore will take his bride to Harrisburg, Pa., while he completes his army air forces training.

Two Parties Tomorrow for Met Opera Artists.

There will be two parties tomorrow for visiting members of the Metropolitan Opera company, which will enter the second week of its engagement here on Monday. Tomorrow evening 35 members of the Abbott Hall Glee club will entertain some of the stars at a reception from 5 to 7 o'clock at the Seneca hotel. Mrs. Haven Core Kelly will be hostess at a cocktail party and tea during the same hours for Raoul Jobin, who sings the title rôle in the Met's presentation of "Faust."

The board of Christopher House, the Presbyterian church settlement house at 2507 North Greenview avenue, is giving its annual benefit at 8:15 o'clock tonight in Northwestern university's Scott hall. Burton Holmes, traveler and lecturer, will show his pictures on "Our Russian Allies."

Mrs. Edward H. McDermott is chairman of the benefit.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Willett will open their penthouse atop the Civic Opera building from 3 to 5 o'clock tomorrow for an Easter seal tea, sponsored by the officers and directors of the Illinois Association for the Crippled.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

In the open hearths and blast furnaces of the vast Gary works of the Carnegie Illinois Steel corporation, women, for the first time, have become a part of the combine of men and flame that has made steel by night and day for 35 years.

There are 2,600 of them among the 23,000 persons employed at the Gary works and the adjoining armor plate plant, which is operated by Carnegie Illinois for the army. The women can be found in almost all the departments. They are working as laborers and in more technical jobs. For instance, in the open hearth, which has always been regarded as man's realm in the steel industry, the women are operating transfer material cars and serving as test carriers, delay clerks, ingot shippers, hot metal transfer car operators, metallurgical observers, and carbometer readers. The carbometer is an instrument which provides for the quick determination of the amount of carbon in a heat of steel.

Women also are serving as policemen, patroling the huge areas that comprise the plant. They have been sworn in as auxiliary military police and even their male counterparts who watched them drill admit that their aim is deadly.

A number of the Gary works' women are employed in the plant's rail mill, where an ingot—a shape of steel—is converted in 18 passes into a rail. Here, they are working as cover crane operators, steel chasers expediting delivery, stampers, hot bed operators, inspectors, helpers on light rails, and hookers.

Many of them, like Mrs. Florence Romanowski, who is a third stamper in the rail mill, came out of their homes and into the mills as their husbands went to war. Mrs. Romanowski's husband is now in Camp Lee, Va. She said he's real proud of her. Miss Stella Klotz, who grinds cold saws for use in the rail mill, came from a photography studio, where she had been a receptionist.

When outsiders ask the women where they work, they say, "the big mill," and they say it with authority as well as habit, for the Gary works is the world's largest completely integrated steel mill. It has an output almost equalling that of the entire steel industry of Japan and nearly twice that of Italy.

At present, 35 per cent of the employés in the armor plate plant are women, and it is believed that if the war continues long this may rise to nearly 50 per cent. Here hot slabs are rolled into finished plate, ready for heat treating in preparation for tank construction.

The women in armor plate are working as crane operators, flame cutters, checkers, inspectors, hot bed operators, and level operators. Among them is Mrs. Annette Elkins, a burner. Her husband is employed at "the big mill." Before Mrs. Sue Eva Sanchez began inspecting plates, she sold dresses in a Gary department store. She changed over when her nephew, who has lived with her most of his life, was called to war. Miss Roma Childers, a flame softener, has a brother and a boy friend in the army. Her work consists of softening the edges of armor plate after it has been flame-cut.

In the Gary sheet and tin mills of Carnegie Illinois, 450 employés are women. They are working in the world's largest sheet and tin mill, and doing such jobs as assorting tin plate, operating overhead cranes, and assorting gas washers —plates that filter gas. With this, they are aiding in the finishing of heavy plate for tanks, landing mats, deck plates, steel for cartridge cases, and other war materials.

In the American Bridge Company's Gary plant, 150 women are working as welders, timekeepers, and inspectors, aiding in the fabrication of steel for aviation, naval, and other war purposes. All the plants are United States Steel corporation subsidiaries.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Poetry Editors Are Guests at Authors' Party

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The presence of a new member of the Society of Midland Authors, Louis Bromfield, whose residence at his Ohio farm makes him eligible; of Kenneth Horan, just back from Hollywood, and of Mr. and Mrs. Carveth Wells added a fillip to the society's monthly luncheon yesterday at the Seneca hotel. The special guests were Marian Strobel [Mrs. James H. Mitchell], and Jessica North [Mrs. R. I. MacDonald], associate editors-in-chief of Poetry magazine.

Backing up the society's good intentions toward the struggling magazine even more than words of encouragement and praise from Arthur Meeker Jr., the society's president, was a gift of $100 to the magazine made by a spontaneous vote, even tho the gift may cost the society its year book. "I think you're wonderful," were Marian Strobel's words of sincere thanks.

Miss Strobel spoke briefly of the success of a series of modern arts lectures which will be concluded today with a talk by Rudolph Ganz on "Modern Music" at 11:30 o'clock at the Arts club. The series has cleared $1,200 for the magazine. "But we will need $2,000 more if the magazine is to be continued beyond September," added Miss Strobel. Mr. Meeker described the magazine as a memorial to its founder, the late Harriet Monroe, who gave up a career for herself in the interests of poetry.

"Poetry is entering an exciting new phase," said Miss North, who traced poetic trends of the last few years. "There was the free verse phase, then the lyric phase in the 1920s, during which time Edna St. Vincent Millay was a shining light; then the heavy, thoughtful, distinguished writing period of the '30s, when one read of 'dark honey and wine,' of the 'bird beating within the breast,' and when I thought if I read once more of a gull screaming that I would scream myself."

The lyric note is creeping back into the current trend, Miss North said. Many young men are writing poems, men with no traditions behind them, who write of clear cut observations and who take the world as it is and leave out the heartaches, she summed up. Miss Strobel illustrated the trend by reading a poem, "Nostalgia," by Carl J. Shapiro, a soldier.

Mr. Wells ended this rather serious note by rising to ask whether poetry ever again would rhyme. His question brought a storm of indignation and good humored laughter, for Mr. Wells earlier had told an entertaining story or two, as had his wife.

Mrs. Horan brought back word of Dr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Goodspeed, formerly of the University of Chicago, who are living in Belair, Cal., now, and told an amusing anecdote about being invited to a stag writers' gathering, described as "apt to be rather rough," thru her unusual first name of Kenneth. Others at the luncheon were Mary Hastings Bradley, whose trip to Mexico has been postponed thru the illness of her husband, Herbert E. Bradley; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stevers, Franklin Meine, Florence Ward, Marguerite Lyon, Barry Payne, Mrs. John Matter, Mary Donahey, and Etta Corbett Garson, to mention a few.

The announcement by Mr. Meeker that the special guest at April's meeting would be John Storm of the Houghton-Mifflin publishing firm was received with interest, for as Mr. Meeker said, "What author doesn't like to meet a publisher?"

Neck Gadgets Help Refurbish Dated Outfits

BY REA SEEGER.

This spring and summer you'll see the best assortment of trick neckline projects ever devised to revamp dated and not so dated suits and costumes of jacket and skirt, even the slim, streamlined coats.

Listed under the classification of gilets, vestees, quimpes, waistcoats, elongated ascots, and neckerchiefs, are found vivid pieces of taffeta, surah foulard, grosgrain ribbon, satin, lace, and crocheted and knitted bits of stuff called fascinators for the further glorification of simple war time restricted clothes.

Downright and upright magic can be contrived with knowing fingers, a little whiff of material, and lots of imagination. Huge dotted prints show most effectively in soft silk bows and matching vestee. The sharp striped taffetas, precision checked stuff, cravat silk patterned materials, and the swank diagonal or bias cut foulards are some of the variations with which to sew and save the appearance of your smartest suits and coats.

Many of the gilets are rather complicated affairs, at least to look at, for the vest effect is attached securely to the tricky long ends, used for bows or softly tied ascots or any other arrangement you can manage with two long, four to six inch wide double face lengths of the same material. Some fasten high, some form shallow vees, some have collars, and others are deliberately collarless.

Cuffs to match make the usual combinations, but it's smarter to match your gilet to your hat or bag or even gloves. If the particular ribbon or silk material is limited after the gilet or vestee is made, a belt can be managed instead of the gloves or bag that take more inches of the material.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

State Sovereignty and Soup.

Remember last July when all the magazines, taking part in a Fourth of July national contest, had flag covers? The winning design, depicting the flag waving over Mount Vernon, was on the cover of House and Garden and is reproduced on a set of service plates which went on exhibition here this week as part of a display of fine porcelain bearing designs by contemporary American artists. No matter how many persons in Illinois wish to buy a set of the service plates, they cannot, if they wish to use them, for an Illinois law prohibits the placing of anything on top of the flag. The District of Columbia, however, is unhampered by such veneration, and the White House possesses and uses a set.

Rationed Appetite.

I enjoy my cornbread and stew
Now that I know my neighbors, too,
Cannot buy juicy chops and steaks
Or spread fudge frosting on their cakes.

—Martha Murray.

Out of the Deep.

The other day we reported that Ezio Pinza, now here with the Metropolitan opera, had organized a Be Kind to Bassos week. We now learn that Norman Cordon, also of the Met, has gone a step further and organized a society limited to bassos who have never sung "Asleep in the Deep." This perennial favorite of all bass singers is taboo in the organization, the motto of which is: "Keep our bassos flying and not have them down with the Jap subs."

Dept. of Understatement.

It was the Monday morning after Churchill's last speech, and the two girls on the North Western suburban train were chatting gayly. One asked the other if she heard a certain radio program Sunday, and back came the impatient reply: "No, some Englishman was speaking, and it was on all of the stations!"

Tantalus Refound.

The evening papers were full of the points allotted for meat rationing, and the mind of the man peering out the window of the 400 as it raced thru central Wisconsin was reviewing them, thinking wistfully of roast beef of the past. Here and there as he peered into the night was a lighted farmhouse, a truck or two on the highway, a solitary arc light, the nimbus surrounding a village quickly forgotten and lost in the night. Suddenly he saw the sign, bold, gay, and taunting in red neon: "MEATS."

My Ship.

[A priority inspired parody on Gertrude Lawrence's song, "My Ship," from "Lady in the Dark."]

My ship has sails that are made of silk,
Its decks are trimmed with steel.
Of sugar and spice there's a paradise
For a post-war meal.

My ship's a dream with whipping cream
And coffee fills each bin.
We'll have rubber boots and frozen fruits
When that ship comes in.

I can wait the years till it appears
Some fine day some fine spring.
But nylon and such, it won't mean much
If missing is one thing!

I do not care if that day arrives,
For me that dream cant' be,
If the Peace I sing doesn't also bring
My own true love to me.

—Alice Oman.

"Man Snatcher"

INSTALMENT XXIV.

KEEPING UP THE PACE.

"'Ave a seat," Fanny suggested in her nasal Conch voice. "That is, hif yer wants! Hall I 'ave is beer hand hit's warm—the bleedin' hiceman didn't stop by ter d'y!"

"All right, sister, warm beer!" said Mary Jo. The fat woman opened bottles that popped and frothed angrily.

Fannie was a friendly soul, but long experience in running her lonely station had apparently taught her not to ask questions. She eyed her customers with discreet eyes and retired behind her counter and a hot silence fell upon the little place.

Tony was looking nervously at his watch and Mary Jo strained her ears against the stillness of the night. Presently the faint pounding of a heavy motor came out of the distance, grew louder, and then the nearest bridge echoed with protests as the vehicle crossed it at high speed. Mary Jo got up.

"It ought to be him," she said. "Maybe we'd better get outside."

The others followed her into the dimness just beyond the glare of the neon sign. The truck could be seen lumbering up the road now, huge and unwieldy, and careening as tho it might deliberately leave the road and descend upon them of its own accord. It came to a halt alarmingly and very close and Danny's voice called out, recognizing Mary Jo.

"That him? Then hop it, buddy, I can't wait all night!"

Bergen, bag in hand, kissed his wife hurriedly and shook hands with Tony. He stammered as he turned to Mary Jo.

"Mary Jo, I—I can't . . ."

"That's all right, don't try to, please!" she said, looking away. Bergen nodded, his face working again. Then he sprang up the step of the cab, crawling over the seat and vanishing into the depths of the truck behind the driver. Tony had put a sympathetic arm about Maisie and was already leading her towards the car as Danny took off his brakes with a wrenching sound and the big dark shape of the truck began to move forward.

He waved a hand which showed for a moment against the light like a warning signal and was off. Mary Jo stood for a moment looking after the retreating monster and then, fighting off a feeling of collapse, made her way to where her husband and the young woman whose care she had just imposed upon herself were waiting to begin the trip back home.

Maisie was in no mood to go straight back to the house.

"There!" she said as she climbed into the front seat next to Tony and made room for Mary Jo beside her. "Now let's have some fun. Where'll we go, Tony? You always have good ideas."

"What we all need is a drink!" said Tony. "How about a long, cool rum collins at Billy's Café?"

"Smart man! You read my liquid eyes!" Maisie patted his arm approvingly.

Mary Jo didn't protest. If they were going out, she'd go with them.

Hidden behind the façade of what had been a fine old house, Billy's Café always made Mary Jo think of a cowpuncher gone to pieces in the tropics. The place looked as if it had migrated bodily from some Nevada town and having moved as far south as was physically possible had settled down a stone's throw from the Gulf of Mexico for one last shabby debauch. There was nothing tropical or glamorous about Billy's. In the glare of crude lights the crowd shifted from one room to the other; townspeople, soldiers, tourists, sailors, Cuban gallants in search of adventure. An itinerant band blared noisily.

"I ought to feel right at home," Mary Jo thought.

Waterman was sitting alone at one of the round iron tables by the dance floor where a young Cuban couple were doing the danzon utterly absorbed in each other and entirely unconscious of having an audience. He caught sight of Tony as they entered and beckoned. They slipped by the primitive dancers and Maisie flung her arms around Don's neck.

"Darling! You'll never believe it, but Culver's gone!" she cried.

"You don't say! Gone? What for?"

"He had to go up to his mother's," Mary Jo put in hastily, "and we don't know when he'll be back."

They ordered drinks and drank them and then Maisie and Waterman danced. For the first time since that night, when Tony had brought them down to the house, Waterman had resumed his possessive attitude toward Maisie. After Culver had been dragged into the picture, Waterman had been careful, but now he was as he had been on that first night which seemed so long ago. And now Tony sat with his eyes glued upon them—unhappy, jealous eyes. Waterman, big tho he was, danced well and Tony with his bad foot could not dance at all. Mary Jo wondered if he had the faintest idea of how plainly he was showing his feelings?"

It seemed that men, when they had their mind on a woman, always forgot that other people had eyes. Waterman was being just as obvious. He was jealous, too, but he hid it better or felt his position was stronger because he was single. Animals, now, they were a heap more decent: Deer, for instance. They just went at it and fought until one of them got killed and that was that. But humans used tricks and cheating, all the time pretending they weren't up to anything out of the way!

She had meant to be gay and diverting, but now she was sitting there dumbly, jealous herself, as she watched Tony's jealousy. For something to say, she asked for another drink. The waiter brought it, and when the others rejoined them, there were more drinks.

That eased things up a little and pretty soon Mary Jo found herself laughing enthusiastically when Maisie did a parody on the danzon. She was a talented little piece, Mary Jo admitted, and she had a way of making the men feel important. She deferred to Waterman and let him do little things for her—apparently the critter couldn't light her own cigaret or pick up her handkerchief and she somehow made it seem like a favor when she let Waterman do it. With Tony, it seemed as if she was forever trying to make him believe he was the strongest man on earth—that was smart, what with his bad foot. Tony could pick up a table by a leg and hold it at arm's length in one hand, and after the fourth round of drinks Maisie made him do it, and led the applause, clapping wildly. Tony was flushed and pleased and having fun. But he was drinking quite a lot.

"I'll keep up with him tonight if it kills me," Mary Jo decided desperately. "The lowdown son of a flea-bitten burro, if this is what he likes, he can have it with me."

Towards 2 o'clock the room began to get hazy, but now it was somehow a first-class sort of place to be. The horse-play was over and Mary Jo was vaguely conscious that they were all involved in a deadly serious, intellectual discussion of the war. Her impression of the talk, however, was rather patchy and somehow reminded her of a piebald pony she had once owned, with a white coat and markings in brown and black which rather resembled a map of the world.

"Of course we ought to get in there with our navy, anyhow." Waterman pounded the table. "Hit first, that's what I say. This taking over Guinea, that's the stuff! We ought to grab all the territory we can like Andrew Jackson did. Grab first to expand the country and fight afterwards. Why, at New Orleans, Jackson . . ."

"So many swell uniforms in a war," Maisie was shrilling. "Trouble is that they fool you. Man inside the uniform may not be as good as he looks in it."

"The trouble with war is," Mary Jo found herself terribly impressive as she spoke, "that it ruins everything. It's un-constructive. Now, look! I like constructive things. Take pies, for instance. Pineapple pies . . ."

"You're pie-eyed!" said Tony. And so she was. So what?

"That's good!" she giggled. "Pie-eyed. So's the pies, the China pies. I cut pie-eyes in the pie-eyed pies. Ha! Ha! Comical hoss-thief, Tony is, isn't he?"

"Come on, we're going home!" Tony gave her his arm and with a mild sort of amazement she realized that she needed it. But she felt very light and happy. She felt clever, too, and communicative.

As they crossed the sidewalk to their car another party was dismounting from one which had just parked directly behind it. They seemed to be big-time people in evening clothes, probably from the Casa Marina. There were two women, one young, one old, and a couple of attendant males with white shirt fronts on which it would be delightful to write something in black crayon if only a person had some black crayon. The older woman was staring hard at Mary Jo, in response to a whispered remark of the girl's.

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Cooking for one or two persons under rationing restrictions is a much more difficult job than cooking for a larger number. The bigger the family, the more variety in menu and the less trouble with the leftover problem.

There is real danger that the person who cooks for herself alone, or for herself and one other agreeable person, will slight the menu often enough to cut it down below the borders of adequate nutrition. I believe that this is particularly true of business girls, who frequently arrive home from the office tired, and throw together a haphazard supper with whatever remains in the refrigerator and breadbox. This is extremely bad practice. Every one of us must make a real effort to eat an adequate, well balanced diet every day. Now, more than ever, it is important that each of us keep healthy and full of energy.

The working girl who doesn't think she has time to prepare an adequate dinner for herself at night should be certain to eat a good breakfast, and a hearty lunch. A breakfast of orange juice, cooked oatmeal or a poached egg, two slices of whole wheat toast with butter or margarine and a beverage will get off to the right start. The girl who breakfasts hastily on a sweet roll or piece of toast and a cup of coffee is cheating herself, and she'll eventually pay for her folly in ill health and lowered vitality.

Every day this girl should include in her diet a serving of meat, fish, poultry, cheese or dried beans. Every day she should drink two glasses of milk. A green salad belongs somewhere in her lunch or dinner. Potatoes and one or two other vegetables must appear in her day's menu, as well as at least one fruit besides the one she has for breakfast.

A breakfast on the order of the one suggested and a lunch which includes a hearty soup or a scalloped dish, a glass of milk and a fruit dessert should result, together with dinners like these, in adequate nutrition for the working girl.

Dinners for One Person for a Week.

SUNDAY: Baked chicken leg and thigh, boiled potato in jacket, broccoli, carrot sticks, cookies, milk. [Buy a neck and wing of chicken when buying the piece for baking. Use for soup Monday.]

FRIDAY: Baked fish fillet, riced potato, corn in cream, cooked beet and hard cooked egg salad on shredded spinach, cupcake, milk.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., March 26.—What goes on? Have those love birds, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, separated? He's moved into town and weeps on anybody's shoulder that happens to be around, all about his misery. . . . Since Mark Hellinger has been testing every one, including Will Rogers Jr., and hoped to get Bing Crosby for "The Life of Will Rogers," I can't see why he doesn't get son Jimmy, who's more like the old man than anybody I've ever encountered. Has his mannerisms, looks like him, does all of Will's rope tricks, and has the same sense of humor. . . . I like Betty Hutton, but don't you think she's too young to play the life of Texas Guinan, which is called "Incendiary Blonde," especially if they're getting Humphrey Bogart to play opposite her? The girl I'd like to see do it—and she'd be terrific—is Joan Blondell. How about it, Buddy de Sylva? . . . Jerry Cady has written a beautiful script of "Guadalcanal," which will star Bill Bendix, Randy Scott, and Victor McLaglen. Bill, who's arrived back from his visit to New York after gaining fame, tells about visiting his mother in the Bronx. She lives in a tiny apartment, but managed to squeeze in 150 of her friends to greet her son, and when he arrived, said, "I hear you're an actor now. Go on—act!" and Bill couldn't think of a thing to say.

Lucille Ball.

Just Asking.

What ever happened to "Cry Havoc" and "They Were Expendable," which Metro-Goldwyn made such a to-do about? Every female star on the lot was mentioned for it, but nary a word about any of them lately. . . . Clarence Brown getting a chuckle out of actors who stop him and put on a thick British accent, hoping to get a part in "White Cliffs of Dover." Only one who keeps her American accent, and is already signed, is Irene Dunne. . . . Dona Drake and Charles Marion finished "Maid in Manhattan," which they hope will be made in Hollywood. . . . Winnie Sheehan returns home end of this week. I hear he's signed up Eddie Burke to write the story of Eddie Rickenbacker. He wrote many of the successes at Fox for Will Rogers and Janet Gaynor.

Won't Be Long Now.

Now that the Franchot Tones have admitted that they're going to have a baby you should see what they're doing to the nursery. . . . Dick Powell, after his camp tour, will end up by invitation of the Canadian government in Montreal for a bond rally April 21. . . . Ilka Chase in town for a 10 days' look-see. She has a two picture deal on, but really came out to confer about a new play whose author is working in pictures and couldn't come back to New York. Ilka, looking in the pink as usual, wearing a hat I hope to swipe before she gets out of town. . . . You'd be surprised at Mrs. Ray Milland's speeches. She's without acting experience, but has a heart big as outdoors. Her speeches are for the blood bank.

Step in Right Direction.

Over 1,000 records of Charles Laughton's speech in "This Land Is Mine" have been made to be distributed in public schools. Speech rouses the same kind of enthusiasm he got after Lincoln's Gettysburg address. . . . Paramount sent a special contract to Jean Lorraine, whose husband and partner, Roy Rognan, lost his life on the Lisbon Clipper. . . . Marjorie Weaver claims "Let's Face It" will be her last picture. She's following her husband, Ensign Don Briggs, to Florida. . . . It was a cinch "The Fallen Sparrow" title would be changed. It's now "Escape to Danger" and boasts Maureen O'Hara and John Garfield.

New Find.

Wonder why somebody doesn't grab that luscious Phyllis Calvert, leading lady in "Young Mr. Pitt." She has beauty, charm, and can act. Her clothes, by Cecil Beaton, are charming. In fact, every woman in the picture looks like Lady Hamilton. . . . Sam Wood has acquired a 16 mm. film of the Kansas cyclone in 1938, which was taken by a college professor. He'll use it in "Craig's Apothecary." . . . Dick Thorpe and his wife spending all their time in a victory garden. . . . Sam Bischoff, wanting to get ahead of his pals, tied waxed fruit on the plants in his garden, had himself photographed in front of them, showed pictures to his boss, Harry Cohn, and Harry yipped, "Ain't nature wonderful? I never before saw pears, oranges, and apples growing on a potato bush!"

Short Shorts.

Lynn Bari, dressed up like a pet horse for the launching of a liberty ship up in San Francisco. Says if she's ever invited again she'll wear rubbers and a mackintosh. O, come now, Lynn. Good Morning!

KIND: Rowdy and amusing comedy.

ACTING: Tops—of its kind. . . . William Bendix and Joseph Sawyer are masters of the slick rough stuff. . . . Grace Bradley and Arline Judge, both pretty as new dimes, are the boys' equal on either give or take. . . . Other rôles are handled with speed and skill.

DIALOG: WHAM!

DIRECTION: Hilarious.

SETS, PHOTOGRAPHY, ETC.: All the picture needs.

STORY: Tim McGuerin and Eddie Corbett own a taxicab company. . . . Tim, an old bumbler, truly loves his Sadie but is forever being caught by her in situations that look like what they're not. . . . Eddie is "practically engaged" to a beautiful but hard as nails lady about town, who sees him where he isn't supposed to be and forthwith decides to sue. . . . Much of the picture's merriment is supplied by the ill-timed efforts of the partners to extricate each other from predicaments. . . . And now enters the picture, Sampson, a physical instructor employed by Sadie McGuerin to help her attain a figure par excellante. . . . The plot, such as it is, thickens to a deep green purée. The finale is simpally wild!

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Woods audiences are LOVing the piece!

See you tomorrow.

Katherine Haig Gives Recital on Cello in Kimball Hall Series

By all rights, a cello recital ought to offer a pleasant interlude between performances of opera, symphony concerts, and piano recitals. Unfortunately Miss Katherine Haig's playing at Kimball hall last evening made the interlude a barren one. Granted that the repertory for the cello is a restricted one, there is always the hope that superior playing will make up in some measure for the lack of a broad choice of worthwhile compositions.

Miss Haig was happiest in pieces that were limited in technical demands. When she had no virtuoso problems her tone was pleasing if not very vital. She has little in the way of dynamic imagination and one continually had the impression of a dead level performance, especially in works that demanded subtle accentuation to give them life. It was unfortunate that Miss Haig chose the unaccompanied Suite in D minor of Bach as her major opus, for she was palpably unready for its technical demands and subtlety of phrasing.

The total impression received in regard to this concert was that the player is scarcely ready for a public recital; she has too many unsolved problems to overcome. The accompaniments, played by Edna Niemi, were thoughtful and musical, giving good support without being obtrusive.

Since every face is a picture it is only natural to find a suitable frame. A simple stitch any novice may attempt is used for fashioning the crocheted fascinator. The full edging around the fascinator adds a further touch of glamour.

City Club Asks More Schooling of Handicapped

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Speaking before the Woman's City club yesterday at a meeting called by the public education committee, Miss Susan Scully, adjustment teacher at the Gompers school, urged a 12 month school term for handicapped children. The club approved the appointment of a committee to discuss with the Chicago school board president the feasibility of tying in with summer vacation schools the additional two months of school for handicapped children.

Results achieved by careful day to day physiotherapy, scientific exercise, and strictly regulated programs during ten months of school, Miss Scully said, are broken down during the vacation period. Most of the crippled children, she said, fail to receive clinical treatment during vacation and many cardiac cases deteriorate, usually thru overexercise.

To continue the four schools for the crippled in the Chicago system during the summer would require the services of approximately 100 teachers, a reduced janitor service as compared to the winter term, and bus service, Miss Scully said. She said she was convinced that, from the standpoint of expense, considered from the long view, the move would be an economy.

The recommendation to discuss the plan with the president of the school board originated with Mrs. William S. Hefferan, former school board member, who favored the paying of tuition for the vacation period on the same basis as the summer schools operate. Mrs. Hefferan said she believed women's clubs and other philanthropic organizations would provide funds for the children whose parents were unable to pay.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

[Have you some household help that lightens labor or conserves on materials? Is there some special convenience you would like? We'll pass on your ideas to our readers.]

Mrs. Timothy G., Chicago: I find it rejuvenates my faded window shades for a while, at least, if I reverse them on the roller. Just this last month I pulled out fastening tacks of all my shades, turned shade top to the bottom, and then made certain that the edge was even on roller before I retacked and hung.

Edith H., New York City: I'm new at housework and sewing, and have discovered that I can save my finger tips from needle pricks if I give them three or four coats of colorless nail polish before I start my sewing.

Mrs. Thomas H., Evanston: As soon as any fruit juice gets spilled on table linen I sprinkle salt over it at once and this prevents a stubborn and even permanent stain.

Mrs. Grace B., Racine, Wis.: I sew a small piece of hair comb, teeth downward, to the inside surface of my hat at the back. In this way it pushes easily into hair and does help it to stay on my head—on even the windiest days.

Grace T., Milwaukee, Wis.; I pour my batter from a pitcher instead of spooning it from a bowl, and this method is easier.

Mrs. Fred S., Oak Park: A shaker that lets out salt too fast can be a worry. I plug up some of the holes when this happens. I empty the shaker, wash and dry it, and then stop up as many holes as I think needed by applying finger nail polish from the inside.

Now—PLEASE—Your Idea?

According to Culbertson

One of the prettiest holdup plays that has ever come to my attention was produced by East in the following deal.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ 6 2
♥ A 7
♦ K J 9 5 4 3
♣ 7 3 2

WEST
♠ Q 9 7 3
♥ J 6
♦ A 8 2
♣ Q 10 9 8

EAST
♠ K 8 5
♥ Q 10 8 5 4
♦ Q 7

SOUTH
♠ A J 10 4
♥ K 9 3 2
♦ 10 6
♣ A K J

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened with the 10 of clubs and declarer won with the jack. The diamond 10 was then led toward dummy. West and dummy played low—and East also ducked! [The full beauty of this ducking play will soon become apparent.] Declarer now made a perfectly normal and natural play. He led another diamond and when West again ducked, put in dummy's nine spot. This time East's queen won, and from that point on, declarer was struggling with a lost cause. With only one entry, the heart ace, left in dummy, there was no possibility of establishing and cashing the long diamonds and declarer had to be satisfied with the tricks he could pick up in the other suits. These came to only three clubs, one diamond, two hearts, and two spades, which left the contract one all-important trick short of fulfilment.

It must be observed that if East had accepted his diamond queen on the first lead of the suit, no line of defense could have been effective. After winning with the diamond queen, the best return would be a heart. This, of course, declarer would win in his own hand to preserve dummy's entry, and another diamond lead would inevitably clear dummy's entire suit.

As for declarer's "falling for" East's highly imaginative holdup play, I can only say that every master player in the world would have been equally taken in. When the 10 spot held, it was impossible to appreciate the true situation. The natural view was that East might be holding up the diamond ace, but that the queen had been virtually located in West's hand. It is perfectly true that clairvoyance on declarer's part [putting up the diamond king on the second lead of the suit] would have neutralized East's play, but I venture the opinion that there are no declarers extant who are so gifted.

Child's Class Work Depends on His Health

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A hard war winter is over. Why not check on your school child's health?

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: My 8 year old daughter isn't doing as well in her school work as she should, apparently, and her teacher requests my presence at the school almost every month after the report cards are distributed. Mary seems to drag thru her lessons.

"She is an intelligent youngster about the house, learning to play the piano and has a decided talent for all artistic things. I don't understand why she isn't doing better work in the classroom. Can you give me any advice?"

Many parents are up against a similar problem with their youngsters, and few of them, judging from their letters, seem to realize what a vital rôle health plays in helping a child to make the grades desired in his school years. We talk about homework and how to manage it; about arithmetic or spelling and how to help our child to master them; about teaching being responsible for our child's interest in school. But there is one factor that we don't take sufficiently to heart when we are concerned about poor grades. That factor is the physical condition of the child.

First, there are those children who haven't anything perceptibly the matter with them, but who are always below par. Now how much zest do you have for your housework, your sewing, and for dealing with family affairs in general when you are "low," lacking in energy, tired, not really fit? Not much. You may keep going on nervous energy, force yourself all along the line because things have to get done, but you don't sail in and do it with noticeable verve.

So the child who is always a little below par often has no relish for mental activity and has no desire to exert herself. The fact that she seems well frequently keeps us from attributing her lack of interest, her inclination "to drag," and perhaps what seems like laziness, to her physical condition.

It is a good plan to have your school child thorolý examined by your doctor. If there is no defect you may find he'll recommend more outdoor activity, more physical exercise, more sleep, different foods, vitamins in some form or other [but don't choose these "on your own"], and a day time rest period.

And here I'd like to tuck in a word for all mothers of children in the primary grades. These youngsters need to be guarded not only against fatigue and overexcitement, but also against too much extra activity. By the latter, I mean such extras as music or dancing lessons or too many movies, any one of which may be just a bit too much for them to undertake and still do justice to the work in the classroom.

55 Nurses Are Capped in Ceremony Held at Presbyterian Hospital

Fifty-five women, representing 12 states, were capped as student nurses last night in ceremonies that marked the completion of their first six months of instruction at Presbyterian Hospital school of Nursing.

Upper class members placed the caps on their "younger sisters" during a candle lighting ceremony that symbolized passing of the Florence Nightingale lamp to younger students. Among these who were capped was Miss Dorothy Carroll Hager of Tacoma, Wash. Her mother, the former Kathryn Carroll, was graduated from the Presbyterian Hospital school of Nursing in 1918.

Mrs. Clyde E. Shorey, president of the hospital's women's board, greeted the class, which was accepted by Miss Henrietta Froehlke, director of the school.

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

The telegraph wire sizzled yesterday with Jane Cowl's denial that she has the slightest intention of appearing in anything at the Studebaker theater under Frank McCoy's management. Advices from the latter quarter had indicated that Mr. McCoy hoped to persuade Miss Cowl to act in some unspecified play at some time in the future, after "Stage Door," which opens at the Studebaker April 4, has run its course. The play following "Stage Door," on an undesignated date, will be Fred Stone in "You Can't Take It With You."

In place of Eric Dressler, the part of Andrey Prozorov, the brother of the three women in "The Three Sisters," will be taken by Joseph Wiseman when the Katharine Cornell production is presented at the Erlanger theater for three weeks beginning May 17. Mr. Dressler is remaining in New York to fulfill radio engagements. Mr. Wiseman joins the cast Thursday, playing four performances in New York before the company sets forth on tour April 5.

Altho there was brief talk of a second company of "Dark Eyes," the diverting comedy about three Russians who settle upon a conventional Long Island household, I am glad to report that this consideration has been dropped. Half the effect of the play depends upon the lush, flamboyant behavior of Eugenie Leontovich, Elena Miramova, and Ludmilla Toretzka, and the present New York cast also includes such delightful performers as Jay Fassett and that endearing little old lady, Minnie Dupree, who was last seen here as the wafty ax-murderess in the Alexander Woollcott performance of "The Man Who Came to Dinner." In order to keep this desirable cast intact, "Dark Eyes" will refrain from touring until next season.

On and off go plans in the theatrical world. One day last week Dan Goldberg and Julius Pfeiffer, entrepreneurs of the fabulous "Maid in the Ozarks," were talking with the Theater Guild about a jointly sponsored revival of "Lysistrata," in the Gilbert Seldes version in which Miriam Hopkins had appeared in 1930. Next day the whole project was off, the Theater Guild having decided to have no traffic with the idea.

Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler" will be presented tonight and Monday evening on the 17th floor of the Kimball building, under the joint sponsorship of James Hargis Connelly and John Bettenbender, with Everett Clarke as a featured player.

Beautiful Tears.

Down thru the corridor of man's fleeting years,
Life is more beautiful because of our tears.

Tears when we part are like an oil smudge that burns,
Like drops of perfume when the loved one returns.

Sweet is the memory, exquisite the bliss
Bathed in the tears of a remembered last kiss.

Misunderstanding may fill the lovers' cup,
Joyful the teardrops when the quarrel is made up.

Bitter and biting are the teardrops of pain,
Better those shed when sweet relief comes again.

Tears at the thought of one's country and flag
Fuse men together so their zeal will not lag.

Tears shed in war toward a right way of life
Turn into nectar with the ceasing of strife.

—Nicholas Lloyd Ingraham.

Out here in Stockton, Ill., we are organizing the Victory Dogs of America. When Victory dogs walk thru a Victory garden they step on the weeds, not on the young vegetables. They chase rabbits from the cabbage patch and cats from the catnip. Victory dogs do not have to be tied up during the garden season.

COACH TELLS BOXERS: YOU'LL WIN IN STADIUM

They're Fit for Big Show Wednesday.

BY BILL MURTHA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., March 26.—New York's Golden Gloves' team, reputed the strongest in years, is on the way for its rendezvous with Chicago's fighting men in Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night.

The New York contingent of 25, including fighters and their entourage, left New York City's Grand Central station this afternoon. At 9:20 o'clock tomorrow morning they are scheduled to arrive at La Salle street station. A few minutes later they'll be installed in their Medinah club headquarters. And, later in the day, they'll be skipping rope, punching the bags, and doing all those other necessary chores to sharpen them for the big show, 16th in the intercity series.

Coach High on Team.

Without making a flat prediction, Head Coach Bill Bradley declared before the departure:

"I can't conceive of a better group of amateurs nor one which I would be happier to head. Every boy on this train is capable of holding his own against the fastest company in the game. I could nominate any one on the squad to fight knowing that he'd battle his heart out."

Six of the eight champions who won eastern titles at Madison Square Garden last week were aboard so there'll be 10 alternate berths open. The heavyweight champion, Eddie Irwin, who is a senior in the school of education at New York university, was unable to leave his studies. Jackie Floyd of Philadelphia, the featherweight champion, stayed on his defense job.

Young Is No. 1 Heavyweight.

The withdrawal of Irwin leaves Cornelius Young, the Chicago and intercity champion of 1940 as the No. 1 heavy on the team. The alternate slot probably will be filled by Eddie Gilliam of Newark who lost a disputed decision to Irwin in the finals of the New York Tournament of Champions.

With Floyd out, the top featherweight will be Georgie Cooper of New York, the runner-up in the eastern tourney, who gave Floyd a terrific tussle in their three round meeting. The eastern coaches probably will nominate Billy Palou of Puerto Rico to face Jackie Graves in the 126 pound alternate affair.

If Palou is named, the cup of Puerto Rico's hopes will be brimming over. Of the six men sent to the eastern tournament from the sunny isle three are on the squad and two will definitely fight—the lightweight champion, Max Gonzalez and the bantamweight winner, Billy Hernandez.

They're Defending Champions.

Thruout the training period the eastern coaches have emphasized that the east has not won in Chicago since the series began. At the same time they have reminded the youngsters that they are the defending champions and that what they did in Madison Square garden a year ago can be duplicated in Chicago Stadium next week. Sixteen bouts will be fought, with each victory worth a point. Last year's score was 9 to 7.

ROSS PROMOTED TO SERGEANT IN NAVAL HOSPITAL

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—The navy said today that Barney Ross, the former world boxing champion and marine hero credited with killing 22 Japs on Guadalcanal, had been promoted from corporal to sergeant. Ross is at present in naval hospital, New York, undergoing treatment for a recurrence of malaria contracted while fighting in the Solomons.

The Marshall players, who have won 80 straight games, including 22 this season, are (left to right) front: Julian Davis, Pee Wee Tadelman, Sid Zomlefer, and Coach Lou Weintraub. Chicagoans to Ease Off After Today's Drill

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's Golden Gloves fighters, sparked up by the New Yorkers' impending invasion, lashed out yesterday with the most spirited session of sparring to date. Realizing that time is getting short, the youngsters turned on full power in their efforts to clinch places in the Intercity team which will meet the eastern representatives in the Stadium next Wednesday night.

When the New Yorkers arrive this morning, the Chicago boys will be preparing for their last long hard workout before easing up. They boxed three rounds yesterday and they'll go another three today. Then the coaches will concentrate on keeping them on edge until the big night.

Chicago Banks on Graves, Janiro.

Chicago boxing fans will be mighty anxious to get a look at the New Yorkers, but they'll be particularly curious about whom the easterners will have to send up against Jackie Graves in the 126 pound alternate spot. This is one fight that the Chicagoans feel sure that they have in the bag. "New York might come up with some champions who will beat a few of our champions but where are they going to get an alternate to beat Graves?" the local boys ask.

Graves, a Minnesota boy who won his Intercity bout last year when fighting as Chicago's bantamweight champion, lost by a narrow margin to Tony Janiro of Cleveland in his bid for the featherweight title this season.

In yesterday's sparring matches, Tim Dalton and Levi Southall continued to put all the zip they had into their work because these two are waging one of the closest battles on the squad for the lightweight alternate assignment under Chuck Hunter, the champion.

Columbus, O., March 26 [Special].—Henry Kozlowski, 19 year old Northwestern university freshman, set a new world record for the 50 yard free style event tonight in the 20th annual National Collegiate Athletic association swimming meet. His time was :22.1, 5-10 of a second under the record set by Duke Kahanamoku of Hawaii, which has stood since 1923.

At the first turn, Kozlowski led the field by four feet and at the end of the race was a yard in front. Merton Church of Michigan was second and Peter A. Powlison of Washington was third.

A product of Lane Tech, Chicago, Kozlowski holds the national scholastic free style record for 100 yards at 52.4 seconds.

Holliday Also Cracks Record.

In the second event of the evening Hal Holliday, Michigan backstroke star, negotiated the 150 yard back stroke in 1:35.5 for a new N. C. A. A. record. The old mark, set by Albert Van de Weghe of Princeton in 1938, was 1:34.2. Mark Follansbee of Ohio State was second by a foot.

Ohio State held a commanding lead after the first day's competition. The Buckeyes jumped to the front by taking three places in the 1,500 meter swim, three in the low board diving, and three in the 220 yard free style event and second in the 300 yard medley relay for a total of 49 points.

White Sox Play Tigers Today; Disregard Score, Says Dykes

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., March 26.—The White Sox are scheduled to make their formal 1943 competitive debut tomorrow, but Manager James Dykes wishes it broadcast in advance to the south side constituents that too much should not be expected. He will be satisfied if all of his boys return safely from the games tomorrow and Sunday at the camp of the better conditioned Detroit Tigers in nearby Evansville.

Dykes wants the results of the invasion taken lightly because he is in no position to risk many of his few prospective first line players. For one thing the squad has had little time for proper preparation. For another thing some of his choicest men reported so late that at present they are not much more than dining room liabilities. The bright feature is that rookies will do most of the work, thus providing at least some hint of their eventual playing value.

More Woe for Dykes.

Dykes' troubles, bad enough to start with, mounted again today. Jimmy Webb, who was supposed to be a member of the Evansville expedition, turned up with a fever and sore throat, the same ailment that sent Thornton Lee, the lefty, to bed yesterday. Thornton's still abed, hoping he doesn't develop a strep throat such as attacked him in Pasadena last spring.

As soon as Dykes learned there was another patient he scanned the roster and found a solution which made him happy. He decided Luke Appling would have to go along with the Evansville contingent as a reserve. Dykes didn't mind this move because it was a way in which to make the veteran shortstop pay off for not showing up in camp as per orders. Luke was only six days behind time.

Then another problem arose. Jim Grant, prospective third baseman, after taking a morning walk, suffered a dizzy spell which easily might be an advance agent for the flu bugs which have had a high time with the Sox the two previous springs. There are no infielders to fill in at third for Grant unless Dykes decides the time has arrived to get started on his threatened experiment to move Appling into that position from short.

Lineup's a Bit Strange.

Thurman Tucker will lead off and play center field. Grant, if present, will bat second. Behind him will be Joe Kuhel, the first base supervisor. Husky Guy Curtright from the St. Paul club will bat fourth and play left field. Then follows Second Baseman Don Kolloway; Ralph Hodgin, the St. Paul freshman in right; Dick Culler, also St. Paul, at short, and Tom Turner behind the bat. Three rookie pitchers each will go three innings.

The workout today was good enough for mere purposes of putting strength into muscles. The weather wasn't of the best so the boys took a hike along the sawdust path in the woods and then set up office in the hotel's grand ballroom where everybody was able to throw after getting hot under Mule Haas' calisthenics orders.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Chicago high school basketball's biggest show—the interleague double header between the champions of the City and Catholic leagues—will hold the stage on the Chicago Stadium court for nearly three hours tonight. Brisk activity in the ticket department yesterday augurs an attendance of approximately 18,000. Proceeds of the program will be directed to the Chicago Service Men's Centers.

Mount Carmel will carry the hopes of the Catholic league, the south side school having swept both the senior and junior titles within its organization. Matched against them are two of the finest quintets ever to represent the City league—Kelvyn Park's seniors and Marshall's juniors. The junior argument is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m., and the senior contest will start at approximately 9:15 o'clock.

Opener Should Be Good, Too.

Nonstudent citizens are advised not to delay their arrival until the senior game, for the opening fight between the smaller gents promises to be a struggle in its own right. In Marshall the fans will see a team that has won 80 consecutive games and four consecutive championships. In Mount Carmel's juniors will be found a band of kids who have few equals for competitive persistence. They wound up in a three way tie for the south section title, fought their way out of that with two victories, then successfully defended their last season's title against Weber in a double overtime thriller. These last three games were crowded into a span of five days.

In the senior game, Kelvyn Park is ranked a favorite over a Mount Carmel team that includes five football players in its starting lineup. Kelvyn Park won 22 straight games in metropolitan competition and lost to Paris, new state champion, at Champaign. Mount Carmel has a won and lost record of 23 and 4.

You Should Be Early.

The Chicago Stadium doors will be opened at 6:30 o'clock. The basketball games will feature a program which includes a number of other doings. These will begin with a flag-raising ceremony at 7:30 p. m., in which more than a dozen R. O. T. C. units will participate. Mayor Kelly and representatives of the army, navy, marines, coast guards, WAACS and WAVES will be introduced just before the junior game.

In another special ceremony, Warren V. Woody, chairman of the World War I. naval aviators' committee, will present the naval V-5 trophy to Gordon Gillespie, Kelvyn Park center.

The Nerve of New York!

Sending 16 star boxers into the Stadium next Wednesday night with the idea of beating Chicagoland's Golden Glovers!

IZAAK WALTONS HEAR OF APPEAL FOR AMMUNITION

No Shortage of Powder, Says Pennsylvanian.

BY BOB BECKER.

Seth Gordon, executive director of the Pennsylvania Game commission, yesterday told delegates to the Izaak Walton league convention in the La Salle hotel that negotiations are under way seeking release of sufficient materials to make available a reasonable supply of hunting ammunition for next fall. Gordon, however, added that the nation's sportsmen didn't want a single shotgun shell or rifle cartridge produced for civilian use if it will interfere with America's efforts to win the war.

In reviewing the whole ammunition situation, Gordon said "authorities tell us there is no shortage of powder and shot." He pointed out that unless farmers and sportsmen can get sufficient ammunition next fall to harvest the crop of wild meat which totaled more than a quarter of a billion pounds in 1942, this valuable supply of meat will be wasted and, worse still, rabbits, deer, pheasant, and waterfowl would multiply in some areas to the extent of becoming pests and injuring crops.

Martin Tells of Health Value.

South Dakota and Iowa already have learned what happens when the pheasant is not held in check, for these states, at the request of farmers, had to declare open seasons late last winter so that the pheasant population could be reduced to a point where it would not be a menace to crops.

Glenn L. Martin of Baltimore, Md., head of the airplane company bearing his name, stressed the health value of the outdoor recreation and its effect on production in a big plant when he addressed a joint meeting of Waltonians and outdoor writers between regular convention sessions. He said that experiments in keeping workers fit for top speed production and to reduce absenteeism to a minimum showed that "the best tonic to reclaim a burned out body is the outdoors. Preferably the outdoors with fish and game, or just the outdoors. There is no substitute for it."

Carp for the Public.

C. F. Culler, veteran fish culturist of the fish and wildlife service, warned Waltonians that the carp and other rough fish are going to war because in 1943 there will be a shortage of more than 2 billion pounds of fish of the more desirable species and it will be necessary for civilians to eat carp and the coarser fishes in the home. There is a potential supply of about 25 million pounds of carp and buffalo in the middle western waters, said Culler.

Ivar Hemmings, South Bend, Ind., manufacturer, was reëlected national president of the Izaak Walton league of America at the 21st annual election of officers. Harry F. Harper of Lansing, Mich., and William D. Cox of Chicago were reëlected as national treasurer and secretary, respectively.

Chicagoans to Ease Off After Today's Drill

Chicago giving Co-Coaches Issy Kline and Fred Caserio headaches trying to figure out which fighter is the best.

Walter Moore, Chicago's heavyweight, cut loose with some of his best punches of the season in his sparring work yesterday. His followers are banking on him delivering a decisive point to Chicago in his bout with New York's No. 1 representative.

If next Wednesday's bouts follow the pattern of Intercity matches of the past, Moore will be in a mighty important spot. On many a previous occasion, the outcome of the entire evening's battle depended on the closing fights in the heavyweight division. Moore has improved so much since he won the local novice title last season that the situation is considered to be in good hands in the heavyweight championship spot. He'll be backed up by Art McWhorter of Gary or Bill Anderson of Nashville.

Bronstein Bids for Place.

The struggle for position became more complicated than ever in the middleweight class with the somewhat belated arrival of Pvt. Hy Bronstein of the ferrying command from Rosecrans air field in St. Joseph, Mo.

Bronstein, who fought as a member of the Kansas City team, checked in at training headquarters in the Illinois Athletic club several days ago and has since demonstrated that he's very much in the battle for the alternate spot behind Samson Powell. His rivals are Harry Joyce of Memphis and William Johnson of Chicago.

BRUINS HOPE TO CLINCH SERIES B HONORS TONIGHT

MONTREAL, Que., March 26 (AP).—The Boston Bruins, a patched-up combination of seasoned veterans and untried rookies which had to shake off a late season slump to finish a poor second in the National Hockey league standing, today stood a chance of being the 1943 Stanley Cup victor.

The Bruins made it three in a row over the fourth place Montreal Canadiens here last night with a 3 to 2 overtime conquest, and will face the local representatives here again tomorrow in a game which can end the best four out of seven series in division B of the playoffs.

WINGS BATTLE LEAFS.

TORONTO, Ont., March 26 (AP).—The Detroit Red Wings, winner of the National Hockey league title, and the Toronto Maple Leafs, defending Stanley Cup champions, will meet in the fourth game of series A here tomorrow night with the knowledge it will take at least Sunday night's contest in Detroit to determine the playoff winner.

Track Stars Vie Tonight in Purdue Relays

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Track stars of the Western conference and the Central Collegiate conference, supported by outstanding athletes from the colleges of six midwestern states, will compete tonight in the Purdue university relays in West Lafayette, Ind. The program consists of seven relays, six individual championships, a wall scaling event for height, and a 60 yard sprint for major league baseball players.

Preliminaries in four events—the shot put, 60 yard dash, and the low and high hurdles—will be held this afternoon starting at 3 o'clock. The university two mile relay, opening championship event, is scheduled for 7:30 following the ceremonies, a victory parade and introduction of the relays' queen, Sue Meyer of West Lafayette, Ind., and her court.

Hlad on List.

The late entry of a medley relay team from De Kalb Teachers' college completes tonight's field of 24 colleges and universities. Two hundred thirty-eight athletes are registered, including several service men, among whom is Charley Hlad of the University of Chicago, co-holder of the world's 60 yard high hurdle record.

Individual championships are the shot put, high jump, pole vault, 60 yard dash, 60 yard high hurdles, and 60 yard low hurdles. College relay teams will compete in the two mile relay, medley relay, and mile relay. University teams have the same program with the addition of a four mile relay.

Mile Relay Is Feature.

The final event is the university mile relay in which seven schools are entered. In the list are Indiana, Western conference champion; Notre Dame, champion in the Central Collegiate indoor mile relay in the recent meet in East Lansing, Mich., and an unusually strong Michigan team, which was upset by the Hoosiers in the University of Chicago fieldhouse three weeks ago.

Chuck Pinney, Michigan's Big 10 champion in the low hurdles—this event was contested at 70 yards, however—is the favorite tonight over the 60 yard course. Pinney also is entered in the high hurdles against Hlad. Others in these races are Bill Dillon of Notre Dame, Central Collegiate low hurdle victor, and James Fleweger of Lawrence college.

Notre Dame's two mile relay quartet, winner in the Illinois Tech games and beaten last week by Illinois in the Chicago Stadium, will have another opportunity against the Illini tonight.

Herbert Behrens of 4005 Wellington avenue, a fireman, landed a 13 pound 4 ounce lake trout yesterday while fishing for perch off the Montrose avenue pier. The trout struck the minnow Behrens was using for bait on a small herring hook, and nearly snapped the fireman's bamboo pole. A gaff-like anchor used to secure a trotline was required to land the fish. The trout, 34 inches in length, was the largest ever caught from the pier, Ed Mayer, operator of a bait store at 902 Montrose avenue, said.

Oak Park and City League Meets Today

Two important high school track meets will be held today. The finals in the City league meet will be held in the University of Chicago fieldhouse, 56th street and University avenue, this afternoon at 2 o'clock and the 13th annual Oak Park relays will be held in the Oak Park fieldhouse this afternoon and evening.

While Schurz is attempting to clinch the City league senior division championship and Hyde Park, Lane, Austin and Tilden Tech are battling for the junior title, Oak Park will be marching forward to its ninth victory in the 13 years it has sponsored the meet.

Thirty high schools have filed more than 500 entries for the Oak Park relays, including several members of the City league. The preliminaries will begin at 2 o'clock and the final events will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

The high jump and pole vault are expected to be the feature events of the 45th annual Central A. A. U. track meet in the University of Chicago fieldhouse tonight. The performers who furnish this added luster to the two field events are Dwight Eddleman and Milt Padway, who will be competing under the colors of Fort Sheridan.

Eddleman won the high jump at both the Illinois Tech and Chicago relays in his only two varsity appearances as a freshman at Illinois the last two week-ends, while Padway established the Big Ten pole vault record in 1939 while competing for the University of Wisconsin.

ARMY INDICATES JOE LOUIS WON'T MEET ARGENTINE

Hollywood, Cal., March 26 (AP).—There will be no fight between the Argentine champion, Albert Lovell, and Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, an army officer indicated today.

Maj. Gen. Irving J. Phillipson, director of army emergency relief and currently Joe's commanding officer, said today, in reply to Luis Angel Firpo's statement in Buenos Aires last night that Lovell and Louis would fight May 5: "It is my belief that such an event would be impossible, as I understand it would be contrary to war department policy."

Bill Dickey Reports to Yankee Camp

Asbury Park, N. J., March 26 (AP).—Bill Dickey, veteran New York Yankees' catcher, reported today and immediately went to work with the squad. Weighing 185 pounds, Dickey indicated he will not miss the two weeks of conditioning he lost while arguing with President Ed Barrow about a salary cut.

Dickey said he had flown his own plane for a total of 210 hours in the air and, but for restrictions on civilian flying, he would have flown here from Little Rock, Ark.

CUB PILOT TIRES OF HIS HOLDOUT SONG AND DANCE

Wilson Too Practical for Gallagher Gag.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., March 26.—James Wilson, manager of the Cubs, a veteran baseballer of many campaigns and personally a spasmodic practitioner of the spring holdout technique in his playing days, today was hoping that General Manager James T. Gallagher arrives here tomorrow as per a grapevine promise.

Wilson is an old fashioned boy, not much given to coining new words for old situations. To him Lou Novikoff, Bill Nicholson, Clyde McCullough, and Eddie Stanky, [the last basking in his reputation as the American Association's leading hitter and "most valuable" player last season] are just plain balky holdouts.

Wilson Can't Stand It.

But the skipper is wearing a gag as big as a bed sheet, imposed by General Manager Gallagher. Daily, Wilson tells inquirers here that the essential absentees were last seen on depot platforms in Los Angeles, Cal., Chestertown, Md., Nashville, Tenn., and Mobile, Ala., trying to board trains bound for French Lick, Ind. The fabrication, coupled with the fact he is currently possessed of an inadequate outfield, is getting Mr. Wilson down.

Gallagher, as you may have read, decreed some days ago that the word "holdout" as applied to Cub balkers, should be stricken from the language. Gallagher is a rugged individualist and it was perhaps unfortunate that chroniclers on the ground here were unable to gulp down his statements, relayed thru Wilson, that the absentees were late merely because their alarm clocks had failed to go off.

It's a Real Outfield Problem.

Many share Gallagher's theory that this is no time to air the bickerings of financially unhappy ball players, and the matter of the four holdouts might have been glossed over had replacements been available to make observers forget about Novikoff, et al. But the sad fact remains that the Cubs, after almost a week in camp, have two experienced outfielders on the ground—Dom Dallessandro, who hit .261 last season, and Charley Gilbert, who hit .184; two catchers, Chico Hernandez and Al Todd, and the recently acquired Stu Martin, in lieu of Stanky.

Manager Wilson said today he actually welcomed the weather change from yesterday's ideal training conditions. He gave the boys a little heel and toe work this morning and this afternoon dipped them in the sulphur baths.

Bob [Dutch] McCall, promising young pitcher the Cubs brought up from Nashville, was sent home this afternoon to rest until he has completely recovered from a recent abdominal operation. McCall slipped yesterday while chasing a fly ball and has complained of pain and soreness.

TWO SONS LEFT EQUAL SHARES IN MORGAN ESTATE

Daughters Get $25,000; Servants Benefit.

Mineola, N. Y., March 26 (AP). — Comm. Junius Spencer Morgan, now on overseas navy duty, and Lt. Comm. Henry Sturgis Morgan, sons of John Pierpont Morgan, will share equally in his residuary estate under terms of the will filed for probate here today. No estimate of the estate's size was given.

The financier, who died March 13 at Boca Grande, Fla., made provisions for his children, nephews, and nieces, and provided generously for a long list of servants and employés in this country and England.

Only one charitable bequest was made—to St. John's Episcopal church of Lattingtown, Locust Valley, N. Y., where the 75 year old banker was senior warden and where he often passed the collection plate.

Leaves $150,000 to Church.

The church was left $150,000, with the income to be paid as accrued. The principal may be paid from time to time, but payments may not exceed $10,000 for a calendar year.

Morgan explained the lack of other charitable bequests in his will by saying that thruout his life he had made benevolent donations to the extent of his ability.

The will directed that $25,000 be paid each of his children, the two sons and his two daughters, Jane Norton Nichols and Frances Tracy Pennoyer. No further provision was made for the daughters, the will stating that he had during his lifetime made provision for them.

$25,000 Each to In-laws.

The sum of $25,000 also was left to his two sons-in-law, George Nichols, New York City, and Paul Geddes Pennoyer, Locust Valley, and to the wives of his sons, Louise Converse Morgan, wife of Junius Morgan, and Catherine Adams Morgan, wife of Henry Morgan.

The sons and the firm of J. P. Morgan, Inc., were named executors.

The will, a 6,000 word document, admitted to probate by Surrogate Leone D. Howell of Nassau county, was dated Dec. 28, 1942, and filed by the law firm of Davis, Pope, Wardwell, Sunderland, and Kiendl of New York.

The Wall Hall estate in Hertford county, England, was left to Henry Morgan.

The Glen Cove, N. Y., estate was left jointly to the sons, but the will suggested that Junius Morgan buy out his brother's half, if he chooses, 18 months after his father's death. It urged that dual ownership of Morgan properties be avoided. The New York home and Camp Uncas, Hamilton county, New York, were left in the residuary estate, and Morgan urged that one son or the other take over complete ownership.

Disposal of objects of art not specifically named was left to the executors' judgment.

Employés Remembered.

Specific bequests "in grateful appreciation of faithful service and unfailing kindness thru many years," included:

To Belle Da Costa Green, director, Pierpont Morgan library, $50,000; John Axten, Port Washington, L. I., Morgan's secretary, $50,000; Albert C. Lange, Riveredge, N. J., assistant secretary, $5,000; John Fleming, Wall Hall, England, agent, £5,000 sterling [about $20,000]; Edward Franklin, his chauffeur in England, £1,000 sterling [$4,040]; Charles Robertson, his Manhasset, L. I., chauffeur, $20,000; James Kelly, Glen Cove superintendent, $30,000; Thomas Callahan, Camp Uncas employé, $5,000.

F. A. Steward, Wall Hall gardener, £1,250 sterling [$5,050]; Cecil Stanley Physick, butler, $25,000; Bernard Stewart, valet, $20,000; James Duthie, employé, $5,000; Edwin Bingley, Wall Hall butler, £2,000 sterling [$8,080]; William Podmore, Wall Hall, £1,000 sterling [$4,040].

Physick, Morgan's butler, once saved his life by felling with a piece of coal a man who was about to shoot at Morgan.

To 27 other servants salary payments were continued on a basis of so many months per years of service.

To each child of his two married sisters, Louisa Pierpont Satterlee and Julia Pierpont Hamilton, was left $500, and the same amount was left to Eleanor King Ames, Washington, D. C.; George Temple Bowdoin, New York; Oliver La Farge, Santa Fe, N. M., and Hugh Vivian Smith, London.

Other highlights of the will were: Bequest to the governors and directors of the Bank of England, in appreciation of hospitality, of a large silver tankard once owned by royalty.

To his grandson, John Pierpont Morgan, the fellowship in perpetuity in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City, given Morgan by his father.

Leaves Books to Library.

To the Pierpont Morgan library, New York, as a memorial of his father, certain of the rare books, furniture and objects of art lent by Morgan during his lifetime.

There was an indication in the will that the residuary estate, exclusive of the interests in the Morgan firm, was about 3 million dollars. In one of the sections, Morgan stipulated a bequest of an amount "equal to one half the value of my said residuary estate, or the amount of 1½ million dollars" to heirs of his sons, should either of them have predeceased him.

Friend of the Yanks

G. C. R. writes: "I am under the impression that your column recently carried a story of the need for ex-officers with at least a knowledge of trigonometry for service with the coast artillery. If this is correct, please tell me where to apply.

ANSWER: The coast artillery corps requires the appointment of a large number of candidates each month to the anti-aircraft schools [four weeks in length] and to harbor defense schools [10 weeks in length]. Candidates will be recommissioned to army refresher schools, then to the special schools, and then assigned to field duty. The requisites are: [1] A former commission as an officer in the army of the United States, United States army officers reserve corps, National Guard, navy, coast guard or marine corps; [2] a working knowledge of trigonometry is essential on the opening day of school, so unless the candidate has been using trigonometry in his daily work, it will be to his advantage to review the subject as intensively as possible before appointment. Maximum age is 55, but unless the candidates over 48 are especially well qualified and have had considerable military experience it would be best if they wrote to the office before making a trip in. Apply, Chicago office, Officer Procurement District Office, 20 North Wacker drive, or the nearest district office.

D. L. writes: "I am to enter the selective service rehabilitation clinic for an operation so I'll be fixed up for military service. I have 90 days after the operation in which to rest up and take care of myself. I will not be sworn into the army until after the 90 days are up. Can I draw unemployment compensation during this period?"

ANSWER: You could draw compensation during the period if you are able to work and report for employment to the United States employment service office and if they can't find a job for you. Incidentally, we mention again that men discharged from service on a disability discharge or with an honorable discharge also are eligible for compensation if the United States employment office is not able to find a job for them.

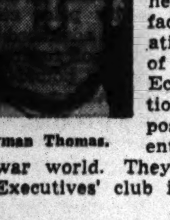
A. C. C. writes: "I enlisted and fibbed about my age. I applied for and was accepted for $10,000 insurance. If anything happens to me, will they pay the insurance money and other benefits to my Ma and Pa?"

ANSWER: If you are retained in service despite your age, or if your real age is known and you are not discharged before anything happens to you, the insurance benefits, gratuity pay, etc., would be paid to your parents or beneficiaries.

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

SOCIALIST JOINS CAPITALIST TO JOLT NEW DEAL

Thomas, Haake Debate Post-War Enterprise.



Norman Thomas.

The New Deal came under the fire of two opposite political ideologies yesterday as Norman Thomas, four times the Socialist candidate for president, and Dr. Alfred P. Haake, head of a manufacturer's association and founder of the American Economic foundation, debated the possibility of free enterprise in the post-war world. They spoke before the Executives' club in Hotel Sherman.

During the debate, Thomas admitted that the New Deal had borrowed many characteristics from the Socialist party platforms, but he criticized the administration for attempting to remake the nation thru "incompetent burocracy." The present administration, he said, has never had an orderly scheme of social planning, and what reforms have been achieved were accidental.

Political Aims Charged.

"I firmly agree with that statement," Dr. Haake quickly retorted, "but I would like to carry it a little farther. What the New Deal has accomplished is prompted by a desire to bigger and better votes, no matter where they come from. Also the burocrats want to stay in their little niches of authority."

He said he thought the socialistic government advocated by Thomas could result only in more bureaus, perhaps more arbitrary than the present ones. Free enterprise, he said, can be restored after the war only if business is allowed to function without innumerable restraints by the government.

"If this is true," Thomas asked him, "what bureaus would you keep and which would you throw out? Certainly you agree that some control is necessary."

Viewpoint of Manufacturers.

Dr. Haake agreed with this and said that he would limit control of business to the natural monopolies, such as electricity. But, in general, he said, when in doubt throw the government out.

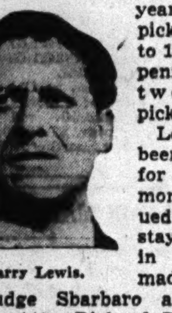
In an exchange of quips that kept the crowd of several hundred executives in almost continuous laughter, Thomas declared that the failures of the capitalistic system had created the first World war and was subsequently destroyed by that war, while Haake defended capitalism by saying that it was the only system of government that had been able to survive two wars and the mistakes of a post-war world and still live.

Debate Failure of Capitalism.

As a proof of the failure of capitalism, Thomas cited the unemployment during the prosperous years preceding 1929, but Haake answered that some unemployment was inevitable under any system except that of regimented labor.

Free enterprise, Dr. Haake said, is based upon individual freedom of worship, initiative, and personal gain. If this is lost, he declared, we will have lost one of the most important things we are fighting for. The present distinterest in the preservation of free enterprise he blamed on the failure of the government to let the public know what contributions that system is making to the war, and what contributions it has made in the past toward our high standard of living.

PICKPOCKET GETS 1 TO 10 YEARS AS BARGAINING FAILS



Harry Lewis.

Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court yesterday sentenced Harry Lewis, 46 years old, veteran pickpocket, to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary on two charges of pickpocketing.

Lewis who had been a fugitive for almost nine months, continued his effort to stay out of prison in court. Lewis made wry faces as Judge Sbarbaro and Assistant State's Atty. Richard Devine turned down his series of bargain efforts.

First Lewis wanted a delay in trial. Then, thru his attorney, he informed the court and the prosecutor he would be willing to plead guilty if the court would forget about the penitentiary and send him to the Bridewell for a year. Both his proposals were ignored.

INJURIES IN FALL FATAL.

Frank Van Slyke, 82 years old, 2218 Polk street, a retired barber, died yesterday in Alexian Brothers hospital from injuries received when he fell in his home Feb. 17.

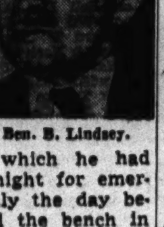
BEN B. LINDSEY, FAMED JURIST, DIES ON COAST

Founded Boys' Court; Career Stormy.



Ben. B. Lindsey.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26 [Special].—Death today ended the sensation studded career of Superior Judge Ben B. Lindsey, long a prominent California and Colorado jurist and known internationally for his advocacy of companionate marriage.

The judge, who was 73 years old, died at Good Samaritan hospital, which he had entered Wednesday night for emergency treatment. Only the day before he had occupied the bench in the Children's Court of Conciliation, which he founded some years ago. He is survived by his widow, Henrietta.

Judge Lindsey was noted as a writer and lecturer, as well as a militant jurist. During his world travels he had been honored by several rulers.

Sought Political Reforms.

He first became widely known as a juvenile court judge in Denver, Colo., and was credited with originating children's court procedure which was widely copied. However, his long service on the Colorado bench was terminated in 1927 by a state Supreme court ruling that he had been illegally elected in 1924.

A lifelong campaigner for political reforms, he had become embroiled in one of his numerous battles about that time. The Denver Bar association accused him of attempting to disorganize the Juvenile court he had fathered. Lindsey fought back, charging "political grudges," but formal complaints resulted in his disbarment.

Involved in Controversies.

The deposed "boys' judge" moved to California in 1928 and the same year was admitted to the bar here. In 1934 he was elected Superior court judge by the largest vote ever cast in a similar election in California.

For several decades the jurist's decisions and comments made newspaper copy.

Probably the greatest storm of his career was brewed about 15 years ago over his proposal of companionate marriage which would "put off the birth of babies till the ground work of a home had been laid."

Contending that the existing marriage system and moral standards were not standing the test, he suggested that society provide a special form of legal marriage that could be dissolved merely by a request for a divorce, as long as there were no children involved.

JURY DISAGREES AFTER TRIAL OF EX-POLICEMAN

A Criminal court jury was discharged last night by Judge Harold G. Ward when it announced that it was unable to reach a verdict in the trial of Bruno Lakomski, 38 years old, former county highway policeman charged with conspiracy in an alleged shakedown of three robbers last September. The jury deliberated four hours.

Attorneys in the case are expected to appear before Judge Ward today to set a new trial date. A similar case is pending against James Loye, also a former highway policeman, who was indicted with Lakomski. Loye waived a jury trial.

The two are accused of taking $154 from three robbers who earlier had robbed Ernest Burdick, 1013 Halsted street, Chicago Heights, of $125. They gave Burdick $54 back, it is charged. The three alleged robbers, also awaiting trial, are Victor Maleck, 29; Orville Arbuthnot, 38, an ex-convict, and Tony Laurie, 37.

MUELLER—Kurdy Mueller, March 27, 1942.
I have not come into our home alone
For you are here in your familiar place.
In fancy now, among the things you own,
I see again your dear beloved face;
I cross the floor and stand beside your chair,
I touch the open book where you have read,
I feel your presence in the silent air,
Though there are some who say that you are dead.

These sacred moments here with you are mine,
So precious now because they are so few;
Your empty chair will always be a shrine
Where I shall stop each day to visit you, Though other change may come along the way
No power on earth can take the yesterday.
MILDRED.

CHURCH RELIANCE ON ROLLINS TOLD AT SEC INQUIRY

Broker Accused of Taking Excessive Profits.

Letters introduced to back the securities and exchange commission contention that church authorities relied heavily on their broker's judgment in selection of securities for investment were read into the record yesterday in the SEC hearing on activities of E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc.

One letter from Mrs. Ina Davis Fulton, treasurer of the woman's work fund of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, left the selection to Walter C. Rawls, manager of the Rollins St. Louis office.

The brokers are charged with violation of several SEC regulations in church accounts transactions. The hearing is on the question of suspension or revocation of broker registrations, or the right to do business on national securities exchanges.

Mrs. Fulton, an elderly, matronly woman, previously had testified she exercised her own judgment in all transactions, and from time to time had turned down selections of securities offered by Rawls that she did not consider suitable.

"I Trust to Your Judgment."

"I trust to your judgment as to which one to send," Mrs. Fulton wrote Rawls after a discussion of the safety of various bond issues. "Send which ever you consider safest."

Under direct examination by Abe L. Hoffman, commission attorney, Mrs. Fulton asserted there was no agreement between her and Rawls authorizing the brokerage house to engage in "pairoff' transactions. [In some such transactions, a loss on the sale of one security is not shown on the books, but carried along and added to the purchase price of the next security bought for the account.]

Neither was there any agreement to purchase securities for the fund at prices higher than the current market, she said, nor was there any understanding that the church would absorb losses incurred by the firm on transactions for which confirmations later were refused.

"Were you advised as to the profits by E. H. Rollins or W. C. Rawls on transactions for the church account," asked Hoffman.

"It did not occur to me to ask," Mrs. Fulton replied.

Charges Rebates Were Made.

The SEC charges the profits were excessive, and also that Broker Rawls made rebates at times between 1939 and 1942 to his brother, Junius Fenton Rawls of Nashville, former treasurer of one of the four accounts involved in the inquiry.

Mrs. Fulton, who has lived in New York City since consolidation of the Methodist Church, South, with the national church organization, testified she had not authorized purchases of stock which the SEC found in the Rollins records.

Answering Hoffman's questions as to Rollins reports on the status of the church account, Mrs. Fulton said: "I did not ask for itemized statements. I asked Mr. W. G. Rawls, 'Is my account in good condition—does it show a profit?' We received statements frequently but not monthly."

On questions designed to show Broker Rawls' influence on purchases, Mrs. Fulton explained:

"I bought at prices that I considered right. There were prices other than market prices, and I knew that. I bought at prices submitted, and either accepted or rejected them."

Profits Under Scrutiny.

Lack of funds, or the expenditure of funds for other purposes, were the usual reasons for refusing confirmations on some transactions arranged by Broker Rawls for the church, she said.

Another witness, Mrs. M. H. Pardue of Nashville, testified that the profits of two of the four church accounts for the four years under inquiry totaled $16,157. The SEC contends that there was a net profit of only $7.90 on the four accounts during the entire period, the brokers meanwhile realizing a profit of $419,000.

John T. Cahill, attorney for the brokerage firm, extended his objections to include the question of constitutionality of the proceedings as pertaining to municipal securities brought into the inquiry.

The hearing, before SEC Trial Examiner Henry Fitts in the Bankers' building, was continued until next Wednesday morning.

GRAINS MOSTLY HIGHER ON LATE PRICE RECOVERY

Gain After Congress Sends Price Bill to President.

Grain prices rallied strongly in late trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade following announcement that the senate had adopted the house amendment to the Bankhead bill. The measure provides that benefit payments to farmers cannot be considered in computing parity prices on agricultural products. Closing prices were about at the top. Wheat gained ¼ to ½ cent a bushel and oats were up ¼ cent. Rye was ¼cent lower to ¼ cent higher.

Liquidation developed in wheat and rye early on selling induced when the senate sent the Pace bill back to the agricultural committee. Wheat broke around 1 cent and rye 1 to 1⅜ cents before the slump was checked by commission house support. Short covering developed later. Offerings were light on the way up.

Predict Higher Corn Prices.

Brokers, altho expecting a Presidential veto of the Bankhead measure, said the bill appeared to contain little of an inflationary character, altho it was likely to result in higher prices for corn and an advance of about 60 cents a barrel in the ceiling on flour.

After the markets closed it was announced that the President had signed a bill giving the Commodity Credit corporation authority to sell an additional 100 million bushels of wheat for feed. The grain will be offered, effective at once, at prices equivalent to $1.03 a bushel here and at Kansas City and St. Louis. This is 1 cent more than the ceiling price on corn here, and 4 cents above the Kansas City price, but the relatively low price quoted for wheat in New England at $1.09 is expected to facilitate sales, as it is much lower than corn.

No Corn Is Offered.

Cash corn handlers said that since the credit agency announced it would sell cash corn to industries at $1.10 a bushel there had been no corn offered for deferred shipments from the country, the premium of 8 cents above the maximum that can be paid here to farmers causing them to cease efforts to sell.

Chicago elevator men disclosed yesterday that Canadian oats were offered here at about 3 cents a bushel above May for shipment at the opening of lake navigation.

OUTPUT OF CREAMERY BUTTER IN FEBRUARY INCREASES 3 PER CENT

Creamery butter production during February was estimated at 121,995,000 pounds, an increase of 3 per cent compared with February, 1942, and a gain of 5 per cent above the 10 year [1932-'41] average for February, the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday. It said that total milk production last month was 1 per cent above a year ago because of a larger total of dairy cows.

February American cheese output was estimated at 46,945,000 pounds, a decline of 25 per cent from a year ago, but 69 per cent higher than the 10 year average. A smaller proportion of milk production was used in American cheese than last year when milk was diverted from creameries to cheese, the department said.

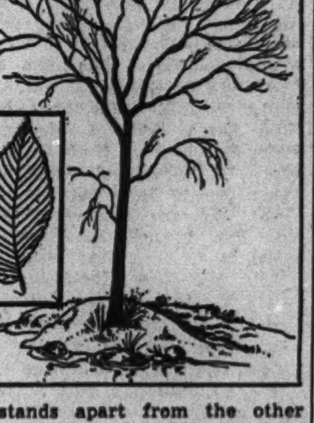
Day by Day on the Farm

By GAIL COMPTON

Queen of Trees.

THE royal title of Queen of the Shade Trees at the Tribune farm goes without a dissenting vote to the elm. In long avenues, and in solitary graciousness, the elms offer a constant shelter from the glare of the summer sun. Their magnificent leafy crowns spread umbrellalike over the lawns and yards at the farm, attracting both humans and animals.

Because of its spreading, fan shaped form, it can easily be recognized among other trees. Its graceful, pendulous branches are so distinctive that once noted they are never forgotten. Even in winter, the elm stands apart from the other trees. It has a winter shape all its own that cannot be mistaken. Altho the farm has many specimens of the American, Moline, and swamp elm, there never seems to be enough of them. Often the workers can be heard wishing that there was an elm in the corner of the field, or right by the corner of the shed, where its shade would make tasks more pleasant.



The elm is a famous shade tree of New England, but its range extends to the Rocky mountains and southward to Texas. Its beauty is not its only point, for from the elm comes excellent wood used for hubs of wheels, saddle trees, boats and ships, barrel hoops, and veneer for baskets and crates. The wood is tough and heavy and difficult to split. As a result it will stand long, hard wear, and for this reason endears itself to the farmer.

Distinctive Features.

The drawing of the elm in its winter shape clearly shows distinctive features that make it easy to recognize. The crown of branches arches over the trunk in a sweeping curve. In full foliage and with a noonday sun, the elm will cast a circular shadow about its trunk that will draw the men and beasts from the fields. The trunk is strong and straight, and the trees tower 60 to 70 feet into the air.

The bark is dark gray and divided into irregular, flat topped, thick ridges. The bark usually is very firm, altho in the older trees it has a tendency to come off in flakes. A cut into the inner bark will reveal alternate layers of brown and white.

Leaf Double Notched.

The leaves are simple and alternate, about four to six inches long, and rather thick. They are smooth above and covered with a fine down on the under side. They are doubly toothed on the margin, and the leaf veins are pronounced, running in parallel lines from the middle to the leaf edge.

Strangely enough, few birds like to nest in the elm. When the winter winds sweep the last of the foliage away the branches are barren and seldom can one find a nest perched among them. The evergreens, oaks, and hickories, however, are liberally sprinkled with the patchwork homes. The loosely spaced, high branches of the elm do not offer as good a shelter for nests as do other trees.

Despite this neglect by the birds, the elm still is, and always will remain, the favorite of the farm.

STOCKS SMASH FORWARD AGAIN ON BUYING WAVE

Prices and Trading Reach New Highs.

New York, March 26 (AP).—Stocks generally surged to new highs for nearly three years in today's market, with dealings the broadest and liveliest since late 1941.

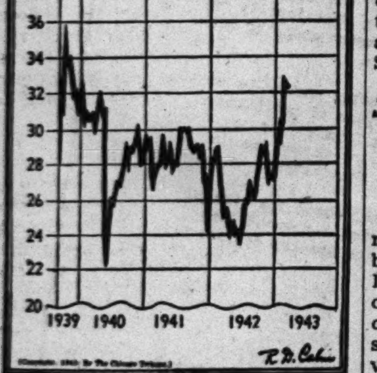
Gains and activity were largest in the forenoon. Profit taking later cut initial advances 1 to 3 points altho improvement was fairly well maintained at the close. A few issues gained as much as 5 or more points. On the other hand, a number of minor declines were recorded.

The preceding four day rally, brokers said, called for some "adjustment" of accounts, altho this was handled without particular unsettlement. As in the last week, bullishness persisted over the war outlook, investment demand, inflation prospects, and congressional attitudes.

Trade Tops 2 Million Shares.

The Associated Press 60 stock average closed with a net gain of 0.4 at 47.7, a peak since May 11, 1940, for its fifth successive advance. Low priced issues came out in blocks of 1,000 to 15,000 shares in the morning and helped raise the day's total to 2,142,880 shares, compared with 2,121,410 yesterday, for the largest trade since Dec. 30, 1941.

Breadth of the market was exemplified by the fact 999 individual issues were traded, the largest number since Dec. 29, 1941. Of these, 537 were up, 232 declined, and 230 were unchanged.



The graph shows the swings in railroad stock prices since 1939.

Farm implements stocks climbed when the President gave assurances of bigger production of agricultural machinery. Oils came to life on relatively pleasing earnings statements. Rails had the benefit of a substantial rise in January-February net income from last year.

J. I. Case Gains 5⅛.

J. I. Case held a gain of 5⅛ points. Up 1 to 3 were Oliver Farm, International Harvester, Deere, Sears Roebuck, Goodrich, United States Rubber, Southern Railway, United States Gypsum, J. C. Penney, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, and Dow Chemical. Also in front were Standard Oil [N. J.], Santa Fe, New York Central, Bethlehem, Kennecott, and Texas company.

Declines were shown by Loew's, Paramount, American Telephone, Western Union Anaconda, and Douglast Aircraft.

BONDS RISE AGAIN

New York, March 26 (AP).—Railroad bonds ran into several profit taking squalls today, but in most cases successfully absorbed offerings and emerged with many new gains of fractions to more than a point.

The general corporate list was steady. United States government loans again gave up small sums, and foreign dollar bonds were in selective demand. Trading was active again, sales totaling $26,085,500 against $26,549,000 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 20 rails went to a new high since 1937 at 73.7, up 0.6. The average of 10 foreign issues was at a new peak for the year at 59.4.

CHICAGO GAIN BROAD

Chicago Stock exchange prices continued to push ahead yesterday on volume which increased to 88,000 shares. Of 146 issues traded, 95 advanced, 29 declined, and 22 were unchanged.

Chicago corporation again led in volume with 36,300 shares, closing up ¼ at 4⅛ after touching a new 1943 high of 4¼. There were 53 new highs in all. Other more heavily traded stocks included Miller & Hart common, up ⅛; Middle West corporation, up ¼ at 7¼ after a new high of 7⅜; R. C. A., up ¼ to a new high of 8¼, and Aviation corporation, unchanged.

In the final half hour Houdaille-Hershey advanced ⅛ and Stewart-Warner declined ⅛ from the New York close.

Illinois Zinc Board Votes 40 Cent Dividend Payment

Directors of the Illinois Zinc company, Chicago, yesterday declared a dividend of 40 cents a share on the common stock, an increase of 15 cents above the amount paid in February.

26 Oil Wells Completed in Illinois During Week

Centralia, Ill., March 26 (AP).—The Midwest Oil Journal reported today that 26 new oil wells initially producing a total of 3,388 barrels daily were completed in Illinois during the last week.

Margin Trade Halted in Low Priced Issues

New York, March 26 (AP).—The New York Stock exchange announced today that purchases of securities selling below $5 a share may be made for cash only, effective April 1.

The new regulation, prohibiting margin trading in the so-called "penny" stocks was interpreted by brokers as a step to check speculation in low priced issues which have been traded in large volume in recent active markets.

"Customers who purchased such securities prior to April 1," said the exchange announcement, "will have until June 1 to make full cash payment."

This is the first time the stock exchange has taken such action since a similar regulation was put in effect in August and September of 1933 during a wave of speculation in alcohol stocks in the last months of prohibition.

40 Per Cent Required Now.

The new rule applies to bonds as well as stocks, affecting bonds selling under $5 per $100 face value. Because most bonds are traded in units of $1,000 face value, this means that cash must be paid for such bonds selling under $50.

Present margin requirements, under federal reserve system regulations, provide that the customer must pay 40 per cent of the purchase price. On that basis, he would have to put $1.60 a share to purchase a $4 stock. After April 1 he must pay the full $4.

The exchange announcement said that many member firms already apply higher margin requirements to securities selling below 5 than present regulations require, and that the new action will result in a uniform margin policy.

CHICAGO RULE STANDS.

The Chicago Stock exchange will not follow the ruling of the New York Stock exchange requiring purchases of securities selling below 5 to be made only on a cash basis after April 1, President Kenneth L. Smith said yesterday.

SUES TO RECOVER 2,000 SHARES OF OIL FIRM STOCK

John H. Chatz, trustee in bankruptcy for the defunct La Salle street brokerage firm of Hoagland & Allum, yesterday filed suit in federal court against the Midco Oil company of Tulsa, Okla., to recover 2,000 shares of Midco stock which he values at $100,000, plus any dividends declared since 1937, and interest at 5 per cent per annum.

Chatz asserted that in August, 1937, Hoagland & & Allum negotiated with Roy Mead of Tulsa, who sought to acquire a majority of the oil company stock. Mead agreed to pay the brokerage firm $43 a share, but withdrew the offer after the firm had induced stockholders to turn over to it the 2,000 shares.

On Sept. 3, 1937, thru authorization of the board of directors of Midco, the stock held by Hoagland & Allum was purchased for $67,000. Chatz alleges the oil company knew of the deal with Mead and should have investigated before purchasing the stock at a lower price. The stock, the petition says, was acquired fraudulently and illegally, and the defendant has no right or title to it. The case was assigned to Judge Michael L. Igoe.

PAY INCREASES HELD THREAT TO PRICE CEILINGS

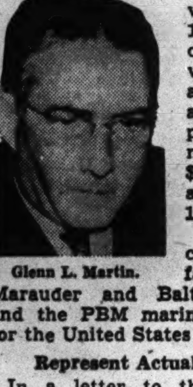
Price ceilings will be more difficult to maintain if wage increases are granted to the various groups seeking salary boosts, Dr. E. M. Patterson, professor of economics of the University of Pennsylvania, yesterday told the emergency panel considering the wage increase demands of nonoperating railway employés.

Dr. Patterson said at the hearing in the United States court house that the present economic situation is critical because of the inflationary increase of the national income and the dwindling supply of goods available for civilian purchase.

MARTIN PLANE FIRM EARNINGS FOR 1942 GAIN

Sales Volume Rises 500 Per Cent.

The Glenn L. Martin Aircraft company announced yesterday consolidated net income was $6,658,810 for 1942 after all charges and taxes were paid. This amounted to $6.01 a share, the report said, against net earnings of $5,773,159, or $5.24 a share, during 1941.



Glenn L. Martin.

The Martin company manufactures the B-26 Marauder and Baltimore bombers and the PBM mariner patrol boats for the United States and Britain.

Represent Actual Deliveries.

In a letter to the stockholders, President Glenn L. Martin disclosed that sales for 1942 increased approximately 500 per cent over 1941.

Net sales of $337,556,000 reported for 1942, Martin said, represented actual deliveries of completed products except for the sum of $93,734,751 representing costs and earned fees under cost plus fixed fee contracts held by the Baltimore company and its midwest subsidiary. Sales for 1941 were $67,237,699.

"At Dec. 31, 1942," Martin said, "well over 50 per cent of the backlog of undelivered orders represented fixed price contracts, and it is anticipated that this percentage will tend to increase rather than decrease under the new governmental policy of favoring fixed price contracts."

Ingersoll-Rand Profit Drops.

Net income of the Ingersoll-Rand company, New York machinery manufacturer, in 1942 was $5,955,193, or $5.90 a common share, against $8,125,202, or $8.18 a share, in the preceding year.

Last year's profit was after provision for federal income taxes of $2,998,781 and for excess profits taxes of $15,221,953. The company also provided $10,714,446 for payment to the government resulting from renegotiation of contracts. In 1941 federal income taxes amounted to $4,099,568 and excess profits taxes were $9,514,500.

Despite a large increase in sales, net earnings of Utah Radio Products company, Chicago, declined to $138,057 in 1942 from $216,386 the preceding year. Earnings per common share, after preferred dividend requirements, were 47 cents and 73 cents, respectively.

Rails Report Rising Profits for February

Large increases in net incomes or net operating incomes for February and the first two months of this year were reported yesterday by several railroads. The gains reflected the growing load of war traffic.

The New York Central system had a February net income of $6,027,640, compared with $1,024,472 in the 1942 month. For the two months, the road's profit soared to $10,710,937 from $1,434,376 last year.

The Burlington's February net income was more than double a year earlier at $3,381,901, against $1,582,440. The two month profit rose to $5,914,426 from $2,917,340.

Milwaukee Gains Are Large.

February net income of the Milwaukee was $2,371,411, compared with $353,404, and for the two months it was $4,109,172, against $1,494,574.

The Baltimore and Ohio's February profit was $2,883,623, compared with $491,865 a year earlier. Two month net income climbed to $5,521,457 from $968,408.

Railroads reporting net railway operating income included the Pennsylvania and the North Western. For February, the Pennsylvania reported $4,795,807, against $2,024,441, and for the first two months, $12,021,134 compared with $5,711,955. Net operating income of the North Western was $2,110,119 in February, against $911,903 in the 1942 month, and $3,823,199 in the first two months, compared with $1,384,411.

MACHINISTS CALL REFERENDUM ON BREAK WITH AFL

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—The International Association of Machinists, third largest AFL union, is threatening to withdraw because of a long standing jurisdictional row with William L. Hutcheson's Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, over which union is entitled to do certain work, such as the erection and installation of machinery.

Ballots have been mailed to all IAM lodges for a referendum on the issue at April meetings.

30 PLANTS IN CHICAGO AREA SOON TO RECEIVE FURNITURE CONTRACTS

The Smaller War Plants corporation announced yesterday that the midwest's share of 10 million dollars in government furniture contracts would be awarded about the end of next week to plants in Chicago, Rockford, Ill., Wisconsin, and Indiana.

The corporation said that Maj. C. W. Dunning, contract officer of the SWPC, was expected to receive authorization from Washington to place contracts among more than 30 furniture plants which have been surveyed and recommended by SWPC field offices in the Chicago WPB region.

A SWPC spokesman said assignment of these contracts would not be affected by the recent placing of Chicago and any other areas in the group 2 classification which signified an expected labor shortage.

WAY IS CLEARED TO NAME NORTH SHORE TRUSTEE

Another step in moves for reorganization of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railway was taken yesterday when Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe instructed attorneys representing creditors to draw up an order appointing a disinterested trustee for the electric road. He indicated he would sign the order Monday afternoon.

Austin Wyman, attorney for a group of securities holders, recommended in an earlier hearing that A. A. Sprague and Bernard J. Fallon be appointed trustees. He contended that reorganization is possible because of increased earnings. However, Thomas B. Hart, representing the securities and exchange commission, said that SEC regulations prohibit the appointment of "interested parties" as trustees. Sprague and Fallon are trustees for the elevated lines.

Judge Igoe asked that in the order appointing a new trustee provision be made for the naming of Fallon as operating manager of the North Shore.

MINERS REJECT 'NO TIME LIMIT' WAGE PARLEYS

New York, March 26 (AP).—The United Mine Workers today rejected a motion by the southern Appalachian soft coal mine operators to continue negotiations for a new contract without a time limit. In offering the proposal, operators said President Roosevelt's request that negotiations be continued was without a time limit. A union proposal would place a 30 day time limit on extension of negotiations.

Both proposals contained clauses making any wage agreements reached retroactive to April 1. The current contract expires March 31. The conference will be resumed tomorrow morning.

The northern Appalachian joint wage conference, which yesterday adjourned until Tuesday to permit better tabulation of wage demands and living cost figures, has agreed to the 30 day limit.

April and October Egg Futures Prices Advance

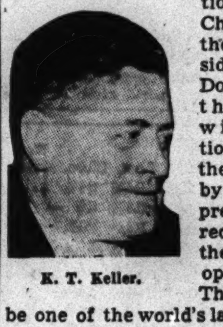
April egg futures closed 0.20 cent a dozen higher at 38.70 cents asked on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday after selling earlier at 38.75 cents. The October delivery advanced 0.10 cent to 42.05 cents asked after also trading earlier at 0.05 cent above its close. Demand for egg futures was attributed in part to lighter receipts.

START TO PLACE MACHINES IN BIG DODGE FACTORY

Plant Will Produce Plane Engines.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Directors of the Chrysler corporation yesterday made their first inspection of the Dodge Chicago plant on the south west side where the Dodge division of the corporation will build aviation engines for the army. Headed by K. T. Keller, president, the directors rode thru the vast plant in open automobiles. The project will be one of the world's largest manufacturing operations.



K. T. Keller.

They saw the big plant as it is emerging from the construction stage and entering the second phase—that of being equipped for the actual building of engines, which lies many months ahead.

More Machines to Come.

Many machines and tools are being put in place, but there are many hundreds to come. The visitors stopped in the foundry to watch some practice work on magnesium castings, one of the first of the many manufacturing projects to be undertaken. All were impressed by the speed of construction, work on the buildings having started only last July. The main manufacturing unit alone occupies some 80 acres. All 16 buildings making up the plant will be completed within a few months.

"This is the largest war undertaking which Chrysler has," Keller commented. "Our Dodge Chicago plant represents the corporation's first manufacturing enterprise in the Chicago area and we appreciate the co-operation and help which we have obtained from everybody. I cannot say when the plant will be operating, but I can tell you that every operation, the scheduling of every piece, and the flow of every bit of material has been planned with a view to its being a factor in the winning of the war as early as possible.

Vast Amounts Involved.

"Thousands of carloads of building material came into the plant during the construction period. Thousands of machines and hundreds of thousands of tools, jigs, dies, and fixtures will come in before it is operating on a mass production basis. But most important, when it is in production, many carloads of finished engines will go out of it to the fighting fronts."

Keller said the Dodge Chicago contract and one other war job of substantial magnitude, a secret weapon, are the only ones in the many Chrysler war plants which are not in production.

"Production of medium tanks and tank engines each is in four figures," Keller said. "Martin bomber fuselages and marine tractors each are in four figures; Bofors 40 mm. anti-aircraft guns and emergency fire fighting equipment each are well into five figures; army trucks are in six figures, and light ammunition at a high rate."

Material Situation Critical.

Keller said that on some of its war work Chrysler is approaching close quarters with regard to materials and at least temporary curtailment of some of its primary operations may occur unless the situation improves soon.

Among the directors who made the trip were Jules S. Bache, head of a New York investment house; Waddell Catchings, B. E. Hutchinson, George W. Davison, Nicholas Kelley, O. R. Skelton, Matthew S. Sloan, Harold E. Talbott, H. L. Weckler, and F. M. Zeder.

State and City Financing Will Increase Next Week

New York, March 26 (AP).—State and municipal financing scheduled for next week will aggregate $16,433,474, compared with $14,965,586 in the current week and $21,435,263 averaged each week in 1943.

Hogs Set New 24 Year Top March Price

Hog prices soared yesterday to a new 24 year March peak on small receipts. Buyers paid a 15 cent higher average of $15.85 a hundred pounds, which was 5 cents above the previous peak and the highest since Sept. 28, 1920. It was the top March average since 1919.

Influenced by persistent reports that the office of price administration is planning to drop its fight for a ceiling price on hogs, farmers are holding back supplies. Only 12,000 hogs arrived, including direct shipments to packers, the smallest Friday total since early October. Packers do not expect any immediate relief from the shortage because farmers soon will be busy in the fields.

Bid for "Lard Type" Hogs.

The new high average price was attained as a result of the brisk competition for extremely heavy "lard type" hogs which sold within about 5 cents of the prices paid for the best young medium and light butchers. Altho the $15.95 top, paid for selected 201 to 234 pound hogs, again was 5 cents below the previous 1943 peak, new highs were established for all heavier stock.

Prime 346 pound stock from an Illinois farm reached $15.90, highest for such weights in March since 1919. Some 500 pound hogs reached $15.75. Sows weighing 300 to 500 pounds sold from $15.30 to $15.75.

Quality Cattle Lacking.

Most other classes of meat animals also were in broad demand, but buyers managed to hold the general level in line with Thursday's highs. The bulk of lambs sold from $16.25 to $16.50, top loads at $16.50.

Quality was lacking in the cattle market and prices were mostly steady. The best steers sold at $16.40 and the bulk from $14 to $15.50. Weakness was apparent in some sales of beef cows, canners, cutters, and bulls. Heifers were steady.

INCREASE IN RENT ON APARTMENTS TO BE RESCINDED

Earl D. Howard, area rent director, yesterday notified Randolph Bohrer, owner of the Country Club Apartment hotel, 6930 South Shore drive, that the order raising rent ceilings on apartments in the structure, issued Oct. 17, will be rescinded within 10 days.

The action was based on the findings of Phyllis M. Kelley of the area rent control legal department, who conducted a hearing on the case after tenants had protested the rent increase. Bohrer has 10 days in which to appeal the finding and in the meantime rents will be continued on the present basis. A new order establishing lower ceilings will be necessary before the rents can be reduced.

Bohrer charged that political influence was used to bring about a reversal of a rent increase for some of the apartments in the building.

FOOD PRICE CEILINGS HERE FOR DURATION, ASSERTS OPA CHIEF

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown said today that as far as he is concerned government ceilings on retail prices of meat and other foods are here for the duration. Whether OPA puts similar ceilings on prices of live hogs has nothing to do, in his opinion, with retail ceilings.

Describing retail price control as a cornerstone of the administration's policy of stabilizing the cost of living, Brown added: "There is no change in the attitude of OPA regarding the necessity of ceilings on commodities at the retail level."

He said new retail pork prices will go in effect on schedule April 1 and will be followed shortly by similar dollars and cents maximums on retail beef. The statement also applied to controls on retail prices of fruits, vegetables, and other foods.

Brown's attitude as expressed in the interview is that if lessened demand under rationing acts to depress meat prices under government maximums, the regulations should be retained as a safeguard.

TAXES AND RIGID CURBS HELD BAR TO ENTERPRISE

Chicago Corp. Chief Issues Warning.

Government regulation and high taxes are strangling the risk taking enterprise and initiative that helped develop the United States, Richard Wagner, president of Chicago corporation, told stockholders yesterday at their annual meeting.

He said the big investment company, which began devoting part of its assets to direct ownership and operation of business enterprises about five years ago, has felt the effects of the narrowing opportunities for profitable investment, except in the field of natural resources development.

Unless taxes and restrictive laws are revised after the war, economic retrogression will set in, Wagner said. He addressed a friendly meeting which was in sharp contrast with the stormy session a year ago when the corporation's securities investments had not been enhanced in value by the market upswing just then beginning.

Adopt Vote of Confidence.

After Wagner had outlined last year's financial results and predicted that 1943 will show more earnings than 1942, the stockholders adopted a vote of confidence in the management and reëlected all of the directors. Later all officers were reëlected.

The corporation's principal direct operation is its oil and gas division, consisting of distillate recovery plants and oil and gas leases or gas processing contracts covering about 40,000 acres in Texas. Wagner told the stockholders the value of these holdings is substantially in excess of cost and said they should produce a satisfactory income in the future.

Net earnings from sales of distillate, butane and oil, and a minor amount of natural gas may be between $600,000 and $900,000 this year, he said, compared with $270,346 in 1942, if operations continue at the present rate.

Opportunities Are Limited.

In asserting that the corporation had found investment possibilities limited Wagner said:

"Since we announced a policy of using a part of the capital of the corporation for enterprise financing, we have witnessed the enactment of the excess profits tax and much higher normal and surtaxes. Because of this and other restrictions on business initiative, we have been unable to find opportunities in enterprise financing for profitable employment of funds outside of natural resources.

"This condition is of vital interest to every one of us as ordinary citizens, for new ideas, new products, and new methods have contributed immeasurably in the development of the economy of this country.

"Risk taking is consonant with progress. Those who pioneered the automobile business, the radio, the airplane, and even railroads and steel companies, were risk takers, and so were a thousand and one others who started new ventures. Had the present system of taxation and the restrictions on business initiative been in effect at the time those industries were launched, none of them could have grown to the present point, and most of them never would have been started.

"Risk Takers Are Job Givers."

"Risk takers are job givers, and it is to be hoped that an understanding of this will lead to a revision of our taxes and other laws upon the termination of the war—a revision which will encourage the creation of new enterprises. Otherwise progress will be dead, and drastic economic retrogression will set in."

One stockholder suggested that Chicago corporation invest more of its funds in railroad securities. He said the public and the government have become friendly to the railroads as a result of the war.

Wagner said that the net asset value of Chicago corporation's preference shares has increased 32½ per cent since securities prices started rising in April, 1942. The company's earnings in 1942, as previously reported, were $1,555,000, against $1,633,000 in 1941.

Chicago's Business Increases at Faster Pace, Survey Shows

Business in Chicago moved forward at an accelerated rate during February and the first two months of 1943, a tabulation of indices by THE TRIBUNE's business survey department showed yesterday. Industrial pay rolls and employment, department store sales, the number of passengers carried by the city's transportation systems, electric power output and bank debits rose materially from 1942 levels.

Further indications of improved business conditions were shown in the large declines last month of the number of relief cases and persons on relief.

The totals of building permits and families provided for in new residential building, however, reflected war restrictions on construction by falling far below figures of a year ago.

Using the 1935-'39 average as 100, industrial pay rolls advanced to 244.7 in February, a gain of 29.4 per cent above the month a year ago, and to 238.8 for the first two months, an increase of 26.3 per cent. Industrial employment, at 152.5 for February and 151.1 for the two months, rose 9.7 and 8.6 per cent, respectively.

Department store sales, on the basis of the five year average index figure, were at 144.8 last month, 36.4 per cent higher than a year ago levels, and at 129.3 for the two month period, an advance of 15.8 per cent. Bank debits showed respective increases of 25.1 and 15.4 per cent.

APPROVE PLANS TO PROVIDE NEW TYPE TROOP CARS

Pullman Would Operate Sleepers, Mess Units.

Plans for the operation of 1,200 specially built sleeping cars and 400 mess cars for troops were approved yesterday by the Association of American Railroads at a meeting of more than 100 railroad executives in the Blackstone hotel.

Army and navy officials and the office of defense transportation already have approved the plan and the final decision rests with the war production board.

The Pullman company will operate the cars, supplying porters and keeping them in order. The cars will be built so that they can be used with standard railroad equipment. Each car will provide sleeping facilities for 30 men in berths arranged in tiers three high.

Would Ease Baggage Car Use.

The mess cars will have kitchens, refrigerators and other conveniences and will make it possible to do away with the conversion of many baggage cars now used for mess purposes.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, who was in Chicago for the meeting, said that the proposed cars, which are to be owned by the Defense Plant corporation and leased to the railroads, should help ease the passenger situation. He said the ODT hopes to avoid rationing of passenger travel, which he believes would create a large amount of work for governmental officials.

Rationing "Last Resort."

"We will only go to rationing as a last resort," he said. "We are trying by every means possible to get the public to refrain from unnecessary riding on trains. But if the passenger situation gets too tight we may have to resort to some expedient."

Eastman said the railroads are facing increases in passenger traffic. Meanwhile freight business continues heavy, with the ton miles reported for January and February showing a 29 per cent gain above a year ago. He said that this increase may not be typical because the roads are hauling a large volume of petroleum, which they were not doing a year ago.

He said there is a possibility of further diversion of truck traffic to the railroads because of the loss of man power by the trucking companies. The railroads, too, face further man power problems, he asserted.

RETAIL BUSINESS GAINS, BUT LAGS BELOW YEAR AGO

New York, March 26 (AP).—Retail sales rose this week because of more springlike weather, but volume remained below that of the February peak during the rush for apparel and canned goods, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Volume was estimated at 1 to 3 per cent below a year ago when easier selling neared its climax.

Estimated regional percentage declines were east, 4 to 8; New England, 3 to 5; midwest, 1 to 4; south, 1 to 3, and northwest, 2 to 4. The southwest gained 8 to 13 per cent and the Pacific coast 7 to 11.

Supply of Crude Oil Rises 1.7 Million Barrels in Week

Washington, D. C., March 26 (AP).—The bureau of mines reported today stocks of domestic and foreign crude petroleum at the close of the week ended March 20 totaled 238,417,000 barrels, a net increase of 1,762,000 barrels above the preceding week. Daily average production for the week was 3,904,000 barrels, an increase of 27,000 barrels compared with the preceding week.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP).—Civilian business in cotton textiles continued dull today. Bids were to be submitted on a government order for 206 million yards of herringbone, twills, and drills.

Moderate business was done in men's and women's woolen and worsted wear. The rayon goods market continued tight.

PAY ROLL GAINS IN STATE RESULT OF WAR OUTPUT

Employment Also Rises During Month.

War production in Illinois was a major factor in increased industrial employment and pay rolls in the Chicago area and downstate in the period between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15, State Director of Labor Francis B. Murphy reported yesterday. The increases continued an upward trend during most of the latter half of 1942, which was interrupted by declines in December and January, Murphy said.

The gain in industrial employment was 1 per cent in the state as a whole and that of pay rolls 3.3 per cent. The report was based on a survey of Chicago and suburban cities and 20 downstate cities.

In Chicago, increased activity in the transportation equipment and metals and machinery manufacturing groups was primarily responsible for higher employment and pay rolls, Murphy said. Activity decreased in the food manufacturing group and in the building construction and contracting industries. Employment in the Chicago metropolitan area rose 1 per cent and pay rolls were up 2.6 per cent.

Pay Rolls in Suburbs Gain.

Only the metals and machinery, transportation equipment, paper goods and printing, and the textiles groups recorded gains in employment in suburban cities. Pay roll increases were especially important in the first two groups and were distributed more generally than employment increases.

Average weekly earnings for both men and women workers thruout the state were $40.18 in all industries covered by the survey, and $41.93 in manufacturing industries. This was 87 cents and $1.18 higher, respectively, than in January. Salaries of men in the manufacturing industries were much higher than those of women, averaging $46.57, compared to $26.32 for women workers.

Come from Sample Group.

"The changes in employment and pay rolls are estimated on the basis of reports from a sample group of establishments in which approximately one third of the total number of workers in the nonagricultural establishments of the state are employed," Murphy explained. "These changes are not entirely representative of all lines of industrial activity within the state, as the sample group is overweighted with manufacturing firms and defense plant construction."

He said that with the completion of a large war plant unit, building construction showed decreases in both employment and pay rolls. Increased activity was noted in coal mines and service establishments, but department stores laid off workers and reduced pay rolls.

MICKELBERRY'S FOOD.

What are the principal products of Mickelberry's Food Products company? Please provide a report on recent operations.—B. K.

Answer: Mickelberry's Food Products company produces meat products and cookies. Among the meats are pork sausage, bacon, frankfurters, spiced and other hams, pigs feet, and varieties of sausages.

These products are distributed largely in the Chicago area to retail and chain stores, and restaurants. Two plants are operated in Chicago and one in Bushnell, Ill. The company was incorporated in 1926 in Delaware, succeeding a company organized in 1920 which was an outgrowth of the original business founded in 1893.

Outstanding capitalization on Dec. 31, 1942, consisted of 241,477 shares of $1 par common stock, and 10,196 shares of $2.40 dividend cumulative $20 par preferred. There is no funded debt.

A record of financial results for years ended Dec. 31, follows:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Per shr. [com.]
1942	$7,268,034	$124,167	$0.41
1941	4,754,347	137,960	0.49
1940	2,720,665	111,011	0.38
1939	1,175,506	83,217	0.27
1938	1,774,506	70,560	0.21

Dividends paid on the common stock for the last five calendar years were: 10 cents in 1938, 15 cents in 1939, 20 cents in 1940, none in 1941, and 25 cents in 1942. During 1942 the stock ranged in price on the Chicago Stock exchange from 5 to 2⅞.

Total current assets on Dec. 31, 1942, were $749,994, compared with current liabilities amounting to $498,652. Total assets were $1,295,526.

PAY IN 1944.

I am janitor for three different buildings and am paid $50 a month by each owner. Aren't employers supposed to hold out something for the victory tax?—F. McN.

Answer: If you were employed by one person there would be a victory tax withholding on your monthly pay in excess of $52. But since none of your employers pays you more than $52 a month, none is required to withhold the victory tax. This does not relieve you of the obligation, however, of paying the victory tax. Under the present law you will be required to pay your victory tax in 1944 along with the regular income tax.

Mr. W. R. Blend,
Classified Advertising Manager,
The Chicago Tribune,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Blend:—

Although we have consistently given the Tribune 90% of our newspaper advertising expenditure for the last several years, we occasionally try out other newspapers in order to check our judgment under changing conditions.

One of these newspapers recently suggested a cooperative survey to be made among people applying at this agency for all types of positions, office or factory. The survey embraced applicants from office boy class to $30,000 executive group. The purpose of the survey was to find out which Chicago newspapers were read and to what extent.

For a period of several days, a brief questionnaire, about the size of a postcard, was issued with each new application with a request that the newspaper or newspapers read be indicated. The results follow:

82.2% read the Tribune
36.5% read the American
16.7% read the Daily News
15.7% read the Sun

The results of this survey, made under the direction of a newspaper not the Tribune, have more than confirmed our belief in the leadership of the Chicago Tribune both as to general readers and want ad readers. And we intend, of course, to continue concentrating our advertising effort in the Chicago Tribune, as in the past.

Your's very truly,
MONARCH EMPLOYMENT SYSTEM.

Employment agency finds that far more of its applicants read the Tribune than read all other Chicago newspapers combined.

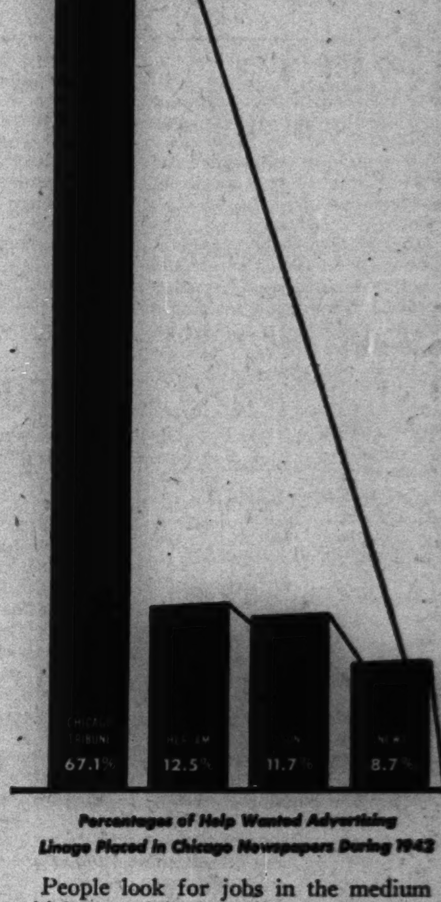
The facts set forth in the above letter make plain why employers and employment agencies place in the Tribune far more of their Help Wanted advertising linage than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

The reason is not hard to find. With hundreds of thousands more circulation, daily and Sunday, than other Chicago newspapers, the Tribune is the one Chicago newspaper which delivers the intensive, full-market coverage needed today by those who want to hire workers.

As Mr. Sheldon's letter points out, it makes no difference whether you want to hire office boys or $30,000 executives. With its broad, penetrating coverage reaching workers in every neighborhood and suburb of Chicago, the Tribune is your medium for hiring entire crews or for locating the one man in ten thousand.

In these days when time is so important, there is no need to experiment with your Help Wanted advertising funds when the Tribune's ability in the employment field is so clear-cut and decisive.

To get the workers you need and want, call SUPerior 0100—Want Ad-Viser.



Percentages of Help Wanted Advertising Linage Placed in Chicago Newspapers During 1942

People look for jobs in the medium in which most jobs are offered. As shown by the chart, the Tribune in 1942 printed more than five times as much Help Wanted advertising linage as any other Chicago newspaper—and far more than all other Chicago newspapers combined.

BRENDA STARR REPORTER
By Dale Messick
DETECTIVE TRAVERTS, WHAT DO YOU MEAN THE MONEY INVESTED IN KEN'S PLAY IS JUST MONEY DOWN THE DRAIN?
KEN McKEE IS AN ESCAPED INMATE OF THE STATE FARM FOR THE INSANE.
WHAT?
HIS WHOLE IDEA, THAT TED JULIAN IS THE MURDERER OF YOUR MOTHER, IS THE RESULT OF HALLUCINATION, COMMON TO MENTAL CASES LIKE HIS.
I—I CAN'T BELIEVE IT! WHAT ABOUT HIS SISTER, FUDGE? SHE MUST HAVE KNOWN!
YES, NO DOUBT....SHE'S A STAGE-STRUCK KID, WHO HAD A WILD HOPE THAT, HOWEVER CRAZY HER BROTHER'S SCHEME WAS, IT MIGHT HAVE WORKED, AND SHE WOULD HAVE GOTTEN HER CHANCE ON BROADWAY.
ONLY LAST WEEK SHE TRIED TO WARN ME!
Copyright, 1943, by The Chicago Tribune.
WHY DID YOU INVESTIGATE THEM?
? ? ? ?
SO, MY LITTLE DETECTIVE! IT LOOKS AS THOUGH YOU'VE MADE RATHER A MESS OF YOUR SLEUTHING, THIS TIME.
THAT'S NOT THE HALF OF IT! YOU SEE, DETECTIVE TRAVERTS, I MADE A BARGAIN WITH LARRY....THAT, IF KEN'S PLAY WAS A SUCCESS, HE'D GET HIS MONEY BACK WITH INTEREST. IF THE PLAY WAS A FLOP AND HIS MONEY LOST....I'D BECOME HIS WIFE!
YES, I KNOW, BRENDA. LARRY IS WAITING.
DARLING, THIS IS OUR WEDDING DAY! I'LL TAKE YOU HOME SO YOU CAN PUT ON THE BRIDAL RAGS I SENT YOU. THE PREACHER IS WAITING.
LARRY, YOU.... YOU....
COME, COME, LITTLE SPITFIRE. BY BEING SO VERY BEAUTIFUL AND SO VERY DUMB, LOOK WHAT YOU GET!
YES, LOOK! A NICKEL!
ALL'S FAIR IN LOVE AND WAR......

Spring floral arrangement by one of Chicago's leading florists, Fred S. Fredericks Presented by Dean Milk Co to Mrs. Leslie K. Lear in acknowledgement of her voluntary testimony published in this advertisement.

MRS. LESLIE K. LEAR
7448 N. CLAREMONT AVE.

A Bouquet from Mrs. Leslie K. Lear and a Bouquet to her from Dean's

"My son—14 years old—demands Dean's to the exclusion of any other milk"

These are the words of Mrs. Leslie K. Lear: "Here's the way we found out about Dean's," she continued in a recent interview. "One day we ran short of milk and I bought an extra quart at a nearby grocer's. It happened to be Dean's and after my youngster had a glass of it he insisted that we use no other milk but Dean's from then on. He says that Dean's always tastes so much better.

"Speaking for myself, it is not alone the exceptional quality of Dean's that I appreciate, such as the richer character and fresher flavor; the paper bottle is also a special feature—a work saving feature that I like. My family uses at least 28 quarts of Dean's a week. If these were supplied in glass bottles, think of all extra washing and handling that would mean to a busy housewife!

"I'm glad to recommend Dean's to every Chicago family. Try it—and you'll be happy you did!"
